DIES WILL TAKE HIS RED INQUIRY PLEA TO PUBLIC

Pledges Revelations at Massmeetings.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—Assailing the Roosevelt administration for hampering his committee's investigation of un-American activities, Representative Martin Dies (D., Tex.) today announced a series of massmeetings to educate the American people on the deeds and plots of subversive groups in the United States. The congressman will address the meetings, the first of which will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Nov. 29, under the auspices of patriotic organizations.

[A. P. Wirephoto.]

In the course of a press conference with the chairman of the investigating committee held upon his return from New Orleans, Chicago, and Detroit, where he held hearings, Mr. Dies charged the Russian government with underground efforts to overthrow the American form of government by force and violence. These communist plottings he pronounced a wilful violation of the antipropaganda pledge the soviets gave in consideration of recognition of their government by the United States.

Would Sever Relations.

"Unless the soviets give definite assurance that this won't happen any more, we ought to sever relations with them," said Dies.

The congressman predicted that unless the activities of subversive groups are checked there will be a wave of sabotage and violence because communists "will seek to stop the manufacture and shipment of munitions to the allies."

The Dies committee's investigation, which has been in progress about two years, has cost $125,000 to date. The life of the committee is due to expire Jan. 3 next, when the third session of the 76th congress will convene. Dies will move the continuation of the investigation and another appropriation by the house.

Dies Tells of Opposition.

The first appropriation was $25,000. When that was expended Dies sought $100,000 more. The President turned thumbs down on the investigation, which was exposing the penetration of the New Deal by the communists, and the administration exerted its influence in the house to block further allowance of funds.

So many congressmen had been hearing demands from their constituents, however, for continuation of the investigation that the Democratic controlled house voted overwhelmingly for the continuation of the investigation with the additional $100,000 requested. Since the recent revelation that 300 communist "fellow travelers" hold jobs in the administration, the White House is more antagonistic than ever to the Dies committee.

Wants Government Aid.

Dies said today that if he could get the aid of government agencies there would be sufficient for the completion of the inquiry; otherwise it would take from $200,000 to $300,000.

He demanded that the administration openly "take the responsibility for continuing or killing the investigation.

Asked about the aid given by the administration so far, the chairman chortled:

"By golly, we just haven't got it. They're against us, let them come out and say it.

"If they're for us, let them come out and say that. Then the people will know and the people can pass on it. We've done the damn best we can, and the people and congress can review it.

"I am going to leave it up to the people whether we are going to continue it. I'm worn out, I'm tired. If I could get out of it honorably I'd get out tomorrow, because it's a headache from beginning to end. But I'm going to stick with it until they take the responsibility for continuing or killing it."

BOOTLEG KING SUES ESTATE FOR $196,000

Seeks Payment for Stolen Liquor.

George Remus, bootlegger king of the prohibition era, filed a claim for $196,000 in Probate court yesterday against the estate of Edward J. O'Hare, whose career as liquor dealer, race track impresario, and front man for the Capone gang was ended Nov. 8 by shotgun assassins.

It was learned that the claim represents the balance Remus asserts is due him from O'Hare for liquor O'Hare and 21 other persons were convicted of stealing from Remus' bonded warehouse in St. Louis, Mo., in 1923. Remus was the chief witness for the government in the federal court trial that resulted in O'Hare being sentenced to serve a year in prison and to pay a fine of $500.

Conviction Is Reversed.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, O., reversed the O'Hare conviction in 1926 and remanded it for a new trial. Soon afterward, however, O'Hare is said to have agreed to repay Remus for the liquor. In addition, it was said, the bootlegger king was given an interest in O'Hare-Capone dog racing tracks here and in Florida.

Remus then let it be known he would not be a witness against O'Hare in a second trial. O'Hare never was retried.

The disclosures that followed the Remus suit yesterday presented a new chapter in the maze of O'Hare's far-flung financial deals. At the time of his death, the millionaire president of Sportsman's Park race track here had an income which thus far has been estimated at more than $500,000 a year.

Other Holdings Told.

In addition to Sportsman's Park, O'Hare was a stockholder in Tropical Park in Miami, Fla., and controled the Miami Beach Kennel club. He had large holdings in dog tracks in Taunton, Mass., Memphis, Tenn., and Jacksonville, Fla. In Chicago he held large blocks of real estate and was associated with Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland in a realty enterprise. He had an insurance company and two advertising firms here and formerly was a partner in a trucking company in St. Louis with a Missuri state senator.

His trust funds, bank accounts, and securities found in safety deposit vaults ran into thousands of dollars. Investigators expect still more will come to light.

Meets Death in Auto.

O'Hare met a death as spectacular as his financial ventures when shotgun assassins overtook him on Nov. 8 as he raced his coupe along Ogden avenue, near Rockwell street, in a futile effort to outdistance them. Two charges of shot struck him in the head and neck.

Even before the funeral O'Hare's life story began unfolding swiftly with a series of disclosures that as front man for the Capone syndicate race tracks he had been the confidante of politicians and leaders in the world of sports and had been friendly with at least one governor. It was revealed also that he had been warned that Al Capone, behind the walls of Alcatraz prison, was raging and threatening to "have O'Hare's life."

The most startling development was the disclosure of O'Hare as the man who provided the government with witnesses who were instrumental in convicting Capone of income tax fraud and sending him to a cell. That O'Hare's death was decreed by his gangland associates, investigators have no doubt.

Swindle "Bootlegger King."

Remus earned his title of bootlegger king thru widespread liquor deals that began in 1921 and netted him 20 million dollars before 1924 when he and thirteen hirelings went to Atlanta federal prison. Most of the liquor Remus handled was withdrawn thru bribery and other methods from government warehouses.

It was sold in New York, Washington, and many other large cities, including Chicago, where, it is reported, the chief distributor was the Capone gang. Remus served nineteen months in Atlanta and later did a year in an Ohio county jail. His fines totaled more than $100,000. Since his final release Remus has been seeking to recoup money and holdings which he

Find $287,300 in Hoard of a 'Poor' Widow

Mrs. Janet Lincoln, a widow, 56 years old, died on Nov. 15 in the University hospital. Everybody who knew her supposed that she died with little or no estate.

She had been living with relatives at 1221 North Springfield avenue, to whom she paid only $5 a week for room, board, laundry, and general care. She told them that was all she could afford to pay.

Mrs. Lincoln had dressed simply. Her wardrobe was ordinary in quantity as well as quality. And, so far as could be seen, she lived with the utmost frugality.

A Fortune Is Revealed

Yesterday a safety deposit box, taken out under her maiden name of Janet Krullaars, was opened in the Pioneer Trust & Savings bank, 4000 North avenue. A lawyer, James R. Glass, various bank officials, and several men from the state treasurer's office were startled at what the box revealed.

In neat little packets were crisp $1,000 bills. All told, there were 275 of them. There were also several $500 bills. The money found in the box amounted to $279,000.

In the same bank the investigators turned up $5,000 in a checking account. In a loop bank they came across $3,300 more in a savings account, making the grand total $287,300. There was some talk last night Mrs. Lincoln's fortune might run up to $800,000, but this was disputed by her lawyer, Mr. Glass, who was formerly United States commissioner in Chicago.

Amazement at Discovery.

Attorney Glass, William Krullaars, 6537 Maryland avenue, who is Mrs. Lincoln's brother, and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Van Der Harst, with whom she roomed at 1221 North Springfield avenue, said they were amazed at the discovery of the $287,000.

"She came to live with us two months ago," said Van Der Harst, who lives in a four room cottage. "She was sick. She let us know she was poor. We certainly thought she was, so we took her in for $5 a week. For that she got room, board, and laundry. She never spent a dime extra that we can remember."

"When she went to the hospital a few weeks ago," continued the Van Der Harst, "she gave us two or three blank checks and one for $500. She said that was to pay her funeral expenses. We thought that was all she had."

Mrs. Lincoln had a private room in the hospital, but did not give the appearance of wealth, according to attachés. Her physician was Dr. Marshall Davison, new head of the county hospital. He believed her to be in modest circumstances, he said.

One of the most amazed was Attorney Glass, for many years counsel for Mrs. Lincoln and her husband, Willis L. Lincoln. Mr. Lincoln, who died in August, 1938, was an independent real estate broker, who also had an interest in an amusement park in Rockford, Ill. Friends said the Lincolns once specialized in reselling furniture direct out of apartments.

"Once they were considered well to do," said Mr. Glass, "but in 1937 they lost their 16 apartment building at 2300 Farwell avenue thru foreclosure. They could have saved it with $16,000, but they said they didn't have the money. They even said they were too poor to pay simple costs for an appeal. The building originally cost them $119,000."

Mr. Glass said that while the Lincolns pleaded poverty they traveled a great deal.

STROKE OF PEN PUTS $30 A WEEK CLERK $2,500,000 IN DEBT

New York, Nov. 24 [Special].—William Cooper, head porter of a large apartment development, made a shocking discovery today when he went on the witness stand in federal court and looked at a paper he had signed in 1930.

Cooper, who is nearing 60, was a $30 a week clerk for the New York Title and Mortgage company in that year, before it failed in 1930 with outstanding mortgage guarantees of $720,000,000. Under the questioning of Special Assistant Attorney General Bernard Thompkins, he said he frequently signed papers when some officer of the company brought them to him and said, "sign here, Willie."

Tompkins handed him a document and Willie identified his signature on it. Then, when Tompkins read it, Willie learned for the first time that it was a bond for a mortgage on a building at 895 Park avenue and that he had promised to pay "on demand after date the sum of $2,500,000." He also learned that he still owes the money and his only escape is to go into bankruptcy.

On trial are George T. Mortimer, former president of the mortgage company; H. Pushae Williams, Hubert F. Breitweiser, and Joseph C. Shields.

Scientific Test Accuses Mate in Wife Killing

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 24 [Special].—A tiny aspirin tablet and a daub of shoe polish combined to bring about the arrest tonight of Herbert F. Patterson on a charge of murdering his wife, Mrs. Farrell Patterson, 46 years old.

Patterson, a $5,400 a year automobile engineer for the Chrysler corporation, was seized at Hart, Mich., where he was visiting an uncle and held for return to Mount Clemens, county seat of Macomb county, where his wife was slain. He was arrested on the recommendation of a coroner's jury.

The crime occurred last Oct. 26 in the Patterson home at St. Clair Shores, a Detroit suburb in Macomb county. Mrs. Patterson had been stabbed. The crime was thought at first to be the work of a burglar, robber, or maniac. No clews were immediately found.

Tells of Happy Home Life.

When questioned Patterson said he had been married 25 years and that his home life was happy. He said he had last seen his wife at 7:30 a. m., when he left for work. Mrs. Patterson, he said, seemed in normal health, altho suffering from a slight indisposition due to some beer she had drunk the night before.

"I gave her an aspirin tablet and a glass of milk, and then I left for work," he related.

Authorities accepted his story. During the subsequent inquiry they seized several suspects, including a Negro handy man on the Patterson place, but released them. The investigation was impeded for a time by friction between Prosecutor Ivan A. Johnston and Coroner Roy Kaul. State police finally entered the inquiry.

Medical Expert Reports.

A few days ago they invited the help of Dr. Le Moyne Snyder of Lansing, their noted medical expert. He had Mrs. Patterson's body exhumed, but was unable to find any trace of aspirin. This police deemed important as serving to discredit Patterson's story that he had given his wife aspirin.

The Dr. Snyder examined a pair of Patterson's shoes which had been found in his closet at home the day of the murder. They had been freshly shined at the time. The fresh polish on the shoes was analyzed. In it, Dr. Snyder reported, he found traces of blood, which, he added, might have dripped upon the shoes.

Upon that evidence, plus two butcher knives from the Patterson home which were found miles away, a coroner's jury ordered Patterson's arrest.

Reveals Hitler Aids Kill Dutch Army Officer

THE HAGUE, Nov. 24 (AP).—The Amsterdam newspaper Het Volk said today that a Netherlands army intelligence officer, Lieut. Klop, was killed in the Venloo frontier incident of Nov. 9 when German secret police seized two British intelligence officers as spies.

The two Britons while in this country described themselves as being engaged in undercover peace efforts, Netherlands officials declared.

The Netherlands version is that the Britons on the day before the Venloo incident had discussed only the possibility of initiating peace negotiations in a meeting with two unidentified Germans at a café near the border.

Two Britons Abducted.

On the next day Lieut. Klop and a chauffeur named J. Lemmens were with the Britons—Lieut. Klop in the interests of Netherlands neutrality—when the intelligence officer was shot and the two Britons and the chauffeur were abducted, Netherlands officials said.

German police have identified the British prisoners as Sigismund Payne Best, intelligence officer of the British general staff during the world war, and Capt. Richard Henry Stevens, chief of the European staff of the British intelligence service. They have accused both of implication in the Munich beer hall blast of Nov. 8, which Adolf Hitler escaped by 12 minutes.

The Britons and their companions were seized next day at Venloo on the German border.

Carried Into Germany.

Netherlands newspapers, which previously had reported the incident in guarded language, said that one of the four was shot and all were carried into Germany by eight Germans armed with machine guns and rifles.

German accounts said there were contradictory reports concerning the location.

The Amsterdam Telegraaf answered sharply a German statement that the Netherlands officer had two passports in his possession when he was seized. The newspaper said this was no concern of the German secret police since the officer was on Netherlands soil when he was seized.

"It is The Hague and not Berlin which had to judge this," the Telegraaf said. "The kidnaping of four persons, two of whom were Dutch, the murder of one of them, stealing a car and threatening with a gun honorable Dutch citizens is something that claims redress."

Netherlands newspapers insisted Capt. Stevens was connected with the British passport control office at The Hague and had been assisting refugees from Germany.

Germans Warn Holland.

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP).—The semi-official commentary Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz tonight directed a guarded warning at the Netherlands in connection with the seizure of Capt. Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, two alleged British spies, on the Netherlands-German frontier Nov. 9.

Without mentioning the neighboring state, altho the reference was obvious, the foreign office mouthpiece said:

"Neutral states are regarded [by England] as most suitable—because they are the safest—places where necessary preparations can be undertaken in order to threaten or undermine Germany's security.

"This connection in certain places already has developed so far that the determination no longer exists to see matters the way they are and act accordingly.

Called "Sinister Elements."

"On the contrary, sinister elements—notorious for the fact that they are expressly commissioned from London to work for the disintegration of Germany—are passed off as harmless apostles of peace who, in the sense of their efforts, are worthy of every possible support.

"Such laughable matters provoke serious thought. For the way matters exist today symptoms thereby are disclosed which Germany cannot disregard, but rather require its most earnest attention."

DNB, official news agency, disclosed that Georg Elser, German accused of planting the Munich beer cellar bomb intended for Adolf Hitler, was within

BRITAIN ADMITS BLAST DAMAGED CRUISER IN PORT

20 Men Hurt; Blame U-Boat or Mine.

London Bottled Up

LONDON, Nov. 24—Parachute mines planted in the estuary of the river Thames by two German planes forced the British to close the port of London for several hours yesterday. All ships seeking to enter or leave the port were kept at anchor until mine sweepers had cleared the channel. A large convoy, preceded by mine sweepers, entered the Thames early this morning. It is reported that other international waterways in the English channel also have been closed while mine sweepers attempt to clear out German mines.

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Breaking a three day silence, the British admiralty tonight admitted that a torpedo or mine had damaged the new 10,000 ton cruiser Belfast last Tuesday in the Firth of Forth naval base in Scotland. Twenty men were injured. The admiralty said the Belfast now was undergoing repairs.

Map locates sea and air activity.

The admiralty had withheld comment on reports abroad since Tuesday that the Belfast had been damaged by a German submarine which slipped into the British naval base and the announcement today by the German high command that a submarine commander had confirmed the reports of a raid on the Firth of Forth.

One of Britain's Fastest Ships.

If it was a submarine that damaged the Belfast, this is the second time a German U-boat has penetrated the defenses of a British naval base. On Oct. 14 a submarine entered Scapa Flow and sank the battleship Royal Oak. More than 800 British officers and men were killed.

Launched in 1938, the Belfast is strongly protected and is understood to have been designed to withstand eight inch shell fire. It carries three airplanes with a catapult, 12 six inch guns, 12 four inch antiaircraft guns, and six torpedo tubes. One of Britain's fastest cruisers, it has a speed rating of 32½ knots.

The sea lanes upon which Great Britain depends for food bore new losses today and there was increasing tension over neutral complaints against the threatened British blockade of German exports.

British Steamer Sunk.

The latest victim of east coast mines—some of which the British assert were laid by German planes—was the 8,886 ton British steamer Mangalore, whose crew of 77 was saved. It was the 83d British ship, naval and merchant, reported sunk since the war began on Sept. 3.

The toll of ships lost in little more than a week rose to 37 with the disclosure that the 5,133 ton Netherlands tanker Sliedrecht was torpedoed by a German submarine last week.

Five survivors of the Sliedrecht were landed at a northwest coast port by a trawler after spending seven and one-half days in an open boat. Twenty-six others were missing. One survivor said the submarine torpedoed the Sliedrecht, altho informed it was a neutral bound for a neutral port.

Two Vessels Beached.

Two vessels damaged in previous mishaps were beached today to keep them from sinking. They were the Italian steamer Pianosa, 6,660 tons, which struck a mine Tuesday night off the southeast coast and had been under tow, and the Greek steamer Nicholaos Plangos, 4,450 tons, which was in a collision Wednesday with the Norwegian ship Brarena.

The admiralty announced that casualties of the destroyer Gipsy, which struck a mine Wednesday, were 29 men missing and believed dead instead of 40 missing, as first announced.

Reuters [British news agency] reported from Lourenco Marques that the German liner Watussi, 9,521 tons, had slipped out of that Portuguese East Africa harbor last night after having been there since the European war began.

Planes Fly Over Shetlands.

German planes flew over the Shetland Islands twice. There were two air raid warnings, one of 90 minutes and one 42 minutes. No bombs were dropped.

The British turned to the laboratory and to the overall-clad fishermen for help in overcoming Germany's intensified mine warfare, which one naval authority termed an extremely grave menace.

Explosive and electrical experts—all sorts of scientists—were concentrating on finding a counterweapon to the mines. In addition, trawlermen stepped up their efforts to sweep the sea lanes clear of the explosives.

With Britain now determined to halt German exports, an order in council authorizing the seizure of such cargoes on the high seas, even in neutral ships, was expected next Tuesday.

At least four protests were on file or in the offing. The Netherlands and Belgium already have protested and a Danish trade delegation is in London to thrash out war trade problems, including the export blockade. Italy today called to the attention of Britain and France the possible consequences of the blockade on Italy's commerce.

Britain has declared the German mine warfare illegal, thus seeking to justify seizing exports despite the declaration of Paris in 1856 outlawing such seizures.

Damage Heavy, Germans Say.

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP).—The German high command today proclaimed a new success in submarine warfare against the British navy—heavy damage to the new cruiser Belfast in the Firth of Forth in the second serious raid on that base.

The first serious raid was made on Oct. 16, when bombing planes attacked three warships. Casualties occurred aboard the cruisers Southampton and Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk.

German officials threatened sharp retaliation against Great Britain's campaign to destroy Germany's commerce.

The British decision to seize German exports drew the warning from one official that "our principle of conducting the war—namely: firing ten shots back for every shot against us—will be used in the economic sphere also."

With the sinking of numerous neutral ships near the English coast by mines in the last week, Nazis told neutrals through the press that no free shipping lanes to England exist. They advised the neutrals to adopt the American plan of cash and carry as the only solution of their difficulties.

There was no direct admission that the mines off the British coast were German, but it was stated officially that Germany had a right to lay them there if it desired.

Report 3 German Ships Seized.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 24 (AP).—Sources with wide shipping connections reported today that three German freighters had been captured in the Atlantic by British and French patrol vessels and another German freighter had been scuttled to avoid capture.

The three vessels reported seized were the 3,670 ton Borkum, the 2,185 ton Eilbek, and the 969 ton Leander. The Tenerife was said to have been sent down by its own crew when the patrol approached.

[Lloyd's shipping register lists two vessels named Tenerife, both German. The Buenos Aires report failed to state which ship was lost.]

The Borkum slipped out of Montevideo last month without clearance papers, authorities said, and thus was classed under international law as a pirate ship. Its home port was Bremen and it was engaged in the South American trade before the war started.

FRANKIE PARKER'S WIFE IS SUED FOR 'AN ACCOUNTING

Mrs. Nellie Parker, wife of Frankie Parker, was made defendant yesterday in a suit for an accounting of the funds realized from the sale of stock in the Bismarck Brewing company at 2752 Archer avenue. Parker, known as the millionaire airplane bootlegger in prohibition days, was sentenced to two years in federal prison last April on a counterfeiting charge.

Defendants with Mrs. Parker are the brewing company, George J. Halligan, attorney, and Edward R. Litsinger, former member of the board of review. The suit was brought by the Chicago State Pawners' Association, Ltd., which asserts it bought 4,500 shares of the brewery stock at $5 a share. This, the association contends, was part of a $1,000,000 issue ostensibly floated to buy the brewery property from Mrs. Parker.

The suit asserts that the property was worth only $100,000.

Litsinger was made a defendant solely, according to the suit, because the association wishes to restrain him from making a payment on a debt to Mrs. Parker.

LOSS OF SHIPS BRINGS BOOST IN RISK RATES

New York, Nov. 24 [Special.]—Recent losses of merchant vessels in European waters were reflected by an increase in war risk marine insurance rates ordered by underwriters today.

On shipments carried in belligerent or neutral vessels to Great Britain, the Irish Free State, Belgium, The Netherlands, and France, rates were increased to $6 per $100 valuation from a previous level of $5.

Rates on cargo carried in United States vessels from Norway, not south of Bergen by the northern route, were raised to $2.50 a $100 from $1.50. Rates of $5 for westbound and $6 for eastbound voyages of neutral vessels were established to all other Norwegian ports, Denmark, and Sweden not beyond Malmo. Previously the rate both ways was $4.75.

Cargo on neutral flag vessels touching at a belligerent port now carries a rate of $6 on westbound and $7 on eastbound trips, compared with $5.75 before.

BANDIT SELECTS WEDDING GEMS.

One of two gunmen who held up the jewelry store at 3505 South Kaisted street yesterday selected a $50 wedding set—engagement and wedding rings—from the display counter, The manager, Rebeh Berkowitz, said two $10 watches and $4 nine were taken.

DUTCH CABINET MAPS ACTION TO PROTECT TRADE

Both Britain and Germany Targets of Criticism.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, Nov. 24 (AP).—The growing war problems of the neutral Netherlands, hemmed in by belligerents, were considered today by the cabinet at a special meeting.

At the same time vigorous criticisms were directed by the press against both Great Britain and Germany.

There was no official announcement at the conclusion of the cabinet session, but it was understood the government was concerned gravely over new shipping difficulties.

Silent on Ship Sinking.

Shortly after the cabinet meeting news was received that the 5,133 ton tanker Sliedrecht had been sunk in the Atlantic—the first Netherlands victim of a submarine. Last Saturday the Netherlands liner, Simon Bolivar, was sunk by a mine in the North sea with a loss of 85 lives.

The government withheld immediate comment on the sinking of the Sliedrecht, but newspapers carried under large headlines a London story attributing the sinking to the Germans.

The entire Netherlands press continued to give much attention to the British announcement that England intended to seize German exports on neutral ships.

"What is happening on the sea," said the Telegraaf, "is a glaring injustice against the countries which want to stay out of the conflict.

Says Holland Is Not Alone.

"Holland is not alone. There are neutrals which have more means of power than we. In the first place, Italy, then Russia, and Japan. It may be sensible to await what they do and see what they can achieve by diplomatic means."

The Amsterdam Algemeen Handelsblad said both Britain and Germany had taken measures which hit neutrals as well as belligerents and that it was unreasonable for Germany to blame neutrals for the decrease in its trade.

With 175 Americans among its 1,200 passengers, the Holland-America liner Statendam sailed for New York from Rotterdam today. Line officials said it carried no German cargo.

The vessel sailed after restricted shipping had been resumed 24 hours after Netherlands lines had suspended operations on advice of the government. Sailings to British ports in the mined North sea area still are excluded.

Italy Indicates Displeasure.

ROME, Nov. 24 (AP).—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, today called to the attention of the French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet, and the British charge d'affaires, Sir Noel Charles, the possible consequences the empires' blockade of Germany might have on Italy's commerce.

The conferences were announced in an official communique.

Fascist circles attributed special importance to Ciano's meetings with the envoys, since this was the first time in many weeks that an official announcement has been made of visits of French or British diplomats to the Italian foreign ministry.

EUROPEAN WAR PLAYS TRICKS ON CANADIAN TRADE

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24 [Special].—Few things about the strange European war have been stranger for Canada than the fact that in the first two months of the conflict her exports to the United States, which were supposed to decrease, increased, and her exports to Britain, which were supposed to increase, decreased.

Canadian exports to the United States rose from $27,000,000 in October, last year, to $48,000,000 last month, while those to Britain dropped from $36,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The virtual doubling of Canadian exports to the United States in the early months of the war can be accounted for, Bank of Canada officials say, by special war conditions. The theory was advanced that Britain, before the new United States neutrality regulations prevented it, had been making use of United States ports and ships to import Canadian wheat and metals.

Reveal John G. Nicolay Alien While Lincoln's Aid

Pittsfield, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—Old records of Pike county disclosed today that John George Nicolay wasn't a United States citizen during the time he was private secretary to President Abraham Lincoln. Fred Niebur, deputy Circuit court clerk, said he found a record showing Nicolay received naturalization papers Oct. 12, 1870, several years after he served as Lincoln's secretary. Nicolay was born in the kingdom of Bavaria, now a German state. His father was an early Pike county resident.

North Sea Mines Keeping Wood Cargoes from Britain

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 24 (AP).—Twenty ships carrying Russian timber are tied up here awaiting orders. Several bound for England, including two Estonian, two Finnish, and one Swedish vessel, are unloading their cargoes here because they were unwilling to brave mines in the North Sea.

MARITIME UNION VOTES ON STRIKE FOR EAST COAST

New York, Nov. 24 [Special].—The National Maritime union, which has been in a deadlock with steamship operators of the American Merchant Marine institute, today began a 30 day strike referendum among the unions representing general cargo and passenger lines of the east coast. The union's national council authorized the referendum on Nov. 6.

Negotiations for a new contract to replace last year's agreement, which has been extended from time to time and is now effective until the end of the year, bogged down on Sept. 26. Neither side would recede from its position on the question of hiring. The union demands the rotary hiring system which the operators say would remove administration of their businesses from the owners' hands.

The companies offered preferential hiring and agreed to compel nonunion employés to join the National Maritime union within a certain period after signing up, but the union negotiators insisted on rotary hiring.

Chile Expects to Obtain German Rail Equipment

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—Chile was said by a commerce department official to be expecting Germany to deliver a large order of railroad equipment despite the newly announced British blockade on exports from Germany. Mervin L. Bohan, commercial attaché at Santiago, based his belief of Chile's expectations of getting the railroad equipment on the fact that Chile now has published a Sept. 30 decree facilitating the purchase. Chile ordered 11 electric trains, 5 Diesel electric trains, 3 electric locomotives, and additional equipment from Germany before the war started.

45 feet of freedom when he was caught at the Swiss border.

The agency added that Elser had in his pockets materials left over from the construction of the infernal machine and other documents, including the beer cellar plans. DNB said his object in taking this incriminating evidence with him was to be able to convince Swiss authorities that he engineered the blast in order to prevent his extradition as a political fugitive.

[The British Broadcasting corporation in London said last night that, according to reports from Paris, Georg Elser, accused of planting the bomb, had been a prisoner in the Dachau concentration camp from October, 1937, until a week ago. The broadcast said he and another prisoner, Karl Buchholz, were led to the Swiss frontier last week and then brought to Munich. German secret police announced Elser was arrested Nov. 12.]

Say Britons Probed Peace Offer.

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—Authoritative British sources said today that the two Britons seized Nov. 9 by the German secret police on the German-Netherlands border were endeavoring to see if a German "peace offer was bona fide" when they were "kidnaped."

The peace proposals came from some German sources, a British spokesman said. Everything Capt. Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, the two Britons, learned "was transmitted to their own government and it was in the course of the endeavors to see if the peace offer was bona fide that they were kidnaped," he asserted.

The spokesman confirmed reports from Amsterdam that a Netherlands observer was accompanying Best and Stevens when they were taken by the secret police.

Charges "Gross Inefficiency."

Replying to German charges that the British inspired the Munich explosion, the British spokesman said the German secret police must either have known the bomb was in the cellar long before it exploded or admit to "gross inefficiency."

In case they knew, the spokesman continued, the explosion was "either to inflame hatred against the British or whip up the German people's waning enthusiasm for Hitler."

The spokesman did not reveal the nature of the purported peace proposal or from what German faction it was supposed to have come.

SPEEDING TRIPS ST. CHARLES GRAD FOR MAIL THEFTS

A week ago Norman W. Lynch, 2111 South 49th avenue, Cicero, was released from the county jail after serving 50 days for speeding. On Monday he was arrested again for speeding. In his pockets police found an automobile club card made out to another man.

Lynch admitted he had stolen the card from the mail box of Harry W. Payne, 1827 49th court, Cicero. Postal Inspector Thomas G. Rowan questioned Lynch and he confessed to looting other mail boxes. A search of the records showed that on Dec. 9, 1938, he was released from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he served two years on a charge of rifling the mails. Nine years ago he served at St. Charles School for Boys on a theft charge.

Yesterday Lynch appeared before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and was ordered held to the federal grand jury in $2,500 bond on a charge of stealing from the mails.

GERMAN AGENTS REPORTED BARING HALIFAX SECRETS

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 24 [Canadian Press].—A Halifax dispatch today to The Windsor Daily Star said German agents in Halifax were sending short wave wireless information to Germany about Canadian ship operations.

Officials have reason to suspect, the dispatch said, that "right here in Halifax" Germany has a fairly adequate intelligence service.

The story said that the hour of departure and size of a certain fleet of merchantmen was supposed to be a strict secret, "yet the convoy hardly had cleared the harbor when a German short wave radio was broadcasting the fact."

ADMITS ATTEMPT TO SWINDLE BOY OUT OF 30 CENTS

Thirty cents looked big last night to Joseph Hugya, 9 years old, because his father had given him the money to buy meat and bread. Policemen Joseph Moran and Harry Ryley of the Chicago Lawn station, on the watch for a man who has been swindling boys, saw a stranger stop the child in front of a grocery at 2424 63d street. They arrested the man, who said he was John Baker, 40, recently arrived from New York. Police said he confessed that he had tried to get the boy to give him the money. The officers watched Joseph buy his groceries and sent him home to 6250 South Campbell avenue.

POLICE SUSPECT TOO EAGER HOST; HE'S A BURGLAR

A young man looked out when police looked in early yesterday at a restaurant at 2006 South State street. "Come on in," the young man said, "and have something to eat on the house. The place belongs to my brother-in-law."

But the young man's invitation struck police as a strange one. They questioned him, and he confessed that they had surprised him robbing the restaurant and he had invited them in to avert suspicion. He identified himself at the central station as Ramirez Cruz, 19 years old, a Mexican living at 511 West 28th street.

Explode Bombs in Home Town of Chamberlain

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A fresh series of bomb outrages, imputed to elements of the outlawed Irish Republican army, occurred tonight in Birmingham, where two explosions in telephone booths and a fire in a mail box spread fear that the city was being attacked by air raiders. No one was injured. The explosions in the heart of the home city of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain shattered basement windows over a wide area.

CANADA TOLD ONE YEAR'S WAR BURDEN WILL BE $315,000,000

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24 (AP).—Finance Minister J. L. Ralston tonight estimated at $315,000,000 the cost of Canada's war effort for the first year—almost 50 per cent greater than her expenditures in the last war up to March, 1916.

The finance minister, in a radio address, said the government soon would start construction of a fleet of antisubmarine craft. He added that discussions also were under way looking toward possible construction in Canada of larger ships.

The war supply board, Ralston asserted, now has Canadian contracts for $25,000,000 worth of war supplies, $9,000,000 in the United Kingdom, and $10,000,000 for airplanes in the United States of America. The minister forecast loan issues in which investors would be asked to participate as plans progressed.

ENGLAND FREES U. S. LINER AFTER 27 DAY HOLDUP

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—The American liner Scanpenn, held 27 days by the British in a contraband search, was freed today at Leith, Scotland, the ship's operators said.

The Scanpenn, 5,152 gross tons, left New York on Oct. 17 with 11 passengers for Bergen, Oslo, Gothenburg, and Copenhagen. It was stopped by British naval vessels and taken into Kirkwall on Oct. 28. On Nov. 12 it was taken to Leith.

Officials of the American Scantic Line said they assumed that the vessel was taken to Leith because the British wanted to remove some of its cargo there. No official word has been received here from England.

The Scanpenn was sold recently to Brazil and was making its last trip as an American vessel.

FRENCH REPULSE GERMAN ATTACK EAST OF MOSELLE

Military Rule Is Lifted in Nine Departments.

PARIS, Nov. 24 (AP).—Germany lost a few prisoners in an unsuccessful raid on the French line east of the Moselle river, the French high command reported tonight. The raid noted in the evening high command communique was the only action reported beside the usual local artillery actions along the western front.

In the air, the communique said activity had been reduced but the British and French air forces were said to have bagged 20 German planes in the last four days.

Premier Edouard Daladier tonight announced a decision to lift military rule from eight departments facing the Italian border and the Mediterranean island of Corsica, also a French department.

Spur to Economic Activity.

The announcement, which came after a conference of defense chiefs, said the move was designed to facilitate economic activity of the country "as far as is compatible with the present situation."

Beside Corsica, the departments freed of the military classification were Ain, Haute-Savoie, Savoie, Isere, Hauts-Alpes, Basse-Alpes, Alpes-Maritimes, and Var.

Districts directly bordering Italy, however, will be subjected to special precautions on communications and circulation permits.

British Casualties Hit 191.

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP).—The latest royal air force casualty list, published tonight, carried the names of 7 men killed in action and 19 killed in active service, which covers training accidents and other causes.

The last previous list, published Nov. 18, gave the total of 165 British airmen killed since the beginning of the war. The 26 deaths reported tonight brought the war total to 191. In addition to those listed as killed one was listed as missing and believed killed in action and nine missing in active service.

The name of one Canadian was on tonight's list, that of Flying Officer H. E. H. Overall, killed in active service. His nearest relatives live in Niagara, Ont.

MISS JUDY BUTLER.

Miss Judy Butler, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody Butler, 580 North Washington road, Lake Forest, lost her left foot yesterday when she slipped and fell as she was trying to board a moving North Western suburban train at the Lake Forest station.

Miss Butler's father already had boarded the train, known as the Millionaires' Special, as it pulled out, and she was running along the track, ready to jump on a following car, when the accident occurred. The train was halted and Miss Butler, accompanied by her father, was taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest.

Miss Butler, whose real name is Jessica, was a debutante in 1936, and has since been a favorite in the younger set of north shore society. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Hermon Beardsley Butler.

WOUNDED KILLER FOUND IN HIDEOUT IS CRITICALLY ILL

Oscar Bragg, 35 years old, the one time colored entertainer who on Thursday confessed that he was the bandit who shot and killed Vito Addante, world war veteran, in the holdup of Addante's grocery store Nov. 17, was in a critical condition in the Bridewell hospital last night. Police said questioning of the bandit will be delayed until he shows improvement.

Bragg was captured when policemen broke into his attic hideout at 18 East 60th street. He was suffering from wounds received when Pasquale Addante, 13, son of Vito Addante, fired several shots at him as he fled from the grocery at 369 East 54th street. He was traced thru his brother, William, 5738 Indiana avenue, who had aided him in obtaining medical treatment for his wounds. William Bragg was questioned yesterday by Alexander Napoli, assistant state's attorney, and then released.

CAMPBELL SEEKS EARLY TAX TRIAL FOR 'ANNENBERG

The government will press for early trial of income tax charges against M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and New Deal critic, at the hearing set for Monday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. William J. Campbell, United States attorney, made this announcement yesterday as he returned from a conference with Attorney General Frank Murphy in Washington. He denied reports that a settlement of the Annenberg case had been arranged.

"I have no knowledge of any plan on the part of Annenberg to enter a guilty plea, and I certainly will make no recommendation for leniency," Campbell said. "Certainly a defendant doing so can expect consideration from the court."

Annenberg and several associates in companies dispensing racing information have been indicted on charges of evading income taxes in excess of $3,000,000. The racing information services have since been dissolved.

12 TAVERNS, TOLD TO CLOSE, STILL DOING BUSINESS

On Nov. 3 the Illinois liquor control commission ruled that 12 taverns in the northwestern part of Cook county had no licenses and no right to operate longer. The licenses had been refused to the owners on the ground that they had permitted slot machine operation in their places.

Last night the 12 establishments were still operating. The proprietors said no one had notified them they had to quit. They indicated they would keep going as long as they could.

The slot machines were seized in raids by the state police last July 23. At that time none of the taverns had taken out their licenses for the last half of the year, and objections to granting them were filed. While these objections were being considered they were allowed to operate, but the state board's action automatically required closing, it was held.

MIDDLE-OF-ROAD POLICY IS URGED BY MSGR. SHEEN

Addressing 500 members of the Executives' club yesterday noon in the Hotel Sherman, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Fulton J. Sheen, Catholic radio commentator from Washington, D. C., urged a middle of the road course to develop a real freedom in the United States.

"We want a freedom that is strong enough to enforce freedom, not just strong enough to destroy it," he declared. "It doesn't make sense to invoke a right to destroy that right. If a group of men invokes the right of freedom of speech to set up a regime which will ultimately deny the right of freedom of speech, I say that group should be denied its initial freedom of speech.

"Our hope is not in the reactionary who denies change, nor in the liberal who knows no limits, but in the reconciliation of the mutable and the unmutable."

SWISS TOLD THEY MUST NOT WATCH BATTLES IN SKY

Urged to Run for Cover if Fight Breaks Out.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 24.—Police today issued orders which threaten to put an end to Basel's favorite sport of rushing to the rooftops to watch air battles over the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

In the future when Basel citizens see an airplane or hear antiaircraft guns they are to take cover in their homes or in nearby buildings. They are not to stand in the streets or atop houses gawking at the show.

The order also strictly forbids the picking up of anything which falls from the sky during an air fight. It directs the people to draw a line around any such object they see and to notify police. It is forbidden to touch anything thus marked off.

Two Girls Injured.

No air raid alarm signal will be given if belligerent planes appear unless they are attacking Switzerland, the people were told. Today's order came as the result of the injury last Saturday of two girls who were struck by fragments of a German antiaircraft shell which fell into the streets of Basel after having been fired at a French plane.

The injured girls, however, were not among the thousands outside watching the show. They were in a grocery when the shell exploded in the street. Fragments of it shattered the store's window, then struck the girls.

The restriction on picking up objects was issued because a number of unexploded shells landed in Basel Saturday and were sought eagerly as souvenirs. In one instance a small boy was seized by his parents as he was digging a shell out of soft earth with a hatchet.

Spy Ring Evaporates.

Reports of a mysterious ring of spies and smugglers alleged to have been operating in France, Germany, and Switzerland vanished today when a young Swiss was sentenced to three months in jail on a charge of writing anonymous letters. The name of the man, who was 34 years old and a bookkeeper, was not made public.

Called the "greatest fool in Switzerland," the man wrote a letter to the German customs house in the German railway station in Basel charging officers of the local ski club with smuggling leftist newspapers from France to Germany via Switzerland and smuggling money and cigarets from Germany to Switzerland.

Goes to Wrong Place.

Thru a faulty address, the letter went to the Swiss customs house. It was turned over to police. After a time they discovered a ski club which recently expelled a member for writing unsigned letters. The rest was easy.

The member confessed he had written the letter to get revenge for his expulsion.

"I can't resist writing anonymous letters," he said. "As soon as I write one I feel better."

The prosecutor demanded a two months' jail sentence, but the judge made it three.

Autoists Thankless After Marking Roosevelt Holiday

Houston, Tex., Nov. 24 (AP).—Motorists who celebrated Thanksgiving yesterday were not so thankful today. At police headquarters, they displayed over-parking tickets but declared the day was a holiday and the tickets were "out of order." Police told them the day was President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving and not the city of Houston's. The motorists paid.

FLORENCE OSBECK.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 24 [Special].—Enoch L. [Nocky] Johnson, Republican boss of Atlantic county, is engaged to marry Florence Osbeck, a former Follies girl. No date for the wedding has been set, however, and the nuptials may be postponed until after Johnson's trial on a federal indictment charging conspiracy to evade income tax payments. The trial date has not been set. Johnson's first wife died 25 years ago.

Judge Refuses to Annul Film Actor Laurel Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP).—Judge Joseph Vickers declined today to set aside a decree divorcing film comedian Stan Laurel from Illiana Laurel, Russian singer and dancer, saying he believed she had committed perjury. He recommended that the district attorney's office investigate the case. In her petition to set aside the decree, Mrs. Laurel said she agreed to Laurel's default of last May because he threatened her life and threatened to scandalize her publicly.

Nazis Scrap Polish Zloty as Money in Seized Area

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP).—The official gazette tonight announced that the Polish zloty would cease to be legal tender after Nov. 27 in eastern Polish territories incorporated into Germany. After that date, the announcement said the only legal currency would be the German mark. Until Dec. 9 zlotys will be exchangeable for marks at the rate of two to one.

[The zloty was quoted yesterday at 18.99 cents. The mark is worth 40 cents.]

NAZIS RID POSEN OF POLES; TAKE OVER PROPERTY

Offer Balts Possession of Land and Business.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 24.—Germany's effort to convert Posen [Poznan] into a German city is making rapid progress. Klaus Kroeger, a Riga merchant, told of this development today after his arrival from Posen which, according to statistics of both Germany and former Poland, contained the largest percentage of Polish inhabitants of any city in Poland.

Arrow locates Posen; diagonal lines show former Poland.

Kroeger did not give details of Germany's forcible deportation of thousands of Posen's Polish families. However, he whetted the appetites of German Balts [Baltic Germans] in Latvia by declaring that Posen and surrounding towns are filled with desirable businesses and stores, now operated by Poles, which soon will be available for distribution among the migrating Balts.

Poles to Lose Properties.

"Naturally, the evacuation of Poles in Posen will be greatly intensified in the near future," Kroeger said. "In addition to the enterprises being assigned to the Balts there is the question of immovable properties which must be settled.

"Of Posen's 250,000 inhabitants only 60,000 were Germans and few of these owned homes or apartment buildings. Many valuable properties owned by Poles now need trustees. The Balts who are property owners will be made trustees of the Polish properties until the question of the value of their holdings in Latvia and Estonia is fixed. When this is established they will obtain suitable compensation in the form of buildings formerly owned by Poles.

"Businesses and stores will be similarly assigned to Balt trustees, who will receive an adequate percentage of the profits until the question of transferring ownership is settled."

Move Families Every Night.

Kroeger failed to say how the Poles are being compensated. Letters from Balts already quartered in Posen declare the Germans are transporting to other sections of Poland between 500 and 800 Polish families every night. They are allowed to take 220 pounds of luggage and are compelled to leave the remainder of their belongings for the German colonists.

5,000 Jews Ousted.

KATTOWITZ, Germany, Nov. 24 (AP).—About 5,000 Jewish women, children, and infirm men must leave the Kattowitz [formerly Katowice, Poland] and Teschen areas of German occupied Poland for a Jewish reservation east of Lublin by Dec. 15, it was disclosed today.

NEW RUMANIAN CABINET VOWS TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

Coalition Cabinet Set Up by Tatarescu.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 24 (AP).—George Tatarescu, fourth premier of Rumania in two months, set up a coalition government tonight. He chose ministers of all shades of political opinion, from anti-Semitic right wingers to Socialists.

George Tatarescu.

The stocky lawyer, who speaks French, English, and German, let it be known his government would continue Rumania's policy of neutrality and good relations with all major powers. Tatarescu was premier under the liberal party in 1935.

The intricate political alignment of the new cabinet left observers undecided whether rejection of German demands for expanded trade, which caused the resignation yesterday of the government of Premier Constantine Argetoinu, might soon be reversed.

Gafencu Retains Post.

Grigore Gafencu remained in the cabinet as foreign minister. He also was named minister of propaganda.

Tatarescu, named by King Carol II. yesterday to form a new government, reserved for himself the ministry of interior. He named Ion Ilcus, who held the interior post in the old government, as war minister.

Nine members of the old cabinet were retained. Besides Gafencu and Ilcus, they were: Gen. Paul Veodorescu, minister of marine and air; Petra Andrei, minister of education; Victor Salvescu, minister of armaments; Mititza Constantinescu, former minister of commerce and industry, as minister of finance; Prof. George Ionescu-Sesesti, minister of agriculture; Prof. Silviu Dragomir, minorities minister, and Gen. Gabriel Marinescu, former war minister, as police general.

Rejects "Concentration Rule."

Other cabinet members are: Ion Nistur, minister of culture and arts; Ion Gigurti, minister of communications; Istrath Micescu, minister of justice, and Constantin Angelescu, minister of economy.

Tatarescu earlier in the day had sought to form a "concentration government," but King Carol rejected the plan and ordered the premier to select the cabinet from the National Rebirth front, official Rumanian party.

Observers said they believed pressure had been brought on Rumania by both Germany and Britain and France for a sympathetic government.

The new premier, who is 53 years old, is known as one of the country's leading economists and is credited with negotiating huge British loans to develop the oil industry.

RUSSIAN PRESS SPURS DRIVE FOR DEAL WITH FINNS

MOSCOW, Nov. 24 (AP).—Russian newspapers, pressing attacks against Finland, today reported growing difficulties and dissension in Finland over the government's refusal to come to terms with Moscow. Dispatches date lined Helsingfors, Finland, and Tallinn, Estonia, accused Finnish leaders of wanting to go to war with the U. S. S. R. against the wishes of the Finnish people.

[Finnish Premier Aimo K. Cajander Thursday night declared Finland had gone as far as possible toward meeting Russian territorial demands and represented Finland as ready to resume negotiations, but only on a "basis not implying a violation of her vital interests."]

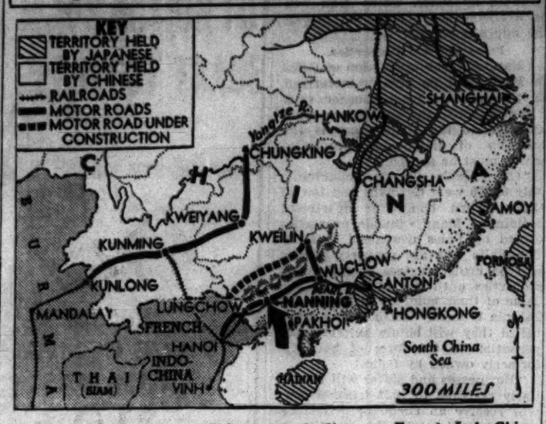
Repeal of the United States arms embargo was attacked by a cartoon in the newspaper Moscow Bolshevik.

U. S. DESTROYER IS AGROUND IN CHESAPEAKE BAY

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 25, Saturday (AP).—Coast guard headquarters picked up an S O S at 2:52 a. m., Chicago time, from the Yarnall, a United States destroyer of an old type, which reported she was aground near Lynhaven inlet, three miles from Cape Henry, at the extreme southern end of Chesapeake bay. The cutter Calypso was dispatched to her aid from the base here. Coast guard officials did not believe the Yarnall was in danger, altho the S O S as intercepted by the Mackay radio in New York asked for "immediate assistance."

[The Yarnall was built in 1918. Its tonnage is 1,090 and it is 314 feet long, over all.]

Japanese Seize Chinese Key City



Japanese drive to cut Chinese supply lines to French Indo-China and to British Burma resulted in capture of Nanning (arrow), provincial capital, yesterday. The new motor road leading to Chung-king, the present capital of China, and connecting with railroads into neighboring countries has been the principal supply route of defenders since the Japanese captured the great ports.

JAP ARMY TAKES NANNING, CAPITAL ON KEY HIGHWAY

City Bombed, Shelled Before Capture.

HONGKONG, Nov. 24 (AP).—The capture of the Kwangsi province capital of Nanning today at the end of a ten day 100 mile thrust by Japanese troops aiming at China's southwestern lifeline supply routes was announced by Japanese army headquarters.

Japanese said their troops were completing occupation of the Nanning area tonight. The city with a population of about 68,000 has been a nerve center for China's incoming war supplies and outgoing trade.

Altho not minimizing the importance of its fall, which they said was possible, Chinese contended that the invading Japanese force, about 40,000 strong, had not achieved its announced objectives of cutting China's lifelines and smashing the Kwangsi province army, rated among China's best.

Develop New Road.

Nanning is on a highway from French Indo-China over which war supplies have been moving into China. Chinese officials acknowledged that loss of the city would end the use of this highway, but asserted that the Chinese already were developing a new road running 130 miles west of Nanning.

Chinese said that more than 200 miles of mountains, rivers, and deep valleys separate the Japanese from Kweilin, South China's new military and political headquarters.

Japanese entry into Nanning was preceded by air and artillery bombardment which reduced its defenses and badly damaged the outskirts of the city, the Japanese said. Japanese cavalry units were said to have crossed the shallow Pearl river on which Nanning lies.

Chinese officials said they doubted that the Japanese actually intended to carry out their threat of pushing into Yunnan province, 150 miles away, and said they doubted Japanese ability to complete such a drive.

Expect Japs to Build Air Base.

China's new motor and rail highway from Chungking, the capital far inland, to British Burma and Indo-China runs thru Yunnan province. This lifeline was built by China as the Japanese invaders successively captured the coastal ports, China's normal gateways to the outside world.

The Chinese said they expected the invaders to build an air base at Nanning, and attempt from there to harass Kunming, capital of Yunnan, 280 miles to the northwest.

The Japanese launched their South China drive with a landing on Tongking bay at a point about 35 miles east of the Indo-China border on Nov. 15.

U. S. FLYER TELLS OF BEING FIRED ON OVER ENGLAND

New York, Nov. 24 [Special].—Clyde Pangborn, American aviator, arrived here today on the United States liner President Harding and said he had been fired on by British antiaircraft batteries while making a test flight in a Burnelli monoplane over Winchester, England. "My ship must have looked like a stranger," he said. "As a matter of fact, the way they are operating nowadays they shoot first and ask questions later."

Two English girls arrived on the liner, fast friends after they had been assigned to the same cabin and had learned that they were both coming here to marry Americans.

Frances Harding, 26 years old, from Devonshire, was met by her fiancé, Douglas H. Dies, a Knoxville newspaper man, and they will be married tomorrow in Harvard Memorial chapel. Miss Harding's cabin mate, Patricia Swallow, will marry Hoyt C. Pease of New Britain, Conn., a Yale graduate.

RETURN 8,000 POUNDS OF CHICAGO PARCELS STOPPED BY BLOCKADE

Because of the blockade imposed by Great Britain and France, 8,000 pounds of parcels bound for Germany, Slovakia, Danzig, and Poland have been returned to Chicago shippers, Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutgen said yesterday. The government decided to suspend mailings to those countries on Nov. 3.

Under postoffice rules, all parcels bound for the blockaded countries which had not left the United States are returned to shippers, together with refunds on the postage. Mail returned from Europe after it failed to get past the blockade is also returned, but without refund.

ARSONISTS SEIZE GUARDS, SET FIRE TO DANCE HALL

An arson gang early today kidnaped Fire Chief William C. Dvorak and Village Trustee Rex Wright of Fox River Grove, in McHenry county, 20 miles west of Lake Forest, and set fire to Louie's dance hall, which the two were guarding. The dance hall is in the village.

The hall, which is operated with a restaurant and tavern by the widow of Louis Cernock, and their sons, Edward and Louis, Jr., was set on fire Sunday. Damage of $1,500 was done. Evidence of arson was found, and Frank R. Murphy, assistant state fire marshal, ordered a 24 hour guard at the place.

Trustee Wright served as a guard last night. At 2 a. m. Chief Dvorak visited him. A few minutes later six hoodlums drove up in two cars, and forced Dvorak and Wright into one of the cars. Two of the men drove the prisoners near Palatine and freed them. The four others remained behind and set fire to the ballroom. The damage was estimated at nearly $20,000.

Assistant Fire Marshal Doherty began an investigation on the spot. Only yesterday, he said, as a result of the first fire, $25,000 insurance on the place had been canceled by several surety companies on a five day notice. Thus, the place was still insured at the time of the second fire.

ITALY, HUNGARY CONCLUDE NEW PACT ON TRADE

ROME, Nov. 24.—A new Italian-Hungarian commercial agreement has been reached, it was announced today. The negotiations had been going on for some days.

The agreement, according to good sources, will result in Italy getting more trade from Hungary at Germany's expense. Germany is believed indignant at Rumania's refusal to submit to her economic demands. Therefore Germany is expected to be indignant with Hungary also.

Two Gun Bandit Gets $235 in Liquor Store Holdup

A bandit, armed with two guns, held up the Marquette liquor store at 3014 63d street last night, menaced the clerk, Samuel Stern, and three customers, including a woman, and escaped with $235 and a ring. The ring, valued at $125, was taken from Miss Margaret Frey, 3148 66th street. Police said the robber is the same man who has held up several other liquor stores recently.

JOURNAL ASSAILS NAVY SECRECY ON DEFECTS IN SHIPS

Perils Public Confidence, Editorial Says.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—The Army and Navy Journal says in an editorial to be published tomorrow that the navy's policy of secrecy was to blame for congressional proposals for an inquiry into admitted defects in 12 new destroyers.

The Journal asserted that suppression of information about the destroyers had cost the navy public confidence and congressional support.

"The navy department is discovering that it does not pay to observe the tactics of the ostrich," the Journal comments. "To correct the impression regarding the defects of the new destroyers it was forced to ask the President to ridicule their importance, and it is now facing a congressional investigation."

Demands Congressional Inquiry.

Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, told Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] recently, in response to an inquiry, that several vessels were found to lack desired stability, but that the faults would be corrected. They were 12 destroyers of the Anderson class.

The Journal said that there were other instances of information being withheld. It mentioned damage to the battleship Arizona, which, justice department agents decided, might have resulted from sabotage, and the loss of several planes in Pacific fleet maneuvers two years ago. Details of the plane losses were published in the Congressional Record.

Need Public Confidence.

"The fleet cannot be maintained without public confidence, and the only way in which that confidence can be assured is thru the belief of the people that the facts regarding it, whether good are bad, are supplied to them," the Journal said.

"Had the truth been told instantly about the occurrence on the Arizona, the loss of the flyers, and the defects in the destroyers, it would have been accepted as proof that the navy was on the job and that there was nothing to worry about."

BRAZIL TO HELP CUPID BY TAX ON BACHELORS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 24.—Marry or be taxed, is the latest decree in Brazil. Approximately one million Brazilians must pay a bachelor tax in 1941, according to a new constitutional proviso called "family protection." The tax will be used to aid needy and large families. It is impossible to say exactly how many Brazilians are unmarried. The 1920 census, which set the entire population at 32,000,000 listed 21,000,000 as unmarried. Statistics show 33 births and only 8 weddings for each 1,000 persons.

Dr. Giuseppe Antonio Borgese, professor in the University of Chicago's department of Romance languages, and Bernadotte E. Schmitt, professor of modern European history at the university, were on honeymoons yesterday.

Miss Damaris Kathryn Ames and Prof. Schmitt were married on Wednesday. She is the daughter of Dr. Edward Scribner Ames, chairman of the philosophy department at the university and pastor of the University Church of Disciples of Christ.

Army's Good Will Bombers End First Leg of Hop Home

PARAMARIBO, Netherlands Guiana, Nov. 24 (AP).—Six United States army bombers arrived here today from Natal, Brazil, homeward bound after a good will flight to Brazil. The seventh plane, forced back to Natal by motor trouble, took off again and was expected to join the others here. The squadron's next stop is Maracaibo, Venezuela.

ARMY SUMMONS 9 GENERALS FOR TRAINING PARLEY

Object: To Iron Out Mass Maneuvers.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—Nine top ranking army commanders have been summoned here for an unusual conference with the general staff on the current mass training of the regular army and National Guard.

Three lieutenant generals who are commanders of field army organizations and six major generals were directed to attend the conference on Nov. 30 to iron out details of the most intense training since the world war. The officers head the nine corps areas in the continental United States.

Four Divisions in Training.

Announcing that the conference had been called, the war department said today that, with minor exceptions, the concentration of four of five new streamlined infantry divisions had been completed at points in the south. The divisions will be trained as army corps in the spring.

Under one plan to be considered at the conference, the National Guard brigade and divisional commanders, key staff officers, and certain reserve officers would be given training with the regular army in handling large bodies of troops.

The lieutenant generals summoned were Hugh A. Drum, commander of the 1st army and 2d corps area; Stanley H. Ford, 2d army and 6th corps area commander, and Stanley D. Embick, 3d army and 4th corps commander.

Lieut. Gen. Bowley to Retire.

Lieut. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, commander of the 4th army and 9th corps area, would have been summoned but for the fact that he will be retired Nov. 30 after 46 years of service. He celebrated his 64th birthday today in San Francisco, Cal. Summoned in his place was Maj. Gen. John L. De Witt, who will assume Gen. Bowley's command with rank of lieutenant general.

Other major generals summoned were James A. Woodruff, commander of 1st corps area; James K. Parsons, 3d corps; Daniel Van Voorhis, 5th corps; Percy P. Bishop, 7th corps, and Herbert J. Brees, 8th corps.

War Proving Battleships' Superiority, Leahy Insists

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 24.—Nothing has happened in the European war to change "informed naval opinion" that battleships are better able to withstand any form of attack than any other type of naval vessel, Admiral William Leahy, former chief of naval operations, said today.

INDICT 3 POLICE KILLERS IN PARK HOLDUP SLAYING

Jury Acts in 20 Minutes; Arraignment Monday.

The law moved swiftly yesterday to bring to justice three young hoodlums who shot and killed Policeman Harry Francois Monday night in a Humboldt park holdup.

A coroner's jury recommended that the confessed killers be held for murder.

The grand jury indicted them on murder charges in exactly 20 minutes. Their arraignment was set for Monday.

Not First Gun Play.

And two holdup victims told the police last night that the bullet which killed the policeman was not the first the gang's trigger man, Jerry Mangano, had fired at a victim. Jack Goldberg and Goldberg's wife, Jeanette, identified Mangano at the police lineup as the man who shot Goldberg in the head last April 8 in an attempted robbery at the Goldbergs' luggage factory, 2347 Harrison street. The couple identified Joseph Russano, one of Mangano's accomplices in the slaying of the policeman, as the bandit who was with Mangano when they were held up.

Mangano, who is 22 years old, lives at 2216 Taylor street. Russano, 18, lives at 821 North Francisco avenue. The third member of the gang is Italo Begani, 16, of 2501 Harrison street.

They presented a strange picture as they sat handcuffed to three policemen in the county morgue—waiting for the coroner's jury to report.

"What are they trying to do," asked Russano bitterly. "What are they tryin' to find out? We told 'em what happened. What if they come out and say he didn't die from that bullet in the heart. They're just crazy."

Just Typing the Report.

"They're typing up their report," Joe's policeman said. "Have you got the fix in, Joe?"

"Sure," Joe said. "I paid off the top guy."

Mangano and Begani said nothing. They kept their eyes to the front. Joe went on talking. Some one asked what he expected to get.

"Eighty years or the chair," Joe said. "I'd settle for 20 right now."

"Do you care which?" he was asked.

"That's a dumb question," Joe said. "Whatta you think? But you get what you deserve. Sure I feel I deserve it. I done something wrong. Yeah, I'm sorry he's dead. I wish Jerry had missed and so does he. Don't think he don't. When we ran away Jerry said he shot him in the arm. When I saw the papers next day I felt sick."

Joe Doesn't Want to Pose.

The photographers asked Joe to pose. Joe put his hat in front of his face. When a policeman asked him to take it down Joe snarled:

"You guys treat me like a dog then expect me to be nice. They opened the windows at 3 this morning and nearly froze us all. And I didn't have hardly anything to eat all day yesterday."

One of the policemen laughed.

"Joe's got a soft spot in his heart for me," the policeman said. "He's going to stick up a bank when he gets out and send me five grand, won't you Joe?"

"Sure," Joe said.

The conversation turned to Joe's fighting career. He's a professional lightweight and says he's won 64 of 67 fights, 27 by knockouts. Police who have seen him fight said he is good. One of the officers told Joe, jokingly, that a girl had come in to sign a complaint against him. Joe was mildly interested, then realized he was being kidded.

"Legs [Begani] is a lady's man, too," one of the policemen said. "Aren't you, Legs?"

"Sorta," Begani said, looking pleased.

Some one recalled that Joe was to have fought next Monday night. Joe corroborated this and offered to fight anyway if they brought his opponent to the county jail.

"I'll give the money to charity," Joe said.

Joe, apparently more nervous than either of the others, had been the only one to talk when Assistant State's Attorney Blair Varnes and Deputy Coroner Edmund English gave all three an opportunity. He told of the slaying, being careful always to say "a couple of other fellows" and refusing to name them.

Youngest of Trio Mum.

Begani said nothing officially, and Mangano limited his remarks to a simple: "I shot the policeman." The jury had retired after listening to two policemen and the man whom the three had tried to hold up, Theodore C. Nelson, 3331 Fulton boulevard.

Finally the jury returned. They handed their verdict to the deputy coroner, who read their recommendation that the three be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Joe turned to his policeman.

"That girl you were talking about," he said. "What does she expect—to carry home my ashes after you guys get thru with me?"

Surrenders to Clear Self in 1928 Chicago Murder

Police in Cincinnati, O., reported last night that Sam Kelly, alias Sam Ricketts, 54 years old, had surrendered there, declaring he was wanted in Chicago in connection with a murder committed 11 years ago. Kelly said one Oscar Hanson had been stabbed to death and had named him [Kelly] as the killer, although another man actually was guilty. Kelly said he now wants to clear his name. Records show that on Oct. 23, 1928, Oscar Hansen of Rockford died in the County hospital of knife wounds inflicted by "Sammy Rickett" [Ricketts].

Boy Slain; Girl Held

Colleen Linton, 13, jailed on suspicion that she killed Arthur Ray Wilson, 9, in suburb of Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24 [Special].—Three wrinkles in the spread on a newly made bed—these brought tragedy to two families in suburban Lynwood today.

Because of them Arthur Ray Wilson, 9 years old, was dead of a bullet wound and Colleen Linton, 13, was in jail on suspicion of murder.

According to witnesses, the girl shot the boy in the right shoulder with a .22 caliber rifle because he failed to smooth out the wrinkles on a bed he and two other boys were making for her so that she could join them playing cowboy.

In the police station tonight Colleen, wearing her newest flowered gingham dress with black shoes and red beads, said:

"I'm afraid of what Pop will do when he hears about this. He'll probably spank me and not let me go to any picture shows."

MOVIE PAY BOOST REFUSED, STUDIO UNIONS TO STRIKE

Threaten Theater Closing All Over Country.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP).—Movie producers rejected the demands of studio unions for 10 per cent wage increases today and union officials countered with an announcement they would call a strike closing every motion picture theater in the United States and Canada.

William Bioff, chairman of the conference of studio unions, said that unless the wage increases were granted tomorrow there would be a "general strike closing all studios and theaters."

Bioff did not mention specifically the projectionists employed in the 20,000 movie theaters in the United States, and neither he nor his associates would discuss strike strategy. However, in previous negotiations Bioff said bluntly the pay increases would be obtained, if all other means failed, by the expedient of closing the theaters.

[Spokesmen for theaters in Chicago said last night that their relations with the unions were harmonious and that they had had no intimation of trouble with motion picture operators or other employés as a result of the situation in Hollywood.]

No hour was set for the walkout tomorrow at the movie studios, where 35 pictures are in production. There are 35,000 technicians in Hollywood who would be subject to the strike call.

Insist on Increase Now.

Referring to a statement of producers in rejecting the demands, "due to the necessity of a complete readjustment with which the industry is faced," the union announcement said.

"We feel that the underpaid workers should get that increase now."

Twelve thousand studio employés who are members of unions affiliated with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés received a 10 per cent wage increase recently.

When the producers asked that they consent to its withdrawal because of demoralized conditions of the foreign film market, the unions refused and delivered an ultimatum demanding the same increase for 23,000 other union employés with the alternative of a strike.

Surrenders on Warrant.

Bioff surrendered at the Los Angeles central jail today on a fugitive warrant from Chicago charging he had failed to serve a sentence given him on a pandering conviction 17 years ago. He was released on $1,000 bail and was granted a writ of habeas corpus, returnable Dec. 12.

Bioff charged his arrest was "a plot to discredit and embarrass me." He refused to discuss the Chicago charge other than to declare: "I paid my full penalty."

Joseph M. Schenck, speaking for the producers, said that in the case of Bioff, "the producers wish to assert in the most emphatic terms they do not feel responsible, directly or indirectly, as reputedly charged by him, for his present personal predicament and they resent the implication they would resort to any such methods."

"The motion picture producers feel they have earned the reputation of dealing fairly and honestly with labor and its representatives," Schenck's statement continued. "That has been our policy at all times."

SEEK EXTRADITION.

Immediately after William Bioff's surrender in Hollywood yesterday the state's attorney's office in Chicago set extradition machinery in motion. Papers are being drawn up and will be taken to Gov. Henry Horner in Springfield by Lieut. Charles Egan, probably early next week.

The next move then will be for Gov. Horner to request the governor of California to order Bioff's extradition to Illinois to serve out the remainder of a six months' sentence for pandering.

Bioff was convicted years before he began to rise in union circles. He was arrested in a raid on a saloon on South Halsted street Jan. 14, 1922. Policeman Arthur Wachholz signed the complaint against Bioff. It charged Bioff that day received $29 from Bernice Thomas, also known as Rose, who earned the sum by prostitution in one of the rooms connected with the saloon.

Sentence Later Upheld.

Bioff waived a jury trial. He was found guilty by Municipal Judge Arnold Heap [who died in 1930] and sentenced to six months in the Bridewell and fined $300.

Bioff was committed to jail on Feb. 24, 1922, but eight days later was released pending the outcome of an appeal to the Appellate court. At its October term the Appellate court affirmed the conviction and sentence. A mandate ordering the sheriff to return Bioff to jail was issued March 2, 1923.

On March 23, however, Bioff's attorneys announced he would appeal to the Illinois Supreme court and the mandate was recalled. The clerk of the Supreme court has no record of an appeal. Court records stop at the affirmation of Bioff's sentence. Bioff apparently remained free under these mysterious circumstances.

Taxi Dance Hall Operator.

In the early 1930s Bioff was known as an operator of a taxi dance hall and an aid to Lawrence [Dago] Mangano. Then, in 1935, came the slaying of Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the Chicago Moving Picture Operators' union.

George E. Browne, president of the International Association of Theater and Stage Employés, of which Maloy's union was a unit, announced that the I. A. T. S. E. would take over control of the local union's affairs. One of Browne's lieutenants and bodyguards was Willie Bioff.

Later Browne appointed Bioff as his personal representative in Hollywood, and Bioff became a czar. One indication of his position in the movie industry is the $100,000 "loan" he got from a film magnate when the studios were threatened with a strike in 1937.

TREASURER OF REDS JAILED AS WITNESS IN BROWDER'S CASE

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Robert W. Wiener, national treasurer of the communist party in the United States, was arraigned in federal court today on a warrant describing him as a material witness in the government's inquiry into alleged passport irregularities. He was released on $2,000 bail, posted when he deposited United States government bonds belonging to the communist defense committee.

Earl Browder, national leader of the communist party, is under indictment accusing him of obtaining and using a passport thru false representations.

Wiener's counsel told the court that Wiener appeared voluntarily today after having reported to his counsel as soon as he read in newspapers that he was sought as a witness.

Wiener also is president of the International Workers order, described as a communist insurance organization, and vice president of World Tourists, Inc., which manages tours in the soviet republic and elsewhere.

Discover Body of Farmer Missing Since Last July

Carterville, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—The body of William C. Miller, 66 years old, a Crainville farmer who had been missing since July 14, was found yesterday in Crab Orchard creek, south of Carterville by three hunters. He had been shot in the head. A pistol was found near the body.

PHONE GIRL ALERT BUT AGED WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH

An alert telephone operator's resourcefulness failed last night to save Mrs. Catherine Curley, 75 years old, widow of Fire Captain Martin J. Curley.

Mrs. Curley's dress caught on fire while she was attending to the furnace in her home at 8132 South Morgan street. She beat out the flames. In spite of serious burns she crawled to a telephone, dialed the operator, and whispered, "I'm burned. I'm dying."

The operator called Mrs. Curley's neighbor, Mrs. E. H. Stellman, 8128 South Morgan street, and urged her to go to Mrs. Curley's aid. Then she called a physician, Dr. Herbert L. Foltz, 735 West 79th street, police, and a priest. All arrived within a few minutes. But Mrs. Curley died in St. George's hospital a few hours later.

LARCENY COUNTS AGAINST HEAD OF BUND CUT IN HALF

'Golden Angel' on Stand; Denies Kuhn's Story.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Five of the prosecution's 10 counts against Fritz Kuhn were dismissed today, leaving him charged with the misappropriation from his German-American bund of $1,217 instead of $5,641. Judge James G. Wallace indicated that not all of the other five were certain to be left to the jury.

The judge's action exonerates Kuhn of common law theft of $4,425 of bund money, but he still is charged with theft, thru violating his trust as the keeper of the organization's funds, of $717 used in moving a woman friend's furniture and $500 which the state contends he claims he paid Attorney James D. C. Murray for services. He also remains charged with third degree forgery in connection with the Murray matter—making false entries in his checkbook stubs.

Judge Wallace, after both sides had rested, stated that the remaining counts would stand unless he changed his mind by Monday.

Judge Criticizes Charges.

In reducing sharply the amount claimed by the state to have been stolen and in dismissing the five counts, Judge Wallace sharply criticized the indictment as indefinite.

The jury was excused until Monday. The case will go to the jury Tuesday or Wednesday.

The last major witness was Kuhn's erstwhile "golden angel," Mrs. Florence Camp, a blonde divorcée, who twisted her fingers and gave the bund Fuehrer a single, chilly glance.

Mrs. Camp, fashionably turned out in a short fur jacket and a bustle back dress, contradicted Kuhn sharply upon some points in his own testimony—particularly his contention that he had been "friendly" with her.

She insisted that he not only had proposed marriage to her—altho he was and is a married man—but that he'd given her a $240 platinum engagement ring and had urged upon her the divorce she obtained from Charles Camp.

Admits Giving Him $600.

Nevertheless, she gave some support to Kuhn upon his major contention that the $717 which he acknowledged having spent from the bund's funds in transporting her furniture about the country was repaid by her and that he in turn reimbursed the bund's account. She testified that on various occasions she had given him a total of $600.

She said she had made available to the prosecution three love letters written to her by Kuhn, in which he called her his "Golden Angel."

NEW GAMBLING WITNESSES TO BE CALLED MONDAY

William J. Campbell, United States district attorney, said yesterday that the first of a score of witnesses under subpena will be called to testify Monday in the new federal grand jury investigation of the incomes of Chicago gamblers. Campbell said he will appoint two assistants to aid D. Riley Campbell, special assistant United States attorney, with the cases.

The new investigation resumes the work of the October grand jury, which began an inquiry into the income of William R. [Billy] Skidmore, reputed czar of Chicago gambling. Campbell said the new inquiry will reach into the affairs of all big gamblers in Chicago, including William Johnson, said to be a close associate of Skidmore. The government wants to find out what gamblers have failed to pay in income taxes.

Johnson disappeared during the previous Skidmore investigation, but Campbell asserted the government now knows where he is and can produce him for questioning.

FIRST FOUR FOUND GUILTY IN BOOKIE CASE ARE FINED

The first four defendants to be convicted by a Cook county jury in a handbook case were fined yesterday when they appeared for sentencing before Judge Joseph J. Drucker in Jury court. Judge Drucker warned them that another conviction on a similar charge would bring jail sentences.

The defendants were found guilty on gambling charges by a jury of seven women and five men on Nov. 14. They were seized in a raid on a handbook at 34 South Halsted street. Thomas Murphy, 125 South Kedzie avenue, the manager, was fined $400. The other three, Robert Allen, 3617 Leland avenue; John Ramalka, 731 Madison street, and Ellis Greenberg, 315 South Central avenue, sheet writers, were fined $50 each.

The maximum sentence is one year in jail and a fine of $2,000.

HOLLAND AGAIN BALKS AT QUIZ ON O'HARE DEALS

Judge Persists in Refusal to Answer Questions.

Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland intimated in open court yesterday that he fears he may be involved in criminal or civil actions, or both, if he should answer questions concerning his business dealings with Edward J. O'Hare, the Capone syndicate's front man who was shot to death Nov. 8 by gangland assassins.

His intimation was made in the Criminal court, before Chief Justice John Prystalski, Judge Prystalski, at the request of Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, was inquiring into Judge Holland's refusal on Wednesday and yesterday to testify before the Cook county grand jury. The grand jurors are seeking information about the real estate pool in which the judge was associated with O'Hare, a bookmaker named Harry Walsh, and others.

Constantly Repeats Refusal.

Altho Holland refused to say in so many words that he feared he might incriminate himself, Judge Prystalski so construed his repeated statement: "I am not compelled to give evidence against myself."

At 2 p. m. Tuesday the chief justice will give his opinion whether answers to the questions actually would be incriminating. If the court decides they would not be he will order that the questions be answered.

If Judge Holland then persists in his silence, it is understood, he will place himself in contempt of the Criminal court.

Realty Dealer Quizzed.

While Judge Holland was before Chief Justice Prystalski another member of the real estate pool, John McCarthy, a realty dealer with offices at 1405 West 63d street, was taken into the grand jury room for questioning. It is understood that he talked freely. Subpena servers, meanwhile, were seeking Walsh, the bookmaker.

Late in the afternoon State's Attorney Courtney called upon Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission, asking that a meeting be arranged for the discussion of the conduct of certain members of the Chicago judiciary. It was understood that Courtney's reference is to Judge Holland and Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court.

McGarry recently won a court dismissal of charges of conspiracy and malfeasance in office.

Second Time Before Jury.

Judge Holland was summoned before the grand jury Wednesday after he had declined Monday and Tuesday to undergo questioning in relation to the O'Hare deals by Crowley and Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright.

Accompanied by his attorney, Joseph T. Harrington, Judge Holland went before the grand jury as ordered, but after a brief and stormy session Wednesday he was taken before Judge Prystalski, who ordered him to answer any questions that might be put to him at his second appearance before the jury, set for yesterday.

After Judge Holland refused to answer questions before the grand jury yesterday, he was again taken before Chief Justice Prystalski, who ordered him sworn as a witness. Crowley then began to read the questions Holland had refused to answer.

Crowley Reads Questions.

Q.—How long prior to Nov. 8 [the day of the murder] was it that you saw Edward J. O'Hare? A.—I answered that question before the grand jury. I said it was 10 days or two weeks.

Q.—How long were you acquainted with O'Hare, prior to his death? A.—I think I said about 10 years.

Q.—Were you ever involved in any business dealings with Edward J. O'Hare? A.—That question I refuse to answer on my constitutional rights.

PRYSTALSKI—That is not sufficient. You are a judge and a lawyer.

HOLLAND—I refuse to answer on the ground that I cannot be compelled to give evidence against myself.

PRYSTALSKI—Do you mean on the grounds that it will incriminate you?

HOLLAND—The constitution provides I am free against unreasonable search and seizure and I cannot be compelled to give evidence against myself.

PRYSTALSKI—I asked you whether it is on the ground that you will incriminate yourself. That is all I am asking.

HOLLAND—I refuse on constitutional grounds.

PRYSTALSKI—The first is not a good reason. I direct that you answer.

HOLLAND—Well, I refuse to answer.

PRYSTALSKI—On the grounds stated? I do not want any confusion. Is it on the ground that you feel any answer will incriminate you or involve you in a criminal offense?

PRYSTALSKI—Go ahead.

HOLLAND [after conferring with Harrington]—I decline to answer on the ground already stated and that to give such answer might result in it being used against me in some subsequent proceeding.

PRYSTALSKI—What kind of a proceeding, civil or criminal?

HOLLAND—Either or both.

PRYSTALSKI—Criminal?

HOLLAND—I don't know.

From here on Judge Holland droned over and over the answer that he refused to reply in fear of giving evidence against himself. Most of the questions sought to determine details of Judge Holland's dealings with O'Hare.

Court's Duty Cited.

After the questions had been read Judge Prystalski said:

"I take it that Judge Holland's answer is that he refuses to answer on the ground that to do so would tend to incriminate him. Now under the law it is the court's duty to determine whether answers to these questions would actually tend to incriminate him."

Crowley told the court that in view of this ruling the state would abandon its efforts to question Judge Holland before the grand jury. Judge Prystalski, however, interposed:

"I still have a duty to perform; to decide whether answers to these questions would or would not incriminate. I am not going to let the state throw this case out now. The court reporter will write up everything that has transpired. Every one be back here at 2 p. m. Tuesday."

DEWEY WONDERS HOW GANG KILLING VICTIM GOT BACK IN COUNTRY

George Schaehter. [AP Wirephoto.]

New York, Nov. 24 [Special].—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey said today that he planned to demand an explanation from the department of labor of how Harry Gottesman, alias Greenberg, alias Green, alias George Schachter, had been permitted to slip back into this country after he had been deported in 1935.

Gottesman was shot to death in gang fashion as he sat in his parked auto in Los Angeles on Wednesday by assassins in a passing car. He was known as Schachter there.

According to Dewey, Gottesman, using the name of Greenberg, was one of the strong arm men of the Lepke-Gurrah mob of industrial racketeers, in the fur strike of 1935, and as a result of an arrest then was handed over to the immigration authorities and ordered sent off to his native Russia.

He was one of those indicted with Louis Buchalter, alias Lepke, on charges of conspiracy in the fur racket.

4 MORE ORDERED TO FACE BOSTON LOTTERY CHARGE

Four more of the 15 Chicagoans indicted in Boston, Mass., by a federal grand jury which investigated an alleged $20,000,000 lottery ring surrendered yesterday and were ordered to appear in Boston by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Frank Spitzler, 7120 Yates avenue, was freed in $500 bond and ordered to appear in Boston for arraignment Dec. 11. George Shayne, and his brother, Charles, both of 6558 Peoria street, agreed to appear in Boston Dec. 1. George was freed in $2,000 bond, and Charles' bond was set at $500. The fourth defendant, Morris Latker, was released under $1,000 bond and ordered to appear in Boston, Dec. 1. Abraham E. Brady, also a defendant, sought in Chicago, has not been found.

BOOTLEG KING ASKS $196,000 OF O'HARE CASH

Remus Sues Estate Over Stolen Liquor.

charged former associates filched from him while he was in prison.

At the time of the O'Hare-Remus settlement a lump sum of $250,000 was agreed upon, according to Justus Chancellor Jr., whose firm of Chancellor & Chancellor is handling the Remus suit. Since 1926 O'Hare had reduced this to the $196,000 now asked, Chancellor said last night.

Other Claims Indicated.

The debt is secured by the original written agreement, drawn up in 1926, and by records of O'Hare's subsequent payments, he declared. Chancellor intimated that the claim against O'Hare is the first of several suits that will be filed for Remus in the next 30 days in an effort to regain liquor holdings which, it will be charged, were wrested from Remus while he was serving time in Atlanta federal prison for liquor law violations.

The story of the whisky theft for which O'Hare was convicted began early in 1923 when O'Hare, then a deputy constable and race track operator in St. Louis, was operator of the Jack Daniel distillery warehouse in which Remus had stored liquor valued at approximately $200,000.

Liquor Siphoned from Barrels.

Thru connivance with federal custodians and others, including Mrs. Imogene Remus—the bootlegger king's wife—most of the liquor was siphoned from the barrels and removed from the warehouse. Remus' $100,000 bond, posted with the government as a guarantee that the whisky would be sold or removed only under federal supervision, was forfeited.

Twenty-two persons, including several St. Louis and Cincinnati politicians, were indicted. Of these, 15 were sentenced to prison. Daniel O'Neil of St. Louis, later O'Hare's partner in the Madison, Ill., Kennel club, was sentenced to serve 15 months.

All the convictions resulted chiefly from Remus' testimony. [Some years later, after his release from prison, Remus killed his wife but was adjudged insane and eventually was released upon a showing that he had recovered his sanity.]

Loss Put at $300,000.

At the time of O'Hare's conviction Remus figured his loss, including the government bond, at nearly $300,000. Just how large a share he was given in the Capone dog tracks is a matter of speculation. Also a matter of conjecture, then and now, was where the bulk of the stolen whisky went.

It has been considered significant that O'Hare was associated then with the dog tracks of the Capone gang—which also dealt in liquor. The gang's asserted willingness to cut Remus in on the dog tracks as part of the O'Hare settlement also caused comment among investigators.

Actual records of the O'Hare-Remus transactions will not be produced until the claim against O'Hare's estate is heard in Probate court, according to Attorney Chancellor.

Remus, it was disclosed, spends part of his time in Chicago, where he once was a practicing attorney.

The former bootlegger king was aboard a train between Chicago and Cincinnati last night and could not be reached.

Chancellor said O'Hare's last payment on the $250,000 debt was made three months ago. Remus is convinced O'Hare would have paid in full had he lived, the attorney indicated.

O'Neil, O'Hare's former dog track partner, was one of three persons questioned in St. Louis yesterday by Sergt. James McInerney of State's Attorney Courtney's police. He said he had not been associated with O'Hare for several years. Sergt. McInerney also talked to Patricia O'Hare, the slain man's 19 year old daughter, and Henry [Kinky] Beckman, formerly his chauffeur and bodyguard.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

ON THE DOORSTEP OF BEDLAM.

Marvel No. 1 is that such a scheme as Josh Lee's wealth drafting should ever have popped into the mind of a United States senator, even from Oklahoma. Marvel No. 2 is that after a sound night's sleep any United States senator would sit down to put such imaginings and visions into a bill and thereafter introduce it. Marvel No. 3 is that any senate committee would report out such a bill by a vote of 12 to 2 and place it on the calendar of pending business. Marvel No. 4 is that a serious minded minority on the committee should find it necessary to explain that the bill is a howler and would wreck the country. These are marvels which dismay and frighten the sober mind. They indicate how weak the sanity wall may be when flighty legislators go loco.

Senator Lee's bill, with the pretense of strengthening the defenses of the United States, provides that whenever congress declares war, or whenever imminence of war has created an emergency which in the judgment of the President is sufficiently serious to necessitate an increase of the military establishment by the drafting of man power, there shall be a census of the net wealth of every person in the United States. When the net wealth had been ascertained the government could levy upon it, starting with 5 per cent in the lowest brackets and running to 75 per cent in the highest. Upon this fantasy the bill performs a marvel of grotesque details which in execution would certainly destroy in short order the national defense, the government, and the people. All an intelligent enemy would have to do would be to sit by and watch the United States tear itself into small pieces.

So much unreason prevails in governing circles and in political action that prudent persons cannot console themselves with the reflection that there are certain insanities in legislation so self-demonstrably lunatic that they needn't be given a second thought. That, unfortunately, cannot be relied upon. Apparently no proposal is so crazy that it can be allowed to make faces and laugh itself to death. Senator Lee's absurdities have a committee report behind them and take their place in the senate along with other wild and woolly proposals, all purporting to foster the welfare of the country and make it strong in self-defense.

If the tempo of hysteria is pitched a little higher some of these fool things will be passed and the people of the United States will be running around vacant eyed as if they had just escaped from bedlam, which will not be their good luck because they will be just getting into it.

WHY ST. CHARLES NEEDS A FENCE.

A citizen of Geneva, writing today in the Voice of the People, seeks THE TRIBUNE'S coöperation in opposing the construction of a fence around the St. Charles School for Boys. Our correspondent, Mr. Zimmermann, refers to the original plan of John W. Gates for the St. Charles school, which, if followed, would have made a fence unnecessary.

This is true, but it is only part of the truth. Fencing in the inmates of St. Charles will not destroy the institution for the purposes for which Mr. Gates intended it when he made his gift. That destruction was accomplished long ago by the politicians who run the school, and it is because they departed from the original plan that the fence is now necessary.

As Mr. Zimmermann points out, St. Charles might have been an equivalent of the famous Boys' Town near Omaha. But it is not such an equivalent, and there is no hope that it will ever be restored to the use for which it was intended. Political influence crammed the school with young criminals, and political influence will continue to be exerted in that direction regardless of whether the fence is built.

The history of St. Charles is typical of the fate of eleemosynary institutions when they fall into the hands of politicians. The Illinois statute providing for public care of the insane contains many provisions resulting from public revulsion at the treatment of inmates in 19th century madhouses. But the execution of those provisions fall into hands of politicians, and we get such unspeakable conditions as the grand jury has just found at Manteno. The parole system is based on the humanitarian theory that liberty under proper supervision will guide criminals into honest living. But as administered by politicians, it has been perverted to restore unregenerate criminals to a life of crime.

If Mr. Gates had been a shrewder man he would not have put the control of the institution he endowed into the hands of political government. When the politicians stepped in it was a foregone conclusion that St. Charles would in time become just what it has become.

MUNICIPAL COURT EXTRAVAGANCE.

The low caliber of its judges, brought to attention by repeated scandals, is not the only public grievance against the Municipal court of Chicago. The wasteful administration of the court also gives ground for complaint. As its reputation slips lower each year, the cost of maintaining it rises.

The current difficulties of the county commissioners, who will be able to balance the 1940 Cook county budget, if they balance it at all, only by resort to fictitious bookkeeping, are traceable in large part to the Municipal court. Next year the county must pay more than $1,000,000 for the support of this court. Taxpayers in suburban and rural Cook county, who pay more than a fifth of the county taxes, will be assessed some $200,000 of this sum for a court that renders them no service and has no jurisdiction over them.

The county's contributions to the court will consist of a payment of $320,000 in principal and presumably about $114,000 in interest on a judgment of $3,200,000 obtained by the city government for costs of state cases tried in the court, $450,000 for current expenses of the same type of cases, and $90,000 for jury costs.

County commissioners complain that since the county has been held liable for costs of state cases, city authorities have made an effort, whenever an offense falls within both the state statutes and city ordinances, to press the state charge. Every time a handbook operator is brought into court for one of the trials that the judges of the court have rendered farcical, the county is soaked $8 in costs.

These charges are perfectly legal, having been upheld by the Supreme court. But law departs from justice here, for while the county is required to pay a substantial portion of the court's expenses, the city keeps all of the revenue received by the court in fines and forfeitures.

But while the city government may be imposing on the county in the matter of Municipal court costs, it is itself the victim of even greater imposition by the judges of the court, thru their power to fix their own budget. This is a wholly needless power, and is the cause of the extravagant administration of the court.

The theory on which it was granted was that it would render the city's judicial department independent of its legislative branch—the city council. There was no need for this precaution, and it has not accomplished its object. The Supreme courts of the United States and of Illinois do not possess this power, yet the lack of it has never made them subservient to congress or the legislature.

The Municipal court, on the other hand, is completely subservient to the Cook county Democratic machine, which elected all its justices. The subservience has been exhibited even more flagrantly in padding the court budget to provide berths for useless pay rollers than it has been in fixing cases to oblige aldermen and ward committeemen.

The legislature can remedy this situation and should do so. The twin injustices might well, for practical reasons, be ended by a single act. If the city council were given the power to fix the court's budget at the same time the county was relieved of its unjust contributions to the court, economies could be instituted which would relieve the county of an unjust exaction and save the taxpayers a million dollars a year.

OUR ENVOY TO LONDON.

There is a London report that Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy will sail for home early in December and may not return. The report says that Mrs. Kennedy is unable to go to London because of the restrictions on American travel and that the ambassador is coming home for that reason. Here it is understood to be only for the holidays.

If Mr. Kennedy did not return to his post and, indeed, if there were no American ambassador in London for the duration of the war, the United States would not lose the services of a diplomatic agent. The loss would be felt in the British foreign office. The American ambassador to London is frequently one of the most serviceable members of the British diplomatic service.

Mr. Kennedy early started to go the way of all flesh in London court circles, upholding the tradition which is honored more often than not, that the American embassy is a department in the British government. Even when our state department wants to put up a stiff front, which isn't often, it cannot be sure of the coöperation of its representative in Great Britain if a war is in progress. Secretary Lansing had to devise methods of keeping Mr. Walter Hines Page, for instance, from evading the instructions sent to him or changing their nature before they were communicated to the British government. During a war no ambassador at all would be the best ambassador we could have in London.

Editorial of the Day

UNIVERSITY CAN DO IT.
[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Supply and demand should be readily measurable in such a restricted field as the teaching of agriculture, with most high schools offering agricultural courses operating under direct supervision of the federal Smith-Hughes system. The University of Illinois has 114 seniors ready to qualify as Smith-Hughes teachers, if they perform practice teaching duties satisfactorily this year, and Illinois high schools need only about 50 new Smith-Hughes teachers annually for replacements and for manning newly established classes.

In face of this situation, one Illinois normal school, operated with state funds just as the university is, has announced its intention of establishing a curriculum for training of additional Smith-Hughes teachers of agriculture. A course offering "the equivalent of any first class college of agriculture will be available to meet all state and federal requirements," the school has announced.

A plant adequate to meet requirements undoubtedly would put taxpayers of the state to a heavy expense. Such a plant long has been available at the state university campus, where, as cited above, all of the state's needs for Smith-Hughes teachers are being met more than adequately. What reason there may be for competition between one state institution and another for the privilege of training such teachers is in no way apparent.

One hint at explanation may be found in the fact that not all federal funds available for Smith-Hughes training in Illinois are being used. But, in addition to the obvious inadvisability of expanding training facilities far beyond present needs, it must not be overlooked that each dollar of federal funds must be matched by another dollar from the state. Existing facilities at the university are adequate and there seems to be no justification for increased expenditures of either state or federal funds in this field.

MR. PEPYS AT THE MUSEUM.

24th Nov.—To the art museum, like every one else, to see the Italian pictures that save you a journey abroad, so they say; and did find them mostly gay and bright of color, as if painted yesterday instead of centuries ago; not like old masters at all and quite enjoyable for all who know nothing about art but what they like. Here were six famous Madonnas, but none with haloes, and one Venus on the half shell, most quaint; and about a score of other paintings and sculptures that you would have to scurry all over Italy to see; and all at a cost of 1 shilling for the entrance fee and 2 for the catalog if you need it.

Methought that some of these ancient Italian artists were like column contributors, for they took names other than their own, such as Fra Angelico for a certain John of Fiesole, and Botticelli for a certain Alexander Filipepi, and Donatello for a Signor Bardi, and Guercino for Signor Barbiere, and Titian for Signor Vecellio. Right glad I am they took these names, for I could never remember their right ones, and so would pass for a barbarian when talk about culture ran high.

To me it appeared the Madonna by a little known master, to wit, Orazio Gentileschi, was the one that drew the thickest crowd, and I liked it, too, for its bold colors and rich draperies. Indeed, it seemed not a religious picture at all, but a lovely mother with a fine babe who was not too fat, like most of the others. This Gentileschi went to England in his old age, and painted for the king's palace at Greenwich, and might easily have met my great ancestor, Samuel Pepys, before he began to write his diary.

I was struck with the awe with which the people looked at these pictures, and the hush in the galleries as if in a church, and I said, "Our noisy world stands in silence before the miracle of the Renaissance."

SONNETS TO SUPERMEN—I.

[Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-'49.]

Look through this skull's eye, where the vista shows
A ruins gaunt, a lonely shore and sea
Looming at midnight; from a window glows
Dimly a lantern's light—there sits he!
In melancholy meditation sits
Inhaling strange magnificence from dreams;
Or if more energy his mood befits,
Exclaiming to the moon Euclidian schemes.
That mangled ruins, sea and sombre shore
Are thickly peopled with his phantasies;
But when the day breaks they are there no more.
Wild flowers will bloom and birds enjoy the skies;
They wheel about his temple in their flight,
But he is gone—for he is of the night.

The Duke's Opinion of a Neighbor.

My slogan is "And on the seventh day shall ye rest." I must be right cause I notice the Bible also advocates this act. What I'm trying ta tell ya is how every neighborhood has got a goof who gets up on Sunday at dawn, works till sun-down doin things around his house an yard. Seems if there aint enuff work to do they go inventin some. Wives love their species cause it gives them a chance to pull cracks like "His lawn is always spotless" and "His screens aint rusty like ours," etc.

Well we got one of them boobs near us an tha gang have nicknamed him "Demon." Last Sunday he's at it again an it nearly was tha cause of me rocking tha Duchess asleep if I cood of laid my hands on a good-sized rock. At breakfast I'm right in tha middle of my 12th pancake an 3rd cup of coffee when she starts singing tha Demon's praises. It actually spoilt my appetite so I left tha table. Here's a small part of her jabbering:

"His garage floor is so clean you can eat off of it; he's continually pruning his trees, his lawnmower an tools is always well oiled, and did ya ever notice what athletes arms he has?" In tha 1st place, who wants to eat off of a garage floor an his continual pruning proves he's full of prunes. Some guys get all the breaks. He's got athletes arms, an the best I rate is athletes foot.

When she pulls the crack about me bein the only thing that got well oiled around our house I took myself for a walk. You know I cood pull a few on tha mama if I was in tha mood. One for instance, fer 6 months I been trying ta get buttons sewed on my pajamas; last night, the wind going in an out of the button holes sounded like a piccolo solo. Getting back to Demon he's quite a smoker, either cigars or cigarettes (whichever you have), but then why pick on a guy that aint got all his marbles. He really aint such a bad guy. In fact he's a helova sweet neighbor.

Best wishes tae ye, Mister Duff.
I trust ye wullna think me rough,
Or that I speak in accents gruff;
But dinna, pray, my meaning muff.
M' freens an' I together join
In hopes that ye make muckle coin
Frae a' the chatter that ye spill—
But as for me I've had m' fill
O' talk that is three-quarters guff—
The ither quarter being fluff.
But, good my Lord, pray write this plain
Upon the tablets o' yer brain:
The ship o' state may veer or luff;
The winds o' war may roar—or puff—
But, let me tell ye, Mister Duff:
We're through wi' writing on the cuff.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TRAIN CHILDREN TO BE CAUTIOUS—NOT APPREHENSIVE.

PHYSICIANS are far more interested in people than in disease—or at least they should be. Not infrequently the discovery is made that the one who comes seeking relief from some digestive disorder, for example, may be the victim of fear. Anything that threatens personal security may be reflected not only in unhappiness but in symptoms so efficiency destroying as to be tantamount to a serious ailment.

We would live in a strange world if every one were complacent always. Progress along all lines of human endeavor would slow up appreciably. Those who are ambitious and forward looking may evince concern as to the success of business plans without in the slightest degree giving way to paralyzing apprehensions that are akin to terror.

If we will but do so, we can turn our fears to good account. Preparedness in every phase of life should be a part of normal planning. We have learned of too many tragedies born of "let well enough alone" not to accept the warning. National as well as individual safety depends upon our ability to defeat those who would annihilate our institutions.

It has long been known that courage may be inculcated by training in self-reliance. There is a desirable middle ground between the playground bully and the timid, shrinking lad who is not quite sure whether his soul is his own or not. The modern emphasis upon good sportsmanship in games as well as the value of friendly and fair dealings in all transactions should bear fruit. No longer does a mother need to summon a bogey man in order to induce Johnny to behave.

While reality must not be kept from our youngsters, I doubt the wisdom of discussing before them unpleasant, discouraging incidents. As every loyal parent will deprive his or her own body of food in order that the offspring shall not suffer—so, in some measures, at least—we can protect our progeny from maternal and paternal disappointments and failures.

But there should come a time—with the children older—when they should be permitted to share responsibilities. Numerous instances prove that they gladly assume their full proportion of the load when the opportunity is offered.

We may teach also that heedlessness and indifference to danger do not signify bravery. The police officer who approaches an armed bandit with his own weapon ready for instant use is but exercising proper precautions. To fail to do so may constitute an exhibition of foolhardiness. Prudence, therefore, is not fear. We must observe in season and out every rule of conduct—every safeguard designed to preserve life and health.

Every thinking person admits that when we fail to employ the powers of reason and good judgment we become an undisciplined mob. A conflagration in a crowded building may destroy morale completely. A rush for the exit—with every man for himself—is a stampede, not the act of intelligent human beings.

We can prevent a goodly amount of physical and nervous damage by taking thought for the morrow. To be ready to meet an emergency of any type at any time insures a sense of comfort—even buoyancy. The one who is constantly apprehensive will accomplish but little. Physicians recognize that a blanched face, a sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach, and actual trembling may denote a failure on the part of the body to escape a menacing situation. In other words, the reaction may be so overwhelming that the muscles will not respond. Thus we become victims of our own fears.

ADHESIONS.

A. L. writes: What is meant by adhesions? What is the cause? Can they be cured?

REPLY.

Adhesions are bands of scar tissue which form occasionally after operations or infections. In most instances they are of no significance. Now and then, however, they may cause pressure or obstruction. Surgery and deep X-ray are employed.

ENLARGED HEART.

S. C. writes: Will a five year old boy with an enlarged heart outgrow this condition?

REPLY.

If the original cause responsible for the enlargement has been removed, there is no reason why he should not lead a normal life. There is probably no cause for worry even tho the cardiac organ remains oversize.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 25, 1914.

[120th day of world war; 86th day of present war.]

LONDON.—Germans have at last opened their crucial attack to break the allied lines and advance thru northern France. The allies have been attacked in force from Ypres to La Bassee and the Germans have heavy reënforcements and fresh guns for the renewal of the effort to cut the allies' lines. A naval base which the Germans were establishing at Zeebrugge has been destroyed by shells from British warships.

NEW YORK.—Talk of peace was revived when a messenger from the King of Sweden arrived and hurriedly boarded a train for Washington. He said that his message was "too important for cables or mail," but refused to say anything about its contents.

VIENNA.—Fighting continued in Russian Poland in spite of the bitter cold. German troops captured several bases of operations and claimed to have taken 110,000 prisoners, including 10,000 officers.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A bomb from a German airship fell in front of the American consulate at Warsaw, breaking most of the windows, but no one inside the building was injured. Seven persons outside the building were killed, but none was an American.

BOYS' TOWN AT ST. CHARLES.

Geneva, Ill., Nov. 22.—In a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE you touched a subject which might be the most interesting of local issues of definite importance to many TRIBUNE readers. I speak of the proposed construction of a fence around the St. Charles School for Boys.

If you were to dig into the school's history you would discover that it is the result of a private speculation in a school that was to have closely resembled the famous Boys' Town of the west. The St Charles institution was founded by a Mr. Gates to offer a home to boys who lacked good parental care and other needed advantages, not a place to imprison real criminals.

The construction of the fence will not affect me personally, I trust. I am thinking of the boys who deserve and could be helped by a decent home or "town," and of the people who are living in and near a city that appears to begin having certain qualities found in Joliet.

These local people plead against the fence, but their cries are unheard by the majority who know only that tough boy criminals are held at the institution and should be held more securely by a wall. Among this majority are the judges of Chicago who send tough criminals to St. Charles instead of only those deserving boys who could be helped by clean living.

We will always be able to say that "We almost had a place" to take care of our kids in Illinois, but there's still time to say "We have a place." It wouldn't be hard to clean house at the school for boys.

I don't ask that you make a crusade against the fence, but only to offer the facts and let your public decide.

NO PARCEL POST TO GERMANY.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—And now with the latest piece of neutrality, comes Postmaster General Farley announcing that the United States has discontinued parcel post service to Germany. The postoffices now refuse to accept packages addressed to that country.

The only reason for this, aside from deliberately taking sides, would be the possible trouble in getting packages over intact. We know that due to the blockade the allies confiscate anything "contraband", directed to Germany; but why are they allowed to interfere with the mail service from a neutral nation, especially a friend, as we are supposed to be.

PROPAGANDA IN A MOVIE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—I have just witnessed the finest bit of propaganda ever foisted upon an unsuspecting theater audience. I am referring to the movie, "Nurse Edith Cavell."

In this picture the German army is portrayed as a cold, ruthless machine that executed its prisoners of war. Gray legions of steel helmets, tramping feet, etc.

Just why are the movie producers now striving so mightily to stir up a hatred against the Germans? R. C. S.

REAL ART MASTERPIECES.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Hail to the Chicago Art Institute for procuring the present exhibit of Italian masterpieces.

Magnificent is a mild word. An event for the public in general and for the art weary purist in particular. What a wholesome event in this day and age of monstrosities burlesquing under the guise of art.

May it be the advent of something fundamental in that which we pass as 1939 art so-called. JAMES W. BULGER.

ONE MAN STREET CARS.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—In the proposed consolidation of transportation in Chicago, we believe a 7 cent fare is just and reasonable. In Boston and San Francisco the street cars are manned by only a motorman, no conductor being necessary. The passengers must have the exact fare when they enter the car. They drop it into an automatic machine which collects fares and stamps transfers and collects them.

At least there would be no extra operating expenses using this system.

Secretary North Side Transportation League.

FROM BOYS ON MAGINOT LINE.

POSTAL SECTOR 390, France, Oct. 22.—We are two young French soldiers, who are bringing all our force to the Maginot line as our contribution toward the fight for the liberty of our soil.

We went to your country when very young and as children appreciated your generous hospitality.

We have been settled in our native country for the last 10 years, and we know no one over there. Thus we have the audacity to solicit thru the help of your great paper an American correspondent, man or woman, knowing our language, or a French-American, who would serve, in short, as our godfather or godmother of war. We would eagerly maintain this correspondence with your country that we all love.

MR. DAPHNE AGAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Apropos of the letter from Mr. Daphne, London solicitor, several folks, I understand, wrote replies to him. I didn't. I sent him one complete TRIBUNE containing his letter and your editorial. I do think, tho, that he should enlist in the British army for duty in France.

FROM A TRAFFIC COP'S WIFE.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Ever since the police traffic division was formed the men have been granted a day off on Thanksgiving, New Year's, and Christmas, also a few other holidays, save for a few men to man the principal crossings, who would be granted another day during the week. This has worked satisfactorily. But this year they have to take Thanksgiving off, as one of what are called Kelly days. [This means one of 14 payless pay days taken by each city employé.] Isn't it most unfair to ask these brave men, who stand the hardships of cold in winter and heat of summer, to make such a sacrifice? They should be given the day off, as heretofore, regardless of Kelly days. Their commander, David Flynn, should be human enough to see this. Does Chief Allman or Mayor Kelly take enough interest in these traffic officers to know what is taking place?

POLICEMAN'S WIFE.

WALT AND THE CAT.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—We have been reading THE TRIBUNE for many years and our favorite comic strip has always been Gasoline Alley. Every member of my family and many of my friends strongly object to the manner in which Walt is trying to get rid of the cat. We have in Chicago a wonderful organization know as the Anti-Cruelty society, an animal rescue outfit. Surely Mr. King has heard of this society.

Let something be done promptly to restore Walt to our good graces for we have always loved him and his little family. [MRS.] J. J. BLAINE.

FOR A CLEANUP SQUAD.

Oak Park, Nov. 22.—With all the people on relief, or just not working, why aren't some of them put to work keeping the rest rooms in the "L" stations, parks, and other places clean? In each of these are being signs to have examinations and not spread diseases, etc., and still the rest rooms look like they were the meeting places for disease.

MOTHER'S ESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 22 [Legal Friend of the People].—Will you please give me all the information you possibly can regarding two questions:

1. We are a family of six children. My father is living and my mother is deceased and left a bank account in her name. What procedure would you advise and how long do we have to wait until it is settled in the Probate court?

2. My married brother claims that he owns part of our house which is in my father's name and said that if he wanted to be mean he could collect his share of the house. Is this possible? He is the only one that is married. A. K.

1. The bank can insist on probate, but if the amount is small, they may be willing to waive it. The only way to ascertain their attitude is to take the matter up with them.

2. You give us no facts as to the original ownership of the house or as to the basis of the brother's possible claim.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Cairo, Ill., Nov. 23 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. If a man owns an equity in a house held in his wife's name altho he actually paid for the entire price of building the house, she having the lot [2] does his equity die with him?

3. If not, and he died owing debts, can you sue for judgment against the house? M. S.

1. Where a husband has caused title to be taken in his wife's name there would be a presumption that he intends a gift to her. You may be mistaken in your apparent assumption that he could rebut this presumption.

2. If it can be proved that he had an equity, then presumably his equity would go to his heirs, but under the Illinois evidence act the heirs could not testify on their own behalf.

3. His creditors would be entitled to subject any of his assets to payment of their debts. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEMAND JARECKI APPOINT HONEST POLLS OFFICIALS

Oak Park Women Take Unanimous Action.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A new angle in the agitation over Cook county vote frauds was taken yesterday by the National Republican Women's Club of Oak Park. At a meeting in the Oak Park Arms hotel they adopted a resolution demanding that County Judge Jarecki appoint honest precinct judges and clerks.

Mrs. John K. Russell.

Their action came following a speech by George F. Barrett, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general. Barrett discussed the election laws of Illinois and urged his hearers to start action immediately toward enlisting the services of honest, capable men and women as polling place officials.

Vote Is Unanimous.

When he had finished, Mrs. John K. Russell, first vice chairman and program chairman, asked if anybody in the audience desired to ask questions. Mrs. Samuel Raymond asked who is responsible for the selection and appointment of judges and clerks. Mrs. Russell replied that the responsibility is entirely Judge Jarecki's.

Then Mrs. David Warner, president of the organization, moved that the secretary be directed to draw up a resolution demanding that the county judge appoint honest officials and moved its adoption. The vote was unanimous.

Mrs. Russell thereupon announced that if it conformed with the judgment of the meeting the Oak Park club will solicit the coöperation of other women's organizations in the suburbs and in Chicago in starting a crusade for the appointment of judges and clerks of integrity and intelligence.

Must Have Honest Judges.

Barrett said that vote frauds will be eliminated when the kind of judges provided for in the statutes are appointed in Chicago and its suburbs.

"The law specifically provides that the judges and clerks shall be of good repute and character," he said. "The law provides that the election commissioners shall have full power to force qualified persons to serve if that is necessary. But that would require a drafting board in every ward and township. Instead of that, let's enlist lawyers, doctors, educators, and other honest, conscientious citizens who will volunteer to serve as judges and clerks."

CAMPAIGN FOR DEWEY IS OPENED IN BOSTON BY MRS. RUTH SIMMS

Boston, Mass., Nov. 24 (Special).—Thomas E. Dewey's campaign for the Republican nomination for President was launched here today by Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms, close friend of the New York prosecutor and one of his political strategists.

Speaking before the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, Mrs. Simms called on the G. O. P. to select Dewey as "a fighting leader" for "complete national and party rehabilitation."

It was the first time that any of Dewey's close associates had openly bid for the presidential nomination for him. It served as a prelude to Dewey's own opening campaign speech Dec. 6 in Minneapolis.

Mrs. Simms, daughter of the late Mark Hanna and former representative-at-large from Illinois, called Dewey "a fighting young man, a man of vigor, courage, honesty, and proved executive ability," and said "he should be our candidate. Let us make sure "that our revitalized party, on its feet and fighting again, has a real leader for whom we can beat the drums of victory."

G. O. P. ASPIRANTS TO GOVERNORSHIP PLEDGE HARMONY

Promise Party Peace After April Primary.

Four Republican aspirants to the governorship of Illinois—three who have announced their candidacies and one who is expected to declare himself next week—joined last night in predictions of party harmony after the party primary next April.

The four accepted the invitation of former Ald. John A. Massen, committeeman for the 48th ward, to speak before his organization. They appeared on the platform at the Sheridan Plaza hotel before an audience of 400 which cheered their assurances of united effort in the 1940 election campaign. C. Wayland Brooks, a fifth aspirant to the governorship, also invited, wired that absence from the city alone prevented his acceptance.

Starts Harmony Talk.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield started the harmony talk. The village of Palmyra, in Macoupin county, his birthplace, has announced that a demonstration for him will be held there next Wednesday night. There is an apparently strong suspicion it will be a coming out party.

His example was followed by the other three, Dwight H. Green of Chicago, Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, and Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville. Each spoke on some phase of the nomination campaign that appealed to him as an important issue.

Hopes for G. O. P. Return.

"The present national administration," said Searcy, "seems to want war to enable it to double the national debt and end private ownership in this country."

"We all hope for the return of the Republican party to power in 1940," said Green, "just as we hope to bring back sanity in government."

"If a Republican is elected governor of Illinois," said Hayes, "the state will be governed from Springfield and not from Washington."

"There will have to be some change in the sales tax," said Lyons. "We'll have to cut it down so that the whole 3 per cent won't go to Democratic beneficiaries."

PRESIDENT PUTS OUT FEELER ON DEFENSE TAXES

Half Billion Increase for Armed Forces.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24.—President Roosevelt today suggested the possibility of special new taxes to meet a half billion dollar increase in defense needs. He forecast appropriation of about 2 billion 250 million dollars for the fiscal year 1941, which begins next July 1. The present military budget is 1 billion 760 millions.

The President cautioned that appropriation of more than 2 billion dollars does not necessarily mean that such a sum will actually be spent. Expenditures will run somewhat below the actual appropriations, he predicted, but said that some increase will be necessary to keep in step with the war tempo of Europe.

In disclosing that his budget message to congress in Janurry, will ask for more money to build up the nation's military establishments, Mr. Roosevelt asked reporters to raise for public discussion the question of paying for the arms bill.

Question of Financing.

He said the nation should consider whether the national defense should be put on a pay as you go basis thru taxes or whether the administration should finance the new outlay by more borrowing.

Assuming that he will be able to cut other appropriations, Mr. Roosevelt said that the nation will have a deficit reduction from two sources—first, an actual slash in budget estimates, and, second, an increase in taxes. He said that revenues are increasing and promise to continue to do so.

Then he posed his question for public discussion.

Undoubtedly, because of the world situation, we will have to appropriate a fairly large sum, more than we appropriated last year, for national defense. Let us assume that the sum would run to approximately 500 million dollars more than last year. Query: Should we borrow money to pay for it or should you pay as you go for emergency national defense?

Taxes Now or Later.

If the money is borrowed, it will have to be paid some time in the future and that means there will be no additional taxes this year, he said. If the government should pay as it goes, new taxes must be levied.

Asked what form possible new taxes might take Mr. Roosevelt said nothing has been decided—he was just talking principle, and principle can be as much news as dollars and cents. The question of form will not be considered until congress decides the question.

To the question whether he thought congress would be anxious to impose new taxes in an election year Mr. Roosevelt said again that he was speaking of principle and not politics or forms of tax.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he did not mean to imply that the budget can be balanced next year aside from national defense costs, but he said that reductions and increased revenues would effect a very, very substantial decrease in the budget.

The deficit in the present fiscal year has passed the 1½ billion dollar mark and promises to be much larger by June 30. The national debt is close to 42 billion dollars and the present legal limitation is 45 billion dollars.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the increase in the defense appropriation will go largely to meet the cost of the augmentation of the army, navy, and marine corps he ordered at the outbreak of the European war.

The new record peace time national defense appropriation also means that the army and navy will push ahead their rearmament programs. The army will get additional modern equipment and the navy more ships.

The President discussed the national defense situation at a roadside press conference, as he sat at the wheel of his touring car. Beside him was Mrs. Roosevelt. In the rear seat of the car was Basil O'Connor, head of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

The conference got under way with an announcement that the war resources board had completed its task of drafting a plan to set up industry for war needs, should war come. Mr. Roosevelt made public a letter to E. R. Stettinius Jr., New York industrialist, announcing the dissolution of the board of which he was chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt predicted the end of the board, which was created by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson several weeks ago after it had been attacked privately by New Dealers as having too great a Wall street representation for a group which might be called upon to draft industrial policies in the event of war.

Mr. Roosevelt said he might extend his stay here a day and leave Wednesday morning if the weather continues to be ideal. Enroute to the capital he will pause at Asheville, N. C., to visit two ailing members of his official family—Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre and Miss Margaret Durand, who was in turn secretary to the late White House Secretary Louis McHenry Howe and James Roosevelt, when he was a member of his father's staff.

This afternoon the President dedicated a community center in the village here to his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt. He tossed another third term teaser at the newspaper correspondents. In referring to the possibility that Warm Springs might get a new postoffice he said:

"We have only got a little over a year left," and added in the next breath, "I don't know that the next administration will give Warm Springs a new postoffice."

ACCENT ON FIGURES

By CALEB

HOW fascinating, even on casual inquiry, is the subject of Numbers, probably seldom occurs to us. Figures, to most folk, spell statistics; and statistics are for statisticians. But our far-ago forebears were still close to original, individual uses for counting; and their earliest operations were, as one might guess, mere adding and subtracting . . . with none but experts in a nation or community doing even that. As an instance—

It is related that a merchant of the 15th century wanted to give his son what we would call an "advanced commercial education." Today, such a situation would be met by resort to business schools like Wharton, Harvard, the University of Chicago, or Northwestern. But on appealing to a university professor of his own day for advice, this merchant was told that if his son's training was to be limited to adding and subtracting, such instruction could doubtless be satisfactorily obtained in Germany. If not, however, the art of multiplying and dividing, the professor explained, had advanced most rapidly in Italy; and to become completely qualified as a figurer, the boy should be sent there!

Authentic or not, the incident mirrors clearly the mathematic lack of the Middle Ages. A very real lack that we of today cannot possibly appreciate. Lacking the multiplication table, for example, the mediaevalist multiplying, say, 46 by 13, did not reach his answer by setting down two simple number-groups, adding, and getting 598, as we do. Instead, he used duplations, or doublings; the safest multiplication he knew. First he doubled 46, and got 92. Then he doubled 92, and got 184. Then he doubled 184, and got 368. He now had actually the products of multiplying by 4 and by 8—which was 12 times 46—and by adding another 46, he finally arrived at his answer: 598.

Also, as practiced in those dimly distant 10th to 15th century days, division was a process of mediation, or "halving." Sixteen divided by 4 would be arrived at by halving 16, which is 8; then halving 8, which is 4—the answer. Every manipulation of numbers had to stay close to those two operations men knew best: simple addition and simple subtraction. . . .

Today, machines have become mathematical servants more accurate than the human mind: such as the unique instrument we use daily, not only to add, subtract, divide and multiply, but also to figure percentages. In many of our offices are now performed, mechanically, intricate figure manipulations undreamed of by Europe's savants of yesterday.

BOARD OF HEALTH SKIRMISHES AGAIN IN BOTTLE BATTLE

This Time the Debate Is About Caps.

Members of the Chicago board of health held a debate yesterday. It was about milk bottle caps, and the net result of three hours of talk was a request that the corporation counsel instruct the board in the "relationship" of the state milk laws to the Chicago milk ordinances.

At the close one board member, Dr. Robert A. Black, suggested that the body return to its duty of guarding public health and quit worrying about technicalities.

The debate was typical of those which have been held since the board, on Oct. 16, recommended that the sale of milk in paper cartons be legalized in the city. So far there has been little progress toward getting the necessary ordinance to back the recommendation. The history of the question is a record of delay.

In Suburbs More Than a Year.

For more than a year dairy companies have been selling milk in paper containers in the suburbs. Similar sales are being made in many American cities. These containers meet the requirements of the United States health service and [in Illinois] of the state health department.

It took four weeks for the board's recommendation to reach the city council, which referred the matter to its committee on health. The committee on Wednesday decided to delay hearings on the matter, perhaps for weeks.

There is much opposition to the proposed change in milk bottling regulations. Glass interests wish to keep the rich Chicago bottle market, estimated at $750,000 a year, to themselves. Milk wagon drivers, who are unionized, oppose the containers because, they contend, the change would shift sales from home delivery to stores. One member of the board of health, Dr. Lloyd Arnold, is opposed to containers.

Only One Dissenting Vote.

The health board recommendation on paper containers was introduced by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the board president. It was passed with only one dissenting vote—that of Dr. Arnold. There was a second resolution instructing Dr. Bundesen to send the recommendation to Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes.

Hodes received the communication. The health board hadn't asked him to draw an amendment to the milk ordinance and forward it to the council. He put the communication in his files. Three weeks later it was still there.

The board of health then passed a supplementary resolution requesting that the corporation counsel draft the amendment. The drafting required the addition of four words to the existing requirement that Chicago's milk be sold in "standard milk bottles." The addition was: "Or single service containers."

No Opinion Offered.

Sending a copy to Dr. Bundesen, Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter Schaefer informed him that no legal opinion on the matter had been requested and none was offered. Hodes also sent the amendment to the council, which received it on Nov. 16.

Further legal quibbles developed. Hodes suggested to Dr. Bundesen that he doubted whether it was the province of the health board to make all regulations to govern the single service, or paper, containers; that the aldermen might reserve that power for themselves. Dr. Bundesen replied that the board had already decided to use the regulations "promulgated and recommended" by the United States health service.

Question Long in Courts.

Meanwhile, the paper container question had long been in the courts. The Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., filed suit months ago in the federal court to compel the city to permit use of paper containers. Much testimony was produced before a master in chancery to show that paper containers were even more sanitary than glass bottles.

Among the witnesses was Dr. Bundesen, who said he had recommended the use of paper after long opposing it, because the United States health authorities had changed their stand.

On Nov. 7 Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the council health committee, asserted he was tired of "buck passing by the board of health and the corporation counsel." On Nov. 16, when the proposed amendment was referred to his committee, he said there would be speedy and open public hearings to dig out the truth about containers.

One Hearing Held.

On Wednesday the first hearing was held. Mayor Kelly was present. So was Dr. Bundesen. So was Hodes. So was Dr. Arnold. Hodes mentioned the Fieldcrest suit and said it might be decided "in another month."

The result was that Ald. Ross' committee decided to hold no more hearings, take no more action, until the federal court has ruled for or against Fieldcrest.

Yesterday the board of health refused to allow Dr. Bundesen to forward a letter to the state health department asking that body to list and interpret the differences between its milk regulations and those of the city. Instead, the board voted to ask Hodes for an interpretation.

Dr. Bundesen said he wanted the information to guide the city in making regulations on milk bottle capping. This brought on another controversy and a vote to instruct a group of milk dealers that short skirted aluminum caps, without paper inner seals, were not adequate protection to consumers and could not be used.

"I think it is time," said Dr. Black, "to take stock of ourselves. We must return to the fact that it is our duty to protect the public health of Chicago. We are not supposed to have legal minds and worry about technicalities until we are all at cross purposes with each other."

Windshield Defective; Boy Killed

Altho auto which killed a boy, 11 years old, had a sticker showing that it had passed safety lane inspection, police estimated the visibility thru the windshield at one-third. The driver said he did not see the victim.

A boy, 11 years old, was killed last night by an automobile which police said should never have been passed, in its present condition, in the city safety lane tests. The victim was Guido Ghilarducci, 2850 North Menard avenue. He was struck in front of 5811 Diversey avenue and dragged 30 feet.

The driver, Chester Syslo, 22, of 1452 North Keating avenue, a punch press operator, told Cragin police he did not see the boy. They said that was possible in view of the condition of the windshield on his car. The glass was so blurred thru deterioration, police said, that it permitted visibility thru only one-third of its surface. The car, however, had a safety lane sticker.

Killed by Car at Intersection.

Raymond Wortman, 64, 1747 Merrimac avenue, a machinist, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Berg, 1827 Narragansett avenue, at North and Merrimac avenues, Oak Park. Berg was charged with manslaughter by the Oak Park police.

The Marquette police charged Frank Bednarik, 5119 South Hoyne avenue, with manslaughter and leaving the scene of the accident Wednesday at Harrison street and Ashland avenue in which Thomas Arcuri, 18, of 848 Hudson avenue, was killed. Bednarik's car struck and overturned a machine driven by Nastasi Batasino, 2247 Flournoy street, in which Arcuri was riding. Bednarik fled but surrendered later at the Marquette station.

SANTA'S ARRIVAL SENDS CITY ON A SHOPPING SPREE

Enthusiastic Throngs Jam Downtown District.

Chicagoans welcomed Santa Claus yesterday and then gladdened the old gentleman's heart by swinging into the annual Christmas shopping spree. State street stores were jammed, the crowds moved in almost solid phalanxes on the sidewalks, and loop automobile traffic was snarled frequently as the mad, merry rush got under way.

The holiday shopping season always is inaugurated the day after Thanksgiving, and the circumstance that Thanksgiving came earlier this year was no deterrent to the buyers. They were ready to shop early and frequently.

Store Aisles Festooned.

The merchants were ready, too. Store aisles were festooned with bells and wreaths of holly. Tall tapers flickered electrically. After Santa Claus' official arrival for the toy opening, his brethren materialized in almost every store and at street corners. State street was lined with large illuminated wreaths, gold stars shining from their centers.

The State Street council said yesterday's crowd of shoppers was larger than on the opening day in 1938, leading the merchants to hope that their holiday season sales will surpass those of last year.

The Monroe street parking station in Grant park was packed thruout the day to its capacity of 2,000 cars. The park district, which operates the station, said more than 7,000 cars were checked in. It was the first weekday on which the station has had to accommodate so many automobiles.

Neighborhood shopping centers also reported receiving throngs of shoppers.

2,000 Children Greet Santa.

Santa Claus winged down out of the north in a giant silver flagship of American Airlines. He was piloted by First Officer H. L. Clark, and his honorary escort was the a cappella choir of Lake View High school. More than two thousand boys and girls and their parents greeted Santa at Chicago airport. Mayor Kelly and his young son, Stephen, conveyed the city's official greeting. David A. Mayer Jr., president of the State Street council, and Paul Kunning of the Chicago Association of Commerce were also on the reception committee.

The plane circled the city before landing and, from aloft, the choristers sang Christmas carols. These were broadcast by W-G-N, and a loudspeaker brought them to the airport crowd.

Santa and the singers were guests at a luncheon in the Palmer House. At 3:30 p. m. they appeared on a fire escape outside the hotel on State street. Carols were sung again, and Old Nick read his official pronouncement that Christmas is only 30 days away, so hurry, hurry, hurry with your shopping.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN, 75.

Mrs. Yennige Tashaian, 78 years old, died yesterday in county hospital of injuries suffered Sept. 28 in a fall in her home at 2825 Adams street.

C. I. O. AMBUSHES 75 AT CHRYSLER PLANT; 8 INJURED

Workers Run a Gauntlet of Flying Bricks.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 24 [Special].—Two policemen and six workmen were injured today in a sharp battle at the main Dodge plant in Hamtramck, one of the Chrysler automobile factories that have been closed eight weeks in a dispute with the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America.

The fighting broke out when about 75 men sought to go to work in the plant. Fifty-seven of them got in after running more than a block thru a barrage of bricks and stones.

One workman received a skull fracture and was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. Five other workers and Police Lieutenant Marvin incurred cuts and bruises from the missiles.

Battle Halted by Police.

A score of policemen, on duty at the plant in anticipation of trouble, soon broke up the fighting and arrested 22 men. They were later released and ordered to report to police Monday.

Some 600 pickets of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America were massed at the factory entrance when the workmen approached.

The pickets, however, were reported to have taken no part in the fighting. The bricks and stones were hurled, police said, by so-called "flying squadrons" of men who lay in wait for the workers and opened the barrage from ambush.

First Serious Violence.

The fighting was the first instance of violence at the Dodge plant, with the exception of individual disturbances on picket lines, since the present dispute began. The factory is the scene of the original sit-down controversy which finally closed all the Chrysler plants here.

R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers, charged that today's disorder was "deliberately provoked by the management in an effort to mar the eight-day record of completely peaceful conduct on the part of pickets."

Meantime, negotiators attempting to settle the long dispute and return 58,000 idle men to work were deadlocked.

Each ship has a place in the top of the tail for a machine gunner to defend the plane against rear attacks and a place in the nose for another gunner.

Music Events Fill Calendar for Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

Music lovers are having their fill of good music this week-end, for there is something interesting being performed every afternoon and evening. The cycle started with this week's symphony concerts in Orchestra hall and will end tomorrow afternoon with the concert the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra will give under the auspicer of the board of the Children's Memorial hospital.

It is only the week-end cycle that will end then, of course, for with Kirsten Flagstad singing Monday night in "Tannhäuser" and in "Lohengrin" Wednesday night, Chicago will have more rare musical treats.

The opera house was filled last night when Flagstad and Martinelli sang "Tristan and Isolde." Swarthout's "Carmen" and Pons' "Lucia" undoubtedly will mean sold out houses again this afternoon and tonight.

Orchestra hall was well filled Thursday night and crowded yesterday afternoon for the concerts at which Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists, were the soloists. Vronsky and Babin made their Chicago debut at the Arts club just about a year ago. Among their listeners yesterday afternoon were the Hunter Clarksons of Santa Fe, who had come north especially to hear their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Babin in private life. The musicians spent last summer in Santa Fe, where Mrs. Clarkson is president of the concert association. Mrs. Clarkson is the former Louise Wells of Chicago.

Concert Tomorrow Starts at 2:30 o'Clock.

Tomorrow afternoon's concert will start earlier than most Sunday afternoon musical events because of the fact that it will be broadcast. Conductor John Barbirolli will appear on the stage of the Auditorium at 2:30.

This is the first big tour the New York orchestra has made since 1929 and the first time this great orchestra has come as far west as Chicago. Transporting such an organization is something of a problem, and from New York come interesting bits of information about how an orchestra of 104 musicians travels.

Three coaches [air conditioned] are used for day travel, four Pullmans for night. To keep the wind players from getting head colds and the fiddlers free from rheumatic pains, large double sheets are tacked across the windows. The instruments are packed into 100 trunks, and Mr. Barbirolli's dozen batons [the orchestra is giving 14 concerts in as many days] are in a special package. Fifty trunks are needed for the dress suits of the men.

Tea for Conductor to Follow Concert.

The list of boxholders reads like a Chicago Who's Who, for the women of the committee in charge have done a splendid job in disposing of the boxes and main floor seats. Mrs. Donald R. McLennan and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine head the committee, which also includes Mrs. John A. Spoor, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs Harold Howard, and Mrs. James H. Douglas.

Miss Eleanor Wetten, chairman of the program girls, is giving a breakfast party for her corps of assistants, among whom will be Mrs. George Bates, Mrs. Henri Bouscaren, Mrs. Graham Fairbank, Mrs. Ralph Applegate, and five other young matrons and a dozen girls.

After the concert there is to be a tea for Mr. and Mrs. Barbirolli at the Casino, at which members of the English Speaking union will be hosts. Receiving will be Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster. Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood is in charge of the tea tables, and among those whom she has asked to pour are Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. William Greenlee, Miss Jean

Separate Skirt Idea Good for Evening Wear

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We've come a long way from the shirtwaist and separate skirt era. But we still can find such combines that perform smoothly and obligingly. It doesn't take great imagination to mix, match, or contrast some very unusual combines from all the good looking finds now offered the shopper.

For evening ensembles, see the many beautiful black skirts that sweep the floor . . . from clinging soft crêpes, moires, bengalines, to smart thin wool and crush resistant velvet. Velveteen is another material going out of night with a shining metallic blouse top that really is a glorified shirtwaist with short sleeves.

Novelty fabrics in a texture resembling wool come in some rather glamorous colors, russet red, white. The same color effects come in gored satins. The thin wools are high fashion. Some can be matched with fitted wool dinner jackets cut high enough so that they can be worn as a blouse top effect without any extra blouse or vestee under them. Puritan plain affairs are used for the background of any extra bib necklaces, brooches, clips, or epaulets you may wish to use. Long sleeves are as plentiful as the brief above-the-elbow numbers.

There's a new black velvet blouse top that hugs the neckline, has short sleeves, reaches well down over the hipline and snaps under the side seam.

Sweater in Waffle Stitch

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

This attractive and easy to knit waffle stitch sweater is one suitable to both young and old. The kimono sleeve treatment is new and will prove especially popular for resort wear. The blouse may be knitted in crêpe, canary, angora, chiffon zephyr, or any of the light weight cottons, synthetic fibers, or linen. Instructions are available in 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

For instructions in knitting the waffle stitch blouse, No. X-388, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Culver City, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP).—Hedy Lamarr settled her differences with M-G-M and returned to the studio today for work. Studio officials said that W. S. Van Dyke, who has been directing Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald in "New Moon," was withdrawing from that picture to direct retakes on "I Take This Woman," made previously with Miss Lamarr and Spencer Tracy costarring.

Good Morning!

Science vs. soul—"the little man who isn't there"—to many brilliant minds, is a subject dear to the heart of Lloyd C. Douglas. In "Disputed Passage" he reasons from both sides of the fence, with soul finally advancing the winning argument.

As the principal characters in the picture are doctors and much of the action takes place in hospitals, I was happy to see the film in the company of a well known medical man who assured me that, on the whole, the picture is therapeutically sound. Here and there he vouchsafed "They'd never do that" or "I think they stretch a point there," but these interjections were few and far between.

The burden of the action falls heaviest on the shoulders of Akim Tamiroff, John Howard, and Dorothy Lamour.

The first portrays a famous nerve and brain specialist—patterned after a man whose work has made medical history. Mr. Howard is seen as Dr. Forster's student, and, later, his assistant. Miss Lamour as an American born orphan reared in China is the girl with whom young Beaven falls in love. . . .

Between the great Forster, an atheist, and the eager, able, and humane Beaven, hatred has existed from the moment of their first meeting. Hatred irritatingly tempered by mutual respect and admiration. For Beaven knows Forster for the remarkable scientist that he is and Forster recognizes genius in Beaven. They work together successfully until Beaven commits—in Forster's eyes—the unpardonable sin. He falls in love with a patient. Love and marriage are anathema to Forster, who feels that only the life that is sterile emotionally is a fit lamp to burn the oil of research. . . .

Unknown to Beaven, Forster seeks out the girl. . . . What he says to her separates the lovers. . . . Audrey disappears.

Seeking her, Beaven finds his lot cast in war riddled China. . . . Here, while aiding the pitiful victims of bomb raids he receives an injury to the brain—which brings the great Forster flying across the world to save the life of the young chap he has hated and browbeaten, and probably loved more than anything else in the world. . . .

H. E.

Akim Tamiroff gives a truly great performance as Forster. He is an actor of versatility, as you know, and nobody has more of a "feel" for a good line nor greater ability to put it across. There is no flew in his characterization; one only regrets that too much attention was called to his hands, which are not those of a surgeon. John Howard can be proud with reason of his keenly intuitive portrayal of Dr. Beaven. . . . Dorothy Lamour does not belong in the picture.

All other rôles are well handled and the good and thoughtful narrative, so competently directed, staged, and photographed, doesn't permit interest to lag.

See you tomorrow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

"Beauty is as beauty does" is the sound, old fashioned motto adorning, in cross stitch design, one of the first of the small beauty boxes prepared for the season of gift giving.

This box is unusually attractive, decorated in the style of an old fashioned sampler. It's extremely inexpensive and strikes us as being a most suitable gift for the young girl just starting out on her life-long campaign to give her complexion the best of care. The good motto is something she'll absorb, too.

The preparations in the box, five of them in all, are of the highest quality. Purity is a proud claim of their manufacturer and they are the kind of products that have been on the market for decades, a fact that in itself is high praise. In the cosmetic industry "survival of the fittest" is more than a cliché.

There is an excellent cleansing cream, very white, very smooth and very efficient in cleansing and softening. This is one of those cleansers that has special appeal for the woman with dry skin, because it's a good emollient.

Then there is a jar of foundation cream, thin and satiny, that is a competent protective and a wonderful base for powder and rouge. Another point in its favor is that it is easy to use.

Face powder, a pink hand lotion and a mild skin tonic complete the itemized account of the contents.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 24.—In less than 30 days "Gone with the Wind" will be world-previewed at the Loew's house at Atlanta, Ga., thus consummating an event that at times seemed fated to go down in Hollywood history as "Selznick's Folly."

In fact, the public got so tired of reading about the plans for the picturization of the Margaret Mitchell book that they developed an apathy to the whole thing that was frightening. . . . The letters poured in to this desk, beseeching me never again to refer to the cursed project because obviously it would never come to pass.

Yet within 30 days, on Dec. 16, the tardy production will be previewed at Atlanta. . . . David O. Selznick, badgered and beratec, will have the last laugh. . . . The picture has been magnificently executed.

There were 29 actresses tested for the part of Scarlett O'Hara, which went finally to British Actress Vivien Leigh, and the repeated and futile attempts to find a Scarlett led to the nation-wide ribbing which Selznick had to endure.

I won't list the entire group of 29 who were considered, but prominent in that staggering list were Norma Shearer, Paulette Goddard, Miriam Hopkins, Lana Turner, Joan Bennett, Jean Arthur, Margaret Tallichet, Frances Dee, Linda Watkins, Anita Louise, Louise Platt, Diana Barrymore, and Susan Hayward. All of these, with the exception of Miss Shearer, engaged in tests for the part.

From the outset David Selznick wanted Norma Shearer for the rôle of Scarlett, and she could have had it merely by inclining her shapely head.

As Al Lichtman, sales genius of M-G-M, now figures the scale of prices for the road-showing of the picture "Gone with the Wind" has a potential ceiling of some 10 millions of dollars domestic, which would exceed "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Playing to the same number of admissions "Gone with the Wind" could top the Disney opus purely on the difference in box office prices, and for an important flicker of this sort, loaded with important names, box office prices can be tilted to the top tilt without any public resentment. . . . In addition M-G-M can demand preferential playing dates and the top percentage in rentals.

It is known commonly that Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh head the cast of the picture directed by Victor Fleming, who took over after George Cukor had decided he didn't want to go thru with it. . . . But you can win bets that most of Hollywood, and that goes double for movie fans, can't list the rest of the cast.

The fans may remember vaguely that Leslie Howard and Olivia De Havilland are in it, but from that point on, they're staggering. . . . For your information, some of the other players are Thomas Mitchell, Barbara O'Neil, Evelyn Keyes, Ann Rutherford, Laura Hope Crews, Cliff Edwards, Ona Munson, Randy Brooks, Isabel Jewell, Victor Jory, J. M. Kerrigan, George Meeker, Harry Davenport, and Eddie [Rochester] Anderson.

The task of pleasing all of these players in reference to "billing" was prodigious. . . . Selznick sidestepped it neatly by announcing on the screen that he'd list them in ORDER OF APPEARANCE. . . . It was the neatest trick of the year. . . . Gable, of course, gets top billing in the programs and all publicity.

From the Hollywood standpoint, the picture is not only significant as a technicolor production, but it is important in that it will serve as a yardstick of the American box office. . . . Movie people, as a result of polls and surveys, always have insisted that the entire movie audience never has been determined.

It is the local contention that theater managers and publicity men NEVER have exploited a picture fully, and that as a result the greatest grosses represent only part of the potential audience. . . . I understand that Walt Disney, despite the staggering business chalked up by "Snow White," believes that a better exploitation and selling job, on the part of the theaters, would have added another million dollars to the American gross. . . . "Gone with the Wind" should answer this.

In fact, there will be a lot of pertinent questions answered starting in mid-December when "Gone with the Wind" opens at Atlanta, Ga. . . . Questions of direction, individual performances, casting, et cetera. . . . The answers to these questions will be in the affirmative. . . . Selznick really did a grand job.

New Yorker Keeps Her 27 Year Record as Martinelli Fan

This is a fan story.

In 1913 Giovanni Martinelli made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera company in the opera "La Bohème." In the audience was Miss Hattie Heft of Louisville, Ky., a graduate student at Columbia university.

Last night Martinelli made his debut in Wagnerian opera at the Civic Opera house. In the audience was Miss Heft of New York City, an assistant professor of physiological chemistry at Columbia university.

During the years Miss Heft has never missed a Martinelli performance, except once in 1929 when she was ill. She has followed him everywhere—to Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Haven, and Hartford. She has heard at least 500 performances and has never been disappointed in any of them.

"It is our 27th season," said Miss Heft, smoothing her purple velvet gown, "and Mr. Martinelli has never stopped growing. O, I admire his voice, his interpretation, his manner," this last proudly, "and I see no fault in him at all."

Three years ago Miss Heft met Martinelli at an opera benefit.

Labor Unions Give $1,000 in Community Fund Drive

Chicago labor unions have contributed more than $1,000 to the Community Fund campaign, it was announced last night by Mark A. Brown, industrial chairman of the 1939 drive. In addition to these subscriptions from the local units, many gifts have been received from individual union members thru their employé groups.

Flagstad Keys Her Isolde to Opera Heights

BY EDWARD BARRY.

When I am old and gray and full of yarns the luckless tots who will have to listen to tales of the golden age of opera will come to hate the very mention of Nov. 24, 1939. That is the date, of course, of Giovanni Martinelli's first appearance in German opera, but, more than that, it is the date of the most sensational performance of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" I have ever heard.

For, on the stage of the Civic Opera house last night, Kirsten Flagstad rose to heights of fury and splendor which even she has never exceeded. Here was the Isolde of Wagner's dreams come to life, an Isolde who could ride those demoniac phrases as if they were some simpering love song, and who could treat the tremendous orchestra as if it were a mouth organ. Let the brasses mass and the strings shriek, let the reverberation of orchestral sound shake the very opera house—still that miraculous voice rode easily and commandingly above the tumult.

It rang with hate and love and anger, seeming to know no limits of size or power. The more intense the drama became, the more mercilessly Wagner piled up his sonorities, the more easily did Mme. Flagstad sing.

Personally, I should rather be dead than faced with the prospect of singing Tristan against such an Isolde, and I suspect that Mr. Martinelli felt much the same thru part of the evening.

Considered in itself, this first Tristan of his was impressive. In the second act duo the easy beauty of his voice, with its soft southern colorings, gave to the gentler passages a quality which none of the very old style Tristans—the coughing, choking kind—could match. However, his voice did not get out over the orchestra in the more passionate sequences of the first and second act. For a while Mme. Flagstad and the orchestra were taking turns drowning him out—both innocent of any such intention and both preoccupied solely with the music.

A part of the reason for the sensational nature of the performance was the conducting of Edwin McArthur, Mme. Flagstad's own accompanist and director. We always think of "Tristan and Isolde" as a fairly static opera, but he moved it along at a terrific pace and allowed the performance's own momentum to build the climaxes.

Still another important contributor was Enid Szantho, the Brangaene, who was making her first Chicago operatic appearance. Her enactment was heroic in character and finely musical in quality. In those wonderful second act warnings her voice had the very color of doom.

George Czaplicki, Douglas Beattie, and Reinhold Schmidt sang Kurvenal, Mark, and Melot in that order. The male chorus was not any better than it has been.

Because of difficulty in getting a symphony orchestra to play the "Daphnis and Chloe" music, the Littlefield ballet has canceled tomorrow night's performance.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

(Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt)

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line jumper. They leave just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car—all occupants murdered, and the three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. Arriving at Pat's hotel Leonard doesn't get a chance to ask her about Dillon. He sees her slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian.

INSTALMENT XII.

INTO THE TRAP.

The place was a night club or a tavern or a roadhouse, as you pleased. A long room, the floor was smoothed and waxed for dancing. There were a number of little tables with metal chairs about them ranged along three walls. The walls themselves were hung with red and green streamers. Similar decorations entwined the rafters overhead.

It was, of course, the spot where the miners of Golconda were separated from their wages every pay day evening. And tonight was one of the periodical occasions when the separation would have been in full progress—if it were not for certain reasons which Leonard remembered only too well.

Naturally business was slack. In fact, there were only two customers in evidence, they were sitting at one of the little tables. Aside from them, Mrs. Sebastian was the sole person in the room. She was standing behind a small bar at the end of the dance floor, to his right. She was leaning on her implanted elbows with her chin in her cupped hands and she was chewing a toothpick. Her eyes met Leonard's and there was no sign of welcome in them, no trace of recognition. They held a hard wariness which he did not like.

But what he liked even less was the sight of those two customers at the little table. For one of them was a young fellow in a wide brimmed hat and flimsy shirt and overalls, he was shod in high heeled boots. And when Leonard looked upon the sunburned face with its wide eyes and weak chin, his mind went straight back to the bloody tableau in the gulch where the two roads met.

The other man at the table was Louis Mestres. He glanced at Leonard and he spoke to his companion in an undertone. The two of them laughed.

Louis Mestres had blossomed out. The shabby overalls, the greasy shirt and the indescribably battered hat had been displaced by a bewildering ensemble. There was not a suggestion of the peon about him now, he had become one of those brilliantly feathered birds of paradise who are always in evidence in the disreputable quarters of every border town, where parasites and small time gamblers of half a dozen off colored races mingle with the sidewalk crowds.

And Mestres was not the only one who had been adorning himself for the evening. Mrs. Sebastian, too, had blossomed out. The dress which this respectable lady had put on was a sleazy satin affair, cut low in front and behind and allowing more than a glimpse of dusky bosom which had dulled to the hue of mud beside the magenta tint of her gown. Her huge arms were bare to the shoulders.

Leonard took off his cork helmet and bowed. "Business," he said, "seems to be dull this evening." He was thinking, "If I want to get out of this I've got to start the play. But how?" His lips were smiling but his eyes were not.

"'Ow do yo' do?" Mrs. Sebastian replied. "Business is rotten, yes." She did not respond to his smile, she kept her elbows on the bar, her chin in her hands, her full face remained as expressionless as though it had been carved from wood, except for the hard glitter in her eyes. It was as if she had never seen him before.

Louis Mestres and the sunburned young highwayman with the rabbit chin shifted their positions uneasily and the former glanced toward the door.

"So," Leonard reflected, "that's where it's coming from."

An uncomfortable silence had fallen over the room. Leonard took in the details of the place. There was a second entrance. It was at the further end, beside the little bar, and it evidently led into another portion of the building which was, according to his memory of the exterior, as large as the room where he was standing. Probably there would be living quarters there, and more doors giving exit to the outside.

He heard a slight sound behind the door at his back, the one toward which Mestres had glanced. The thud of feet upon the hard roadway. And he remembered now that he had heard some one moving before he entered the place but he had not given any further thought to it. He wasted an instant in cursing himself for a fool. If he had been new to the border, or unwarned of the conditions here at San Ilario, there might have been an excuse. But he had known of these things, he had known that he was in danger when he came, and he had walked straight into this trap while those who had set it were waiting out there in the darkness.

The whole affair was plain enough: Some one had sent word that he was coming here tonight. That some one, he told himself, would be Mrs. Sebastian. And Mestres knew what was in preparation.

He said, "Perhaps it will help matters if I buy a drink." He advanced toward the bar.

There was no doubt of it: There were several of them outside, they were drawing nearer the entrance. It seemed to him as if the room had grown—as if it were interminable. He did not change his pace, he was conscious of the pair at the table watching him but he was holding his eyes on Mrs. Sebastian's face. It did not alter by so much as a muscle. He halted before the bar. She asked:

"Wot weel yo' 'ave?" He said:

"Rye highball."

She took her elbows from the counter and turned to the shelf against the wall where the liquor bottles were arranged in a long row. He made the rear door in three swift strides. He closed it silently behind him. The lock, he noticed, was one of those cheap, old-fashioned affairs which are common all over America: An iron box, and on its top a little catch, which when pressed to one side, prevented the knob from being turned. He fastened it and he faced the room which he had entered.

It was about one-third the size of the one he had left. There were several pictures on the walls, cheap colored prints framed with black wood. A portrait of Pancho Villa, and a lively scene which was evidently meant to represent the return of the Prodigal Son, he had no time to note the others. In the middle of the floor there was a round table with cards upon it, and about it, four girls. They were Mexicans and they were all of them wearing low necked dresses whose bright colors clashed as atrociously with their dusky complexions as the gown of Mrs. Sebastian. They were silent and the whites of their eyes gleamed in the lamplight as they stared at Leonard.

These were the lady entertainers who would have been dancing with the miners of Golconda this evening if the pay roll had come through. It occurred to him that they should have been in the other room awaiting such chance customers as might happen along on a dull evening, that some one had herded them here where they would be out of the way in case complications should arise. Evidently Mrs. Sebastian had made preparations for his arrival.

There was another door, it led into a room beyond. He put his finger on his lips. He saw one of the girls smile at his signal for silence, the chin of another dropped, the rest remained without change in expression as he went by them. He heard the street door of the dance hall bang shut, the sound of heavy footfalls on the polished hardwood floor, a gruff voice said something in Spanish. He did not wait to hear what the command was. He had a pretty good idea.

OLD SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT FOOD: According to Robert Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," the encyclopedia of knowledge of the 17th century, these things were true:

1. Young children and healthy persons may drink milk, but milk and "all that comes of milk, as butter and cheese, soon turns to corruption, therefore is not good for others."

2. All fish "breed slimy nutriment." There was some argument about this, most sages of the time at least agreeing that fish from standing pools were bad:

"All fish, that standing pools, and lakes frequent
To ever yield bad juice and nourishment."

3. Cabbage "causeth troublesome dreams, and sends up black vapours to the brain. . . . It brings heaviness to the soul."

4. Fruits, pears, apples, plums, cherries, strawberries, and nuts "infect the blood and putrefy it."

5. Beans and "pease" "fill the brain with gross fumes, breed black, thick blood, and cause troublesome dreams."

All this was written before Harvey discovered the circulation of the blood. And the author made a few allowances. Very strong, healthy persons could eat, but they must eat lightly, of these foods which were supposed to have such dire effects. And Mr. Burton warned that "gluttony kills more than the sword," a sensible maxim.

An American encyclopedia of 1831 contains some almost as peculiar ideas about food:

"Beets are fine for cattle," but inclined to "flatulence and indigestion in man." . . . Fruits may produce stomach disorders, cholera, diarrhea, if eaten in quantity. . . . Lemonade, when freely taken, "tends to produce stone, gravel, and gout."

MODERN SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT FOOD: And these are just as foolish as the others:

1. That certain combinations of food, such as fish and milk or ice cream, never should be eaten at the same meal.

2. That food stored in the open can in the refrigerator becomes poisonous.

3. That foods cooked in aluminum are likely to be poisonous.

4. That lettuce or other food is "brain food"; that garlic will keep away colds; that carrots will make the complexion beautiful almost overnight.

5. That if you store cooked chicken with a cover in the refrigerator it will become poisonous.

And there are many more. Diet faddists seem to be especially susceptible. This or that food is "fattening" [they usually single out the foods they most need, milk, for example] or "impure" or "hard to digest," they declare, with no good authority for their statements.

For Your Christmas List

WOMAN'S AND MISS' LINGERIE.

For intimates on your Christmas list, and for your own personal wardrobe, here are three patterns for lingerie you will like. Sketched on the large figure is an ingeniously designed costume slip with heart shaped neckline, neat small waist, and paneled skirt that flares. It's the ideal foundation under your fitted winter dresses.

In the panel at the right are panties and matching bra, daintily trimmed with lace and perfectly fitted.

The princess slip sketched lower right is a dainty, Victorian model bedecked with lace and ribbon beading. It may be made of lingerie cottons as well as silks.

Style No. 3357 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 3⅜ yards of lace.

Style No. 3335 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.. Size 16 requires 1¼ yards of 39 inch material for bandeau and panties, with 3 yards of lace.

Style No. 2958 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Can some reader supply a heating stove for the K. family? The father is working, but his wages barely provide food and shelter. There are five in the family, including children 6, 4, and 2, and there is no heat in the home at present. The address is north and west of the loop, and transportation can be arranged, preferably in their general vicinity.

Mr. K. has a pair of men's ice skates, size 10, in excellent condition, which he will give to some young man unable to purchase any. Interested readers may write to him in care of this department. All letters will be forwarded to the donor for selection.

Music Events Fill Calendar for Week-End

Armstrong, Mrs. Louis Watermulder, and Mrs. Charles K. Foster.

Another tea tomorrow afternoon with a musical flavor will be one that Mme. Cara Verson will give for Mario Castelnuova-Tedesco, the Italian composer-pianist, who will be soloist with the Saidenberg Symphonietta at the Goodman theater on Tuesday night. Castelnuova coached Mme. Verson in his sonata several years ago in Florence, Italy. She then gave the first performance of it in this country.

Opera Stars Will Be Tavern Guests.

It will be Opera day at the Tavern tomorrow, for stars from the Chicago City Opera company will be the especial guests at the Sunday breakfast party. The Littlefields, Catherine and Dorothie; Hilde Reggiani, Edith Mason, Marion Claire, Tito Schipa, Armand Tokatyan, Henry Weber, Mobley Lashanya, Jan Kiepura, George Czaplicki, Virgilio Lazzari, and Carlo Morelli will be the guests.

The stars of the opera company will be among those who enjoy a backstage dinner party that the company is giving next Tuesday night at the Civic Opera house. Members of the recently formed Chicago Opera council and their ladies will be there also.

Mr. and Mrs. Don G. Petty (Elizabeth Campbell) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Thursday at the Evanston hospital. The baby, a grandchild of the George F. Campbells and of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Leach, has a 2½ year old brother, George.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Cable are in Dayton, O., to welcome their first grandchild, the son born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cable. The younger Mr. and Mrs. Cable will celebrate their first wedding anniversary tomorrow. She is the former Miss Pauline Platt of Dayton.

Cenacle Benefit to Be Held Today.

About 1,600 women will assemble in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel this afternoon to play cards for the benefit of the Cenacle convent, a retreat for women of any creed at 513 Fullerton parkway. The convent is a spiritual clubhouse for women—a place of retirement and solitude similar to the first Cenacle convent founded in 1826 near the shrine of St. Regis in La Louvesc, France.

There will be dancing tonight in three places to benefit underprivileged children: at the Knickerbocker hotel, under the auspices of the Women's Faculty club of Northwestern university medical school; across the street at the Drake hotel at a Bustle ball given by the Kenilworth Infant Welfare society, and at the golf club in Hinsdale at a Headdress ball given by the Junior Infant Welfare society of Hinsdale.

Don't Conceal Suitor from Your Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Don't hide your girl friends from your beaux, young women!

If you're the kind who snubs your girl friends just because you have a new beau, probably before long you won't have either friend or beau, declares Erica Morini, violinist.

In social and emotional relations, Miss Morini advocates an open handed attitude. "Yet," she has observed, "there are those who, as soon as a man starts paying attention to them, become much less cordial to their woman friends."

"This sort of girl," she asserts, "most often shows her changed attitude in rather subtle ways. Walking with her young man, she will just 'happen' not to see her former best friend coming down the street from the opposite direction."

Adopting a condescending attitude toward your friends, or going out of your way not to introduce them to your beau, is a risky policy, according to Miss Morini. "Not only will you soon alienate your women friends," she states, "but you may expose yourself to a change of heart on the part of the man for whom you have gone to these extremes. He will begin by wondering why he never sees your girl friends. Then he'll proceed to speculate why you exert such obvious caution in keeping him from seeing them. He may end up with the feeling that if you have so little confidence in yourself, perhaps you aren't really as attractive as he thought."

It is Erica Morini's idea that you are more truly yourself in a social setting, and your charm has more chance of full expression there.

A neat little gadget to have near your shoe bag is a small, square rubber sponge that is chemically treated so that when you rub your suede slippers with it it will remove dirt and spots from the surface. Use it on suede purses, too, and on gloves and hats. It's the simplest method we know of keeping all these items looking well groomed.

When the sponge becomes soiled it can be washed in soap suds.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

It's very pleasant to lie in ambush with a strong hand while the unsuspecting opponents bid themselves up to an impossible contract. After a while you can double and sit back to watch the profits roll in. But after you have gone thru all this you feel foolish if the opponents somehow or other manage to make their "impossible" contract. Such was the unfortunate experience of the West player in the hand below, taken from the recent Metropolitan championships in New York City.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West
Pass	2 hearts	Pass
Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
Pass	4 clubs	Double
Pass	Pass

North opened the bidding despite a holding of only two honor tricks, relying on his seven card spade suit to make up for the slight deficiency in high card strength. South properly bid only two hearts, even tho he had more than three and one-half sure tricks. The total lack of fit in spades was a deterrent to any more strong action at this point. At North's next turn he once more rebid a jump bid and equally properly refrained from bidding no trump. North once more rebid in spades and South now had a difficult bidding problem. North's minimum rebids discouraged South from getting past the three no trump level, but South was unwilling to try for nine tricks at no trump if North, as the bidding indicated, had the bulk of his strength in spades. After some thought, therefore, South chose to show his clubs. At this point West felt he had waited long enough. He quietly but firmly doubled. North passed, preferring clubs to either of South's other suits and realizing from the bidding that South had no support for spades. South had enough confidence in his partner's bidding to stay in the doubled contract and not to try to find a better contract at this dangerously high level.

West opened a low club, hoping to reduce the hand to no trump as quickly as possible. South let the lead come up to his own hand and was gratified to win the trick with his seven of trumps. He then cashed the ace and king of hearts, discarding a low diamond from the dummy. On a third round of hearts West's queen fell and dummy ruffed with the club nine. The ace of spades next was cashed and South ruffed a low spade. South now led the jack of hearts and West had to ruff to prevent dummy from getting rid of the remaining diamond. Dummy overruffed with the club king and a spade was returned, South ruffing with the ten spot. South cashed the ace of clubs for his ninth trick and led his last heart. West had to ruff this, for otherwise South would have his ten tricks. But West could not escape from the necessity of leading up to South's king of diamonds, thus permitting South to make his tenth trick and contract.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24.—Southern California's undefeated football team, headed for the Rose Bowl via South Bend, will find out tomorrow whether it merits its rating as one of the two or three best elevens in the United States.

The good burghers of South Bend, who tonight were preparing air raid shelters as a precaution against the attacks of Doyle Nave and Grenny Lansdell, are pretty well convinced the Trojans are all they are cracked up to be. So is the vanguard of authors and scouts and other members of the gridiron intelligentsia.

Irish Don't Scare Easily.

There's one dissenting unit, however, and it can't be ignored. It's the group of young stalwarts who tomorrow will be attired in the gold and blue of Notre Dame. They cling to the old time gospel that football games are not won in newspaper headlines. Elmer Layden's men aren't conceding a thing. Southern California never has defeated a Layden coached team on its home field.

The student body gave a great vote of confidence to the squad at a campus rally this evening. The university band blared the school's famous battle hymns and there was an eagerness and an enthusiasm for the duel of tomorrow that moved the most calloused observers.

Thousands Are Disappointed.

A crowd of 56,000, capacity of the stadium, will watch the fourteenth battle of the oldest intersectional rivalry involving a Pacific coast team. More than 90,000 sought admission. The demand was the heaviest by far in the history of Notre Dame's home games. The gathering will include James C. Harper, who started the Irish on their way to football's heights, and several of his 1916 and 1917 pupils. Don Ameche and Robert Taylor will be among the Hollywood delegation.

The skies were heavy and gray today and the forecast is for rain or snow tomorrow.

Both Have Good Records.

Both teams come up to the game with a background of success. Notre Dame has whipped every foe in its path save Iowa, which converted a fumble into a 7 to 6 victory. The Trojans were tied by Oregon in their opening game, but have won from all other opponents. The season's records of the two teams:

NOTRE DAME.		U. S. C.
Purdue	0	7 Oregon 7
Georgia Tech	14	27 Wash. State 0
South. Meth.	19	26 Illinois 0
Navy	7	26 California 0
Georgia Tech	6	19 Oregon State 7
Army	0	33 Stanford 0
Iowa	7
Northwestern	0
	53	138 14

The series stands at seven victories for Notre Dame, five for Southern California and there has been one tie. The average attendance for the 13 years exceeds 70,000. The 1938 game, won by the Trojans, 13 to 0, drew 102,000 to the Los Angeles Coliseum.

There Should Be Action.

The two teams should put on one of the most brilliant battles of the season. They have the stuff to do it. Both have big, strong, capable lines. Both are unusually well fixed with back field material.

All of Notre Dame's players are ready to go. Bob Saggau's right shoulder, injured in midseason, still is bothering him, but he is certain to carry his share of the burden at left half back. Southern California's Jack Benta will be on the sidelines, which means that Bobby Peoples probably will play most of the game at fullback.

It promises to be a duel of backs with all the pyrotechnics a truly remarkable array of speedy and slippery ball carriers and expert forward passers are able to produce.

TROJANS IN CHICAGO

Cold weather and a wet field in Champaign caused Coach Howard Jones to call off plans for the University of Southern California football squad to work out in the Illinois stadium yesterday as the Trojans passed thru on their way to meet Notre Dame today in South Bend.

The squad went directly to the Windsor Park hotel upon arrival in Chicago and the final training session for the SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 24.—The annual meeting of Southern California and Notre Dame, which for 14 years has been one of football's high spots, has been studded with individual as well as team heroics. . . . There are indications tomorrow's game will be no exception. . . . The Trojans will present three of the finest quarter backs the season has developed, Grenny Lansdell, Ambrose Schindler, and Doyle Nave. . . . They are all first stringers. . . . Nave is widely recognized as the best forward passer in 1939 football. . . . Lansdell is the Pacific coast's leading ground gainer, and Schindler, who sometimes is used at full back, probably is better than either. . . . Against this array are at least two, probably three, Notre Dame field generals who need take a back seat for nobody. . . . They can talk about his failure to call a punt on fourth down in Los Angeles last year which gave Southern California a chance to score its first touchdown, they can rave about his judgment in trying to run back that intercepted pass at Iowa City two weeks ago, but give me Steve Sitko of Notre Dame as quarter back par excellence. . . . He's one of the greatest blocking backs of his day. . . . He runs back punts beautifully. . . . He directs the team to the complete satisfaction of his boss, Elmer Layden, and that ought to be good enough for anybody. And don't overlook that sophomore, Bob Hargrave, who has sparked the Irish to more than one victory this season. . . . He'll be rated among the great players of 1940 and 1941, if his showing this year is a criterion. . . . John Kelleher isn't far behind.

Steve Sitko.

Altho he has to divide his time with Schindler and Nave, Lansdell has been the central figure in 12 of Southern California's 21 touchdowns this fall. . . . He has completed 33 of his 63 forward passes for an average of 52.2 per cent. . . . Against Stanford he connected with 10 out of 12, including the last 8 in succession. . . . His running average is 5.1 yards a play in 90 trips with the ball. . . . Howard Jones says he never has had a ball carrier with a more deadly straight arm. . . . Quarter backs at Notre Dame seldom carry the ball, so there is no basis of comparison in that regard, but there are a couple of full backs named Milt Piepul and Joe Thesing and half backs who answer to Bob Saggau, Harry Stevenson, Ben Sheridan, Lou Zontini, and Bernie Crimmins who may look after that detail.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—Capt. Steve Andrako led Ohio State's Western conference football champions into camp in Dearborn, Mich., early this afternoon. The Buckeyes, whose record this season is attributed in part to the inspirational leadership of Center Andrako, already have assured of at least a tie for the Big Ten title by winning five conference games. But Ohio State eagerly anticipates a final conquest over Michigan's Wolverines tomorrow before 80,000.

Ohio State's 1938 squad was soundly beaten last year, 18 to 0, and this is immediate incentive for tomorrow's conquest. Sixteen thousand Ohio State fans, one of the greatest football migrations in any section of the country, will arrive tomorrow. Thirteen special trains will leave Columbus.

Victory Powerful Magnet.

Prospect of victory is the primary magnet, of course, and this is based on the season's six victories [including a defeat of Missouri]. More, however, these Buckeye partisans wish to see Michigan beaten since that will insure Ohio State's first undivided Big Ten championship since 1920.

Strangest item in discussion of tomorrow's possibilities is that the game will be played by virtually the 1938 cast. Ohio State, except for Jim Langhurst's absence by injury and graduation of three 1938 tackles, is intact. Ohio State's tackles this year are superior. Johnny Rabb, 1937 full back, out last season because of a knee injury, may start in place of Langhurst.

Westfall Star Full Back.

Michigan lost an outstanding guard, Ralph Heikkinen, who has been ably replaced by the veteran Ralph Fritz. Loss of Ed Frutig, at end, puts pressure on Ed Czak and John Nicholson, but the Wolverines' back field should be three-fourths identical except for the demotion of Paul Kromer in favor of Fred Trosko at left half. Bob Westfall, sophomore full back, is superior to full backs of 1938.

Incidentally, the Kromer-Tom Harmon feud which resulted in Kromer packing up and going home last Sunday, to Lorain, O., and missing practice Monday may be one reason why Michigan will not win.

Here again the tables have turned, for the internal dissension on the Ohio State squad in 1938 was ironed out by Capt. Andrako. One recalcitrant quit the squad [others had been graduated], and all now is peace and harmony.

Kromer was injured in the second game of the season and was used sparingly thereafter except against Yale and Minnesota. Whether he disliked Harmon's publicity or whether he was temperamentally upset because his injury prevented giving his best services is open to conjecture.

Evashevski Bolsters Offense.

Return of Forest Evashevski to blocking back with accompanying defensive strength behind Michigan's line, as well as offensive blocking, bolsters the squad. Michigan reasonably has an excellent chance to win. With Capt. Archie Kodros and Evashevski protecting the line in which Fritz, Milo Sukup, Roland Savilla, and Bill Smith have performed brilliantly on occasion, the problem will be to stop Don Scott's passes and Jim Strausbaugh's sweeping sprints.

Give Up Plans for Olympic Winter Games

BRUSSELS, Nov. 24 (AP).—The 1940 winter Olympic games, doomed from the start of the European war, have been abandoned and will not be transferred from Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, to another country. This was announced today by Count Henri de Baillett Latour, president of the international Olympic committee.

Latour's announcement followed an earlier one from German Olympic officials, saying they would be forced to resign as hosts to the skaters, skiiers, and bobsledders because of the rule forbidding a warring nation to hold the game.

Too Late for Transfer.

From Lausanne, Switzerland, Secretary Andre Berdez of the international Olympic committee, voiced hope that it would be possible to transfer the games to another site, but Latour said it was too late. His apparently was the last word.

"We abandoned the games because we could not hold them in a belligerent country," he said, "and it is too late to arrange for another site."

As the games are scheduled in February, it obviously would be difficult, if not impossible, to install them elsewhere in such brief time in a plant worthy of the winter sports. Particularly scarce are bobsled runs of Olympic championship caliber.

Germany Has the Plant.

This scarcity of suitable winter plants was emphasized by the selection of Garmisch-Partenkirchen as the Olympic site for the second straight time. Since the 1936 games were held there extensive improvements have been made.

Abandonment of the winter games is not expected to shake Finland from its firm determination to hold the summer games in Helsingfors. The Finns already have spent large sums in preparation for the sports, and they probably will hold them on schedule, even if all the contestants are from the Scandinavian countries.

Fenger, Schurz Clash Today for Public High School Title

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Fenger and Schurz, two prep elevens with notions of upholding the Public School league's prestige in Chicago's sixth annual All-City classic against Mount Carmel come next Saturday, clash in Soldiers' field this afternoon. Twenty-five thousand are expected to watch the teams attempt to work out the problem starting at 1:30 o'clock.

If performances during the season could be employed as clews, there would be no difficulty in finding a solution to the perplexing situation. Fenger, 1938 city champion, is undefeated and untied in two years, running up 21 consecutive victories. Schurz, north section representative, has not experienced such smooth traveling this season, dropping a 7 to 0 decision to Amundsen and a 9 to 6 contest to Rockford, Ill.

There's That Scoring Record.

Fenger's supporters will point out the squad's scoring record if further proof is needed that the school's second league championship is in doubt. Fenger's fleet backs, led by Donald [Flash] Griffin, 17 year old quarter back, and Ray Florek, 16 year old full back, have scored 237 points in seven league games. Only one team was able to score on the champions, Bowen turning the trick on Sept. 30 while absorbing a 55 to 13 defeat.

Schurz cannot approach the south siders' brilliant record, but the north section eleven and its followers are not alarmed. Opposing a team with great victories for the season is an old story to the north siders. They played Austin, which has rolled up 1927 Defeat Still Rankles.

Among the Schurz players who have just taken passing glances at Fenger's record are Jack Thompson, right half back; Cliff Leibert, half pint full back, and Jack Vanderpoel, 160 pound left half back, the three leaders in the north siders' triumph over Austin. Others counted upon for notable performances against the defending champions are Ed Martin, quarter back; Bob Moeller, right end, and the team's kicking specialist, and Monno Mijanovitch, center, who weighs 170 pounds and is 6 feet tall.

There are several reasons why the Schurz team would like to break Fenger's victory string and appear against the Catholic league champions in the city title game. The principal one is to obtain an opportunity to avenge a 6 to 0 defeat at Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 24.—Purdue will be here to play Indiana for the Old Oaken Bucket tomorrow. In these parts it matters not at all that the contest will be for little more than the November championship of Monroe county, Indiana, and, of course, the Buck-Buck-Bucket. A capacity crowd is in prospect and each of the witnesses will be assessed more than any one has paid to see Indiana play this year—three iron dollars—no less.

The game will be the forty-second in a series which began in 1891. It always has been played for the works, regardless of the records of the two teams. It's just one of those old rivalries that some universities have and others try to smoke up.

Who Started It Anyway?

We hope you'll pardon our personal observation, but it's always been a tough billing. We've seen 12 of the last 13 matches between the Boilermakers and the Hoosiers and a half dozen before that, starting with an 11 to 11 tie in 1905, when we were just a rosy cheeked child, and then, as now, scarcely knew what it was all about, tho we started shaving the following autumn. We always could tell, however, that it was a bitter rivalry.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Northwestern's Wildcats, who are known chiefly for what they have failed to do, and Iowa's Hawkeyes, who are known for what they have done, get together in Dyche stadium this afternoon to put on a farewell collegiate football party for Nile Kinnick.

And Kinnick will be in on the party—probably trying to pitch, run, and kick himself and associates into a climactic finish of a season which has seen Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue, Minnesota, and Notre Dame burned to a crisp by Iowa's spectacular football blaze.

The Wildcats, buoyed up by the soothing thought that a change in their luck is overdue, hope to put out the fire, but they'll first have to track down the little man named Kinnick—the fuel source of the Iowa blaze which, if not extinguished today, might eat its way into a tie for the Western conference title.

Nile Keeps Busy.

Kinnick has been a busy little lad since the season started. He has scored five touchdowns. He has thrown 28 completed passes for 11 touchdowns. His passes have totaled 596 yards. He has run the ball for 361 yards. He has drop kicked for 11 points after touchdowns. His punts have an average of 40 yards. And more amazing than his collection of points [he has scored 41 besides contributing to 66 others] is the fact that he played the full 60 minutes in Iowa's six major battles.

The 40,000, among them a vast army of Iowa followers, in the stadium not only will see Kinnick, but also one Billi De Correvont, the Wildcat back who was touted to soar to the heights reached by the Iowa ace. Except for brief spells, De Correvont has been held in eclipse by sturdy foes. But today a relaxed Wildcat team might provide him with his chance to turn loose as a passer or runner, or both. De Correvont probably won't start but he'll be in there shortly afterward.

N. U. Has the Power.

On power alone the Wildcats probably have nothing to fear, but power frequently wilts before the dazzling sort of assault the Hawkeyes can send thru the air. Northwestern has rolled up yard after yard in most of its battles but even with three triple threat left half backs—Ollie Hahnenstein and Paul Soper in addition to De Correvont—the Purple has shown a painful shyness about crossing an enemy goal. The Wildcats failed to score a point against Oklahoma, Ohio State, Notre Dame, or Purdue. The Hawkeyes have scored in every encounter, including the lone defeat hung on them by Michigan.

The Iowans, who weren't overloaded with man power at the start and who have seen their ranks reduced by injuries, will, with one exception, probably open the battle with the lineup that has carried on since the Michigan setback. Six of the starters, Erwin Prasse, Dick Evans, Wallace Bergstrom, Mike Enich, and Ken Pettit, besides Kinnick, went full time against both Notre Dame and Minnesota. So did Center Bruno Andruska, but he's out now with a fractured hand, a memento of the passing of the Minnesota juggernaut.

Meet for 24th Time.

When the Wildcats and Hawkeyes square off for the long hour at 2 o'clock it will mark the 24th engagement in a series which started back in the turtleneck sweater days of 1897. Iowa was the victor in 13 of these arguments, Northwestern registered eight times, and two of the games were deadlocks. They haven't met since 1936, when the Purple triumphed by 18 to 7.

Reserved seats, as well as unreserved locations at the ends of the field, may be purchased at the stadium today.

1,100 PUREBREDS OF DOG WORLD GO ON EXHIBIT TODAY

Coliseum to Be Scene of 29th Annual Show.

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago pays homage to the purebred dog today when more than 1,100 of the country's finest show specimens will be assembled in the Coliseum for the 29th annual dog show of the Western Specialty club's association. This organization is the largest of its kind in the United States and annually attracts blue blooded canines from many parts of the country.

The show officially opens at 10 o'clock this morning. The judges who will pick the winners start their work this morning, continue on thru the evening and follow much the same program tomorrow when additional breeds will be judged. The program today calls for winners to be picked in 14 breeds.

Includes 24 Breeds.

Dog fanciers in Chicagoland will see 24 breeds in this year's specialty show. Among these 24 are some of America's most popular breeds, including the cocker spaniel, ranked as the number one dog in popularity in the United States today, the wirehaired terrier, Scottish terrier, Boston terrier, dachshund, Pomeranian, Pekingese, and others.

A. F. Kramer, president of the Western Specialty club, said yesterday that families planning on getting a Christmas puppy have an excellent opportunity to compare the various breeds in a big show such as this one.

"Many residents of the Chicago area are planning to give puppies as Christmas gifts," he said. "I know of no better way for families to get acquainted with various breeds and make a decision on the type of dog they want than by attending a dog show. Visitors to the show will find that the exhibitors and breeders are glad to counsel with them about what to look for in buying a puppy."

Here's Today's Program.

The schedule for today follows:

Pomeranians, judged by Mrs. Stella Quick, Detroit.

BILLY CONN WINS WRITERS' AWARD OVER JOE LOUIS

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, recognized in New York and California as the light heavyweight champion, today was awarded the Eddie Neil Memorial trophy for 1939 by the New York Boxing Writers' association.

Conn was judged to have done the most for boxing during the year. The first award of the trophy, in honor of the former Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent who was killed in the Spanish civil war, went to Jack Dempsey last year. Joe Louis was the only other fighter given consideration for this year's award.

The University of Kansas professor emeritus of physical education returned home from a hospital Wednesday night after his recovery from a cerebral hemorrhage.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The University of Chicago Maroons, those point hungry gourmands of the Western conference, today will conclude their 1939 season by engaging in a football contest against their downstate neighbors, the Illini from the University of Illinois, on Stagg field.

Still smacking their lips over their 25 to 0 massacre of mighty Oberlin last Saturday, the Maroons aim to swell their season's total of 37 points to end, while restraining the Illini to nary. Oddly enough, the Maroons have scored more points than the visitors, collecting an aggregate of 37 to 29 for Illinois.

On the other hand, the Illini have permitted their opponents only 74 points, while the Maroons [s-s-s-s-s-h!] have seen their foes wear out a brace of scoreboards in running up 262 points.

Those Rampaging Maroons.

Chicago, by its rout of Oberlin in last week's drizzle, put itself in the role of an extremist. After having suffered thru four week-ends in which Harvard, Michigan, Virginia, and Ohio State scored 61, 85, 47, and 41 points to the Maroon total of zero, the south side eleven went amuck against Oberlin last Saturday, knocking off four magnificent touchdowns to add to the two they scored in their only other victory, a 12 to 2 triumph over Wabash, which thus far has scored 26 points against an opponents' sum of 129.

All in all, however, it's purely a matter of arithmetic. Illinois may have scored only 29 points to date, but sixteen of those were registered in beating the very headguards off of a Michigan team which had caroused thru the Maroons, 85 to 0. The only other basis of comparison is the Ohio State contest. The Illini yielded 21 points to the Buckeyes last Saturday, precisely 40 less than the Maroons surrendered the week before.

How You Figure It Out.

After that you multiply the sum of Jones Alonzo Stagg and Fielding H. Yost by the Maroons' total points in 1905 and divide by the number of Red Grange's jersey, and you will have the answer.

One fact proved by the figures is the record of the Illinois-Chicago series, one of the oldest in the country. The feud began in 1892, and has now reached a point where today's game will be the forty-fourth in the series, the battles having been consecutive since 1900. Big Ten schedule making forces a halt next season, but the fight between the two will be resumed in 1941.

The Illini squad, headed by Coach Bob Zuppke, checked into the Del Prado hotel late yesterday afternoon. Big plans to unleash the speedy Jimmy Smith at left half, altho Senior John Thistlewood may start at the position.

Maroons Are Satisfied.

Another senior who will be given his chance is Ralph Bennett, who will share the full back chores with George Rettinger. The Maroons will rely upon some of the best punting in the conference, as anticipated off the good right boot of Quarter Back Ralph Ehni.

The Maroons will stick to the same lineup, more or less, which won against Oberlin. Expected to start at the ends in place of basketball players Dick Lounsbury and Ralph Richardson are R. C. Miller and Russ Thomas. Sophomore Andy Stehney is scheduled to open at quarterback.

PAYCHEK WINS OVER HARTNEK IN TEN ROUNDS

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 24 (AP).—Johnny Paychek, 194, Chicago, won a 10 round decision over Paul Hartnek, 202, Kenosha, Wis., here tonight before 4,000 fans. Referee My Sullivan scored the fight all even going into the 10th round and after that session he gave 95 points to Paychek and 94 to Hartnek. As the fight ended Hartnek was weary and clinging.

Hartnek was on the floor twice—once in the fifth round and again in the sixth, both times from a series of lefts to the stomach and face.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—The Minnesota and Wisconsin football teams will renew one of the game's oldest rivalries here tomorrow afternoon. Since 1890 they have missed only one meeting—and that was in 1906. Tho the teams might be called little more than shadows of their former selves, the game has accumulated so much tradition in the course of 50 years that a crowd of 40,000 will attend.

It is something new for Minnesota to come up to the end of the season with so little at stake. As recently as last year the Gophers were playing for the Western conference championship in their game with the Badgers—and they won it. In the present campaign, however, Minnesota has lost three Big Ten games, has tied another and has won only one. Wisconsin has made an even sorrier showing, losing four and tying one withcut winning any.

Both Disappoint Followers.

Both of the teams started the season with high hopes only to shock their followers by early nonconference defeats, Minnesota losing to Nebraska and Wisconsin to Texas. Subsequently competition in the Big Ten fully justified the forebodings prompted by these first reverses. Now both teams are trying to save something from the wreckage of the season by winning a game which means a great deal to the student bodies and alumni of both institutions.

In tomorrow's encounter there will be no Gil Dobie or Pat O'Dea on the field, but the crowd will be hoping that Harold Van Every of Minnesota or George Paskvan of Wisconsin will make some contribution to the series' ever increasing list of spectacular episodes.

Gophers Hold Series Edge.

Minnesota has won 28 of the 48 games, Wisconsin has won 15 and five have been tied. The last victory for the Badgers was in 1932 at Madison. They haven't been able to win in Minneapolis since 1922.

Both teams are in good physical condition. Paskvan, the hard driving full back who has done most of the Badgers' ground gaining, has recovered from a leg injury suffered in the Purdue game and will be ready to carry his full share of the burden tomorrow. The Gophers will use approximately the same lineup they did last week.

Fear Badger Passes.

Minnesota will be particularly wary of Wisconsin passes because nearly all of the Badger touchdowns this season have been scored by this method. The Gophers on the other hand have been depending more on their rushing ability.

The Wisconsin players arrived from Madison this afternoon and Coach Harry Stuhldreher took them to Memorial field for a workout.

WHEATON FIVE CAN'T SWING IT ON DANCE FLOOR

Members of the Wheaton High school lightweight basketball team played their first game of the season last night in Wheaton and were blanked, 14 to 0, by Glenbard. But, they have reasons.

First, they spent too much of the time sitting down and skidding across the floor. Secondly, they just couldn't seem to find the hoop when they were standing up.

They played on a dance floor, highly waxed.

CARDS WILL CALL SEASON O. K. IF THEY BEAT BEARS

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Nine defeats against a 10 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates constitutes a disastrous season in the National Football league to every club except the Cardinals, whose record it happens to be. The Cardinals still see a chance to have a record they can consider successful regardless of what the statisticians think of it.

After cataloging all their misfortunes since Coach Ernie Nevers first assembled them in Duluth, Minn., last August, they have concluded a victory over the Bears in Wrigley field tomorrow will establish definitely that they have been toys of fate. Thruout the season the Cardinals' chief trouble has been getting the line and back field to click simultaneously. The return of Jack Robbins, their passer, now has restored the back field to its full strength and the line expects to carry on tomorrow as it did at Washington last week, when the Redskins were held to 40 yards by rushing.

Backs to Carry Burden.

The burden will be on the backs. They have been accused of losing several of the games the line felt it had won. More adept coverage on forward passes last week, coupled with the excellent play of the line, would have resulted in a victory, several eye witnesses report. There has been no complaint about the Cardinal line all year. It began operating with major league efficiency in the opening game against Detroit and for the most part has played up to this standard each week.

Bulwarked by Tony Blazine and Al Barbartsky at the tackles, Bill Smith at one end and Ki Aldrich, one of the outstanding rookies in the league, at center, it made a commendable showing against the Bears and twice came away with no worse than a draw against the Lions. But linemen cannot carry the ball or man the secondary.

Two Excellent Lines Meet.

Tomorrow's game, the last regularly scheduled contest for both the Bears and Cardinals, will bring together two excellent lines. The Bears' forward alignment is frequently rated as the best in the league in the last three years.

This claim is seldom disputed despite the fact that the line is composed of the same men who participated in last season's collapse and who already have been beaten three times. But this year such key men as Joe Stydahar and Russ Thompson, before he was displaced by Jack Torrance, have divorced themselves from last season's indifference and the ends have developed. Sid Luckman, Bill Osmanski, and Bob MacLeod probably would not have made such spectacular debuts in professional football if this line had played as it did in 1938.

The Bear line, as well as that of the Cardinals, is at its peak now, having moved steadily forward from a good start. For this reason Green Bay and Detroit are particularly anxious that the Cardinals eliminate the Bears from any possible chance of a tie for the division championship in tomorrow's game.

Tony Bausone Out to Uphold Family Honor in C.Y.O. Boxing

Tony Bausone is taking up where his brother Frank left off in the Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament. In an effort to keep the bantamweight title in the family, Tony will fight Willie Moon in the finals Wednesday night in the Stadium.

Frank, who was bantamweight champion last year, had hoped to be boxing for the featherweight title in this season's finals, but he was beaten in the quarter finals by Charlie Allcoate. So he will have to be content with a spectator's rôle next Wednesday.

Long before any one suspected that Frank would be forced out at such an early stage, spectators in C. Y. O. Center used to watch him shout encouragement to his brother when the youngster was slugging his way through preliminary rounds. That practice will do Frank good because Tony will need all the encouragement he can get when he goes up against Moon.

Moon Owns Experience.

Though Tony has a flyweight C. Y. O. novice title to his credit, he is no match for his opponent in the matter of experience. Moon beat Al Noto for the C. Y. O. open division championship last year and then went on to perform brilliantly in the Golden Gloves tournament. He reached the semi-finals, where he was beaten by the ultimate champion, Vic Saccola of Detroit. Then he won his intercity bout against Basil Jones of New York. He also earned a place on the International Golden Gloves squad, but lost a decision to Olli Lehtinen of Finland.

Moon is good both on offense and defense. He never forgets to keep his chin well protected. He can jab with his left and then send his right lashing out with lightning speed.

Bausone Fast on Feet.

Bausone is no laggard himself when it comes to shifty footwork and sharp punches. His right is particularly crisp and he can throw it without giving an opponent warning.

Tony is one of three of last year's novice champions who went after open division titles this year. The other two, Richard Blaha and Bob La Civita, failed to reach the finals.

The 32 open and novice division fighters who will take part in the finals went back to work in C. Y. O. Center gymnasium yesterday following a layoff over Thanksgiving. Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick found them all in satisfactory condition. They anticipate little difficulty in keeping the boys on edge until the night of the fights.

Each Has One Casualty.

Each team claims one casualty from last week's semi-final battles. Griffin incurred a slight injury against Tilden Tech, but will be in the starting lineup this afternoon. Kirk Perry, Schurz left guard, suffered a back injury against Austin and may not play today. His place in the lineup will be taken by Robert McAdams, who weighs 200 pounds.

Coaches Chuck Palmer of Fenger and Bob Koehler of Schurz, two former Northwestern university football players, announced their starting lineups after sending their squads thru light workouts yesterday.

Among the interested spectators at the game will be Wally Fromhart, Mount Carmel coach, and his assistant, Fred Mundee, and members of the championship squad.

WILLARD LEAVES TO TAKE MICHIGAN REFEREEING JOBS

Jess Willard left yesterday for Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, where he expects to referee some boxing and wrestling matches. He spent Thanksgiving in the loop. At the same time Willard, who now weighs 285 pounds, about 40 more than he carried when he lost his championship to Jack Dempsey, will check on the development of his oil properties there. Jess, whose home is in Glendale, Cal., says: "I am 47 years old." Record books list his age as 52. . . . Inability to obtain a suitable opponent for Milt Aron has caused Promoter Ken Felon to cancel plans to have the Chicago welterweight head a card in Dubuque, Ia., Tuesday. . . . Jake Lebovitz, south side heavyweight, and Emil Schulman have been added to the program in Marigold Gardens Monday. Pete Lello, 1936 Golden Gloves lightweight champion, and Emil Joseph of Pittsburgh are principals in a 10 round windup.

The sixth annual amateur boxing show sponsored by the Duncan Y. M. C. A. will be held in the association's gymnasium at 1515 Monroe street next Thursday. Eight bouts will be held. . . . Eddie Siegel, who had an interest in Joe Louis until four years ago, will be interviewed over the Mutual Broadcasting system on Tuesday night. . . . Amateur fights will be resumed in Cicero stadium Tuesday after a lapse of nearly two years. Jack Biggerstaff will promote the weekly shows. . . . Bill Levinson and Eddie Altman of the Illinois boxing commission's staff recently received merit awards for their work as members of a team which finished in second place in the state softball league. . . . Sig Hart, former boxer and manager of Jack Johnson, is said to be Mique Malloy's backer of programs in White City. Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight title holder, and Eddie Simms meet in the main event of the White City card next Friday. . . . Dave Castilloux, Toronto junior lightweight, who faces Leo Rodak in a 10 round rematch in New Orleans Dec. 6, is of French antecedents.

Waukegan amateur boxers were beaten in three of four intercity bouts with Chicago fighters in the Madison Athletic club last night. Fred Ford was the only north shore victor, winning a three round split decision from Joe Preston, 124th Field Artillery armory welterweight. Robert Earl, Morgan Park lightweight, won the five round windup from Art Alto of Waukegan. Other results:

Tony Abbate beat John Taylor [3].
Louis Owens beat Buddy Cohen [3].
Joe Churchro beat George Hodges [3].
Eddie Colquitt beat Al Lieberman [3].
Walter Kanzler stopped Leon Harris [2].
Carlo Baitassi stopped Morris Lewis [1].

YALE-HARVARD MAGNET DRAWS 55,000 FAITHFUL

Crimson Expects to Beat Ancient Foe Today.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP).—Altho Harvard and Yale rank as the weakest in the Ivy league, a crowd of 55,000 is expected to watch those ancient rivals play their 58th football game tomorrow in the Harvard stadium.

A comparison of the records of the Crimson and the Blue indicates they are set for their customary hard fought contest. Because Capt. Torby MacDonald will start, the odds makers have declared the Crimson the favorites. Harvard's 1939 attack was built around MacDonald last spring and then discarded when he was injured.

Fans Count on Torby.

Harvard fans expect the speedy MacDonald will be able to make Coach Dick Harlow's wide plays click, thereby scattering the Yale defenses and providing openings for the off tackle slams of Charley Spreyer, George Helden, Fran Lee and Joe Gardella, Harvard's only other efficient carriers.

Yale, lacking consistent ground gainers, has resorted passes in most of its games and the Crimson players have been warned to keep close tabs on such passers as Freddie Burr, Ted Harrison, and their eligible receivers.

Harvard, winner of the last two games, has won 19 against 32 for Yale since they started playing in 1875. The other six games were ties.

PRINCETON VS. NAVY.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP).—Princeton, which has lost only to Cornell, closes its football season tomorrow against Navy in Palmer stadium.

It will be the 27th meeting between the two schools in a rivalry begun in 1892. The Navy has not beaten Princeton since 1931, four games since then resulting in Tiger victories and two in ties. Navy has won two, lost four and tied one this season.

Princeton's heavier team may be without the services of its captain, Tackle Bob Tierney, who has an injured right arm.

fourteenth annual intersectional game with the Irish took the form of a lecture in a banquet room.

"Southern California's squad is in fairly good shape physically and in good condition, I believe, mentally," Coach Jones said. "Full Backs Jack Banta and Bill Sangster and Tackle Bob De Lauer are lost to our 38-man squad because of knee injuries, but the colds of Quarter Back Grenny Lansdell and some of the other boys have cleared up and we should be able to put a fast team on the field."

The Southern California special will leave at 9:45 a. m. today for South Bend. The Trojans will arrive back in Chicago at 7 p. m. and will have four hours here before entraining for home via Union Pacific.

With Lansdell in the back field will be Full Back Bob Peoples, Bob Hoffman, and Bob Robertson, a hard running right half. The Southern Californians will open with a veteran line that averages 208 pounds.

DUQUESNE RISKS RECORD AGAINST CARNEGIE TODAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP).—Well rested after a long holiday, Duquesne university risks its undefeated and untied record against Carnegie Tech tomorrow in the last game of Pittsburgh's city title series. Altho Tech has been beaten four times, the Tartans were given a good chance to spoil Duquesne's record. A crowd of 30,000 was predicted.

Carl Nery of Duquesne will start at his fourth position this fall. He has been seen at end, full back, and tackle and tomorrow moves over to guard.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HOLDS A DEBATE WITH REDS' FOE

He Asks Questions and Gets Answers.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP).—A debate by mail between Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and a youth movement leader over whether the American Youth congress is communist controled was climaxed today with the latter's expressed desire to appear before the Dies committee and his hope that the President's wife also would appear.

Alfred M. Lilienthal, vice chairman of the Provisional Committee for American Youth, made public the correspondence between him and Mrs. Roosevelt. Lilienthal's group was formed last summer by members who withdrew from the World Youth convention here.

His Questions.

In a letter dated Oct. 16, Lilienthal asked Mrs. Roosevelt:

"1. Why did the Youth congress condemn Fascism and refuse to take a stand against communism, defeating a resolution to that effect?

"2. Though you were also scheduled to speak, why did Mayor La Guardia and Edouard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, fail to appear? Is it not apparent that the congress' refusal to act against communism led them to so act?

"3. What kind of an organization, in order to bring pressure in behalf of a half a billion dollar youth act, resorts to a disorderly sit-down strike before the White House. You recall this incident in 1937 which resulted in the arrest of William Hinckley, who was chairman of the congress and one of your guests at tea?

"4. How can you explain the fact that much of the literature is printed by the press which occupies space jointly with the Daily Worker and which prints most of the communist literature?

Mrs. Roosevelt's Reply.

Mrs. Roosevelt's reply, as released by Lilienthal, said:

"My Dear Mr. Lilienthal: I have your letter and regret to say I cannot agree with you. My answers to the questions which you have listed are:

"1. The resolution passed by the Youth congress was their own and I consider it better than yours.

"2. I do not agree with you.

"3. There was no disorder and Hinckley was arrested thru a misapprehension and overzealousness.

"4. Because they have little money and this is a cheaper way."

FINDS ENGINEER DIED TO SAVE 130 IN TRAIN WRECK

Harry Anderson, engineer of the North Western railroad's Winnebago limited which was derailed Wednesday a mile south of North Chicago, sacrificed his life for the safety of the 130 passengers abroad, Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy of Lake county reached this conclusion yesterday after an investigation.

Anderson, who lived at 3857 Augusta boulevard, was crushed to death when the locomotive overturned. None of the passengers was injured seriously. Sheriff Kennedy found that the train struck a railway motor car just south of a viaduct over the Lake Bluff road.

"Anderson might have lived if he had set the brakes and jumped," Kennedy said. "However, he apparently realized the train might have plunged from the viaduct, and did not set the brakes until all eight cars had cleared it."

Stanley Mack, 345 Oak Lawn avenue, Elmhurst, the fireman, and Abe Cohen, 1054 Granville avenue, a baggageman, were hurt.

WOMAN'S SERMON UNBURDENS THIEF —SOUL AND BACK

Mrs. Peter Yesh, 1973 Connecticut street, Gary, returned home yesterday to find a young colored burglar ready to carry a large bundle of clothing out the front door.

"Don't you know," said Mrs. Yesh, "that young boys who steal are sure to come to a bad end? Don't you know the police will catch you and you'll go to prison? And then when you die ——"

"Don't say any more, lady," said the burglar. "Here's your bundle and I'll never steal anything again."

After listening to another ten minutes of the sermon the contrite thief went away empty handed.

Mr. Rissman, who lived at 3100 Sheridan road, left $1,000 to the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

EDITOR FINDS HIS NOTES ARE HANDY IN DIVORCE COURT

Little Book Recalls His Gifts to Wife.

Horace L. Brand, former editor of the defunct Staats Zeitung, German language newspaper, told yesterday why he thinks he was a kind husband to Mrs. Erna Brand. For one thing, he told Judge Rudolph Desort, he gave her expensive presents.

Mrs. Erna Brand.

Brand is asking a divorce, and Mrs. Brand is seeking separate maintenance. Previous hearings have been concerned chiefly with Mrs. Brand's claim to Brand's half interest in a coin collection once valued by court appraisers at $5,000,000, which, Brand says, he would now sell for $360,000.

Tells of Stock Gift.

Questioned by his attorney, William Gemmill, Brand said he gave Mrs. Brand $125,000 worth of stock a year after their marriage in 1924.

"I gave her diamond rings and other jewelry," Brand said, "$3,000 worth. Once she wanted a place she saw up in Door county, Wisconsin. I bought it for her for $35,000. I took her on many trips to the east and the southwest. We always had two cars."

"Ever strike her?" asked Gemmill.

"No," Brand replied.

"Ever pinch her?"

"Well, perhaps," Brand said. "But always playfully."

Threats on Life Alleged.

Brand, who is 70 years old, accused Mrs. Brand of threatening his life twice. Once, he said, she threatened him with a knife. Mrs. Brand, who is 44, sat talking meanwhile with her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

Presently Cantwell objected to Brand's referring to the little black book he carried.

"It contains excerpts from my diary," Brand explained.

"Mrs. Brand tells me," Cantwell said, "that he writes his diaries in pencil and frequently changes the things he writes."

Judge Desort continued the hearing, and Mrs. Brand returned to their home at 37 Cedar street while Brand went to his quarters in a hotel at 1456 Fargo avenue.

ST. LOUIS MAYOR CONSIDERING BAN ON ILLINOIS COAL

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 24 (AP).—Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann said today it was his opinion the only way St. Louis could bring about an immediate solution of its smoke problem was to bar the sale of Illinois soft coal.

The mayor announced he was willing to sponsor an ordinance to shut out Illinois coal completely—it is sold here now under certain limitations—if the plan was acceptable to the public.

The mayor's announcement was made after a two-hour conference with Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker and other city department heads. During the last three weeks St. Louis has had several virtual "blackouts" from heavy smoke palls.

A suggestion to bar Illinois coal was made three years ago, Dickmann recalled, and brought a threat of a boycott from Illinois communities with which St. Louis merchants do $40,000,000 business annually. Dickmann said the proposed ban would cut off the source of cheap fuel and would force "the poor as well as the rich" to pay more for coal.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

What is the best way to reduce rents and taxes?

Where Answered.

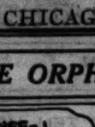
In Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

Maurice Adams, 402 East Smith street, Bloomington, Ind., student—Government services should be simplified; there is too much overlapping. If government were more efficient, maybe taxes could be cut. To cut rents there should be more construction, but uncertainty retards building.

Edna Lambour, 5427 Kenmore avenue, secretary—Taxes should be reduced—and I see no reason why they can't be—by a lot of cutting on the public pay rolls. Then rents could be lowered. It wouldn't impair government services if the right people were fired—but would they be?

Knute Erickson, 604½ North Clark street, painter—Property owners pay too much in taxes. Tho I am a painter, I think wages in the building business should be cut a little and the cost of materials reduced to help reduce rents. How can taxes be cut with so many public projects?



DeWayne Scott, 104 Jefferson street, La Porte, Ind., student—So far as I know rents are fair in La Porte. We hear few complaints. There is some grumbling about taxes, but I don't know whether they are too high. I think there should be more study of public services to bring improvements.

George Chesley, Mitchell, S. D., medical student—If you cut down public spending, then taxes can be cut and rents will go down. Government should be run like private businesses—you should get a dollar's worth of services for every dollar spent. That isn't the case today.

ROLLER CANARIES ALL A-TWITTER; VYING FOR TITLE

A roller canary lives a quiet, secluded life, practices scales every day, and finally, when it can handle anything from a bass roll to a bell roll it makes a debut.

Yesterday, before a delicately adjusted microphone, 176 birds began a three day competition in the Stevens hotel for the roller championship of the United States. They are entries of members of the South Town Roller Canary club, Illinois Roller Canary club, and the American Bird Breeders and Fanciers. This is the first year the three organizations have joined in their annual show.

There will be a public recital by the winning rollers at 3 p. m. tomorrow, when the show ends, in the Stevens. Also present will be a roomful of other birds with no voice to speak of, but very bright plumage to preen, and a dozen or so choppers, and some warblers. A warbler is what happens when a chopper, or saloon singer, mates with a roller canary. It sings only torch songs.

Young Actor Challenges Pact to Aid His Sisters

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP).—Freddie Bartholomew, 15 year old film actor, today challenged the validity of a provision made in a custody settlement in 1936 for financial aid to his sisters, Eileen, 19, and Hilda, 17. The mother, Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew, sued for $19,000 on behalf of her daughters, who are now in England, contending they were to have been paid a percentage of his earnings, which she declares have totaled more than $200,000. Freddie and his guardian aunt, Miss Myllicent Bartholomew, also named a defendant, said in their answer the provision was invalid.

Marilyn Ford, 2½ years old, was burned fatally yesterday in a gasoline stove fire in the family's automobile trailer in a trailer camp at Archer and Harlem avenues, near the city limits. Her mother, Mrs. Marjorie Ford, who was preparing dinner, had left the trailer to get a bucket of water. When she returned Marilyn's clothing was in flames.

SURVEY ORDERED ON FAMILY HELP FOR RELIEFERS

Seek Indigents Whom Kin Should Aid.

An immediate survey to find indigents on the rolls of the Chicago Relief administration who are legally entitled to support from their relatives was ordered yesterday by Leo M. Lyons, CRA head. He asked Raymond M. Hilliard, head of the CRA fraud department and attorney for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, to investigate and report next week on any such cases.

Lyons acted after charges had been made that many of the families on relief should, under state law, be receiving some or all of the assistance they need from relatives. The state pauper act requires persons with means to support their grandparents, parents, children, grandchildren, and brothers and sisters who are in need.

Parley Planned on Legal Steps.

The relief commissioner said he will confer with Hilliard on legal steps to take to enforce this law in cases where relatives have refused to support indigents receiving relief. Last week Hilliard said such cases should be taken into court immediately by the CRA's attorneys.

At present the CRA permits a working child or other member of a family [except the father or other head of family] to retain 40 per cent of his earnings and requires that 60 per cent go to the support of the family.

Many Quit Jobs.

"We have learned, thru experience," said Lyons, "that an attempt to take all of a child's earnings for the support of his family nearly always means that the child leaves home or quits his job. Young people complain that there is no job incentive for them if it means nothing more than ordinary relief would mean anyway."

Relief officials, it was said, have received reports that some members of the professional social work staff have advised children with jobs to leave home rather than contribute part of their small earnings to the support of their family. Lyons said he would welcome specific evidence of this practice.

STATE HOSPITAL DEATHS DECLINE, BOWEN REPORTS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—The state department of public welfare announced today that the death rate in the state hospitals of Illinois for the fiscal year ended last June 30 was the lowest since 1924.

The statistics did not include deaths of 52 persons in the recent typhoid fever epidemic at Manteno State hospital. These occurred after the end of the fiscal year. The death rate for the fiscal year of 1938-'39 was 71.2 per 1,000 population, the department reported, as compared with 71.9 for the year previous. The highest rate recorded during the 17 year period was in 1938-'39, when it was 88.3. The lowest, in 1923-'24, was 67.2.

Director A. L. Bowen said the department, with the aid of more liberal appropriations than it formerly had, had been able to provide more adequate and more sanitary quarters for mental patients.

He's Been Paying 20 Years for Phone He Didn't Have

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP).—For 20 years John P. O'Laughlin has been paying 75 cents a month for the telephone that wasn't there. Telephone company officials discovered that when O'Laughlin was ill in 1919, a special extension instrument was installed at his bedside to allow him to communicate with his restaurant. When he recovered the special telephone was removed, but the charge continued each month on his restaurant telephone bill. On discovering its mistake the company notified O'Laughlin that a check for about $200 plus interest was being mailed to him.

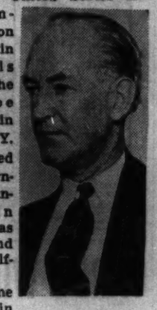
FUNERAL MONDAY FOR T. J. CULLEN, WHO FOUGHT NRA

Burial in New York for Printer.

Funeral services for T. J. Cullen, owner of the United States Law Printing company, who won wide attention in 1934 thru his clash with the NRA, will be held Monday in Syracuse, N. Y. Mr. Cullen died Thursday morning in St. Francis hospital in Evanston. He was 60 years old and lived at 843 Wolfram street.



T. J. Cullen.

Before he came to Chicago in 1926 to establish his printing company at 2817 North Halsted street, Mr. Cullen had been a newspaper publisher in the state of Washington, state director of printing in Alabama, a printer in Detroit, and a sheriff in Arizona. During the world war he was a captain with the 5th division in France.

Refuses To Fly Blue Eagle.

In 1934, Mr. Cullen refused to display the blue eagle of the National Recovery administration in his plant, but he hoisted the American flag instead.

A short time later he was cited by the Graphic Arts federation, printing code authority under the NRA, for his refusal to increase his prices for legal printing in the Chicago zone. Cullen said that in complying with code prices he would have to increase his selling prices by 40 per cent. He declared he paid his employés 37 per cent more than the code minimum and was making money at his own prices. He charged competitors were attempting to use the code to put him out of business.

Inquiry Reveals Nothing.

Mr. Cullen's plant was bombed and an investigation was ordered in Washington. He blamed persons attempting to force him into the code authority. The investigation failed to disclose who was responsible for the bombing. The Graphic Arts authority found Cullen "guilty" of violating the code. Nothing further was done and the United States Supreme court eventually found the NRA unconstitutional.

Mr. Cullen was born in Cripple Creek, Colo., and educated in the public schools there. His widow, Jennie, survives.

TAVERN'S RIGHT TO FURNISH CURB SERVICE UPHELD

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—Retail liquor taverns in Illinois have the same right to give their customers curb service as do soda fountains or lunch stands, Attorney General John E. Cassidy held today.

The attorney general's opinion, first official interpretation of the state liquor law on this point, declared the statute as enacted by the legislature does not limit liquor sales by the drink to the building housing a tavern.

Cassidy held drinks could be served to customers seated in automobiles either in parking lots or on a public street immediately adjacent to the tavern property, so long as traffic regulations were not violated. Cassidy wrote the opinion for Saline County State's Attorney Lloyd H. Melton of Harrisburg.

BRITISH BUYING BAN HITS MORE EXPORT ITEMS

Twenty Luxuries on Forbidden List.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—Well informed persons reported today that the United Kingdom's wartime import restrictions had halted "until further notice" her purchases of about twenty more kinds of American products covered by the British-American trade treaty.

They estimated that the Kingdom's purchases of these goods, including fresh apples and pears previously barred, and a number of articles considered luxuries—mounted to $21,220,000 in 1936.

It was said that other items which England would not purchase "until further notice" included canned asparagus, sweet corn, and tomato juice, pecan nuts, cash registers, cleaning and laundering machines, vacuum cleaners, felt base floor coverings, musical instruments, perfumery, sports apparatus, soap, leather handbags, and "motor cars" [presumably pleasure cars].

France Requiring Permits.

France is requiring permits for all imports, it was said, and, altho the extent of her restrictions are not yet clear, she is granting no permits for apples nor for tobacco shipments into French colonies. In addition, she has halted some exports to this country.

Whether trade losses suffered by the United States as a result of the allies' import restrictions would be offset and perhaps overshadowed by increased purchases of war supplies, officials declined to guess.

At the time the arms embargo was repealed, it was estimated unofficially that Britain and France would place $1,000,000,000 of war orders in this country in the near future. Statistics are not yet available to demonstrate whether this forecast is coming true.

Forecast Debate in Congress.

The wartime operation of the trade agreements with the United Kingdom and France may be a subject of discussion in the next session of congress. The trade agreement act, under which these and other pacts were negotiated, is due to expire next June 12.

Secretary of State Hull made clear today his conviction that the program should be continued. Altho he did not commit himself on the question of waging a fight for its reënactment at the next session, he described the program as an indispensable corner stone for lasting world peace.

The trade agreements give each contracting nation the right to impose import restrictions and prohibitions in event it becomes engaged in war.

CHICAGO SEEKS BANK INTEREST BIDS FOR FUNDS

The city of Chicago is advertising for bids from banks on interest rates on its funds in an effort to get the highest possible rate, Robert B. Upham, city controler, disclosed yesterday.

City funds vary from 40 to 60 million dollars, Upham said, depending on tax and other collections. Last year only two banks submitted bids—the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and the First National Bank of Chicago. Last year the bids were no interest on demand accounts and ¼ of 1 per cent for funds that the city would have on deposit for at least four months.

Because the banks are already glutted with funds which they are unable to put out at satisfactory rates there is no demand for large deposits such as the city might make, it was explained.

Chicago Firm Fined for Low Pay to Children

Judge Woodward.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday fined the Miller-Gebhardt company, 2050 N. Larrabee street, and two of its officials a total of $7,512 for violation of the fair labor standards act. The defendants pleaded guilty. It was the first prosecution under the act in the Chicago area, and the second in the United States.

The wages and hours division of the department of labor charged the company, described as one of the largest makers of artificial flowers, with violation of child labor provisions of the act.

Bars Work by Children.

The act provides that children under 16 cannot work unless the chief of the children's bureau decides the work will not interfere with their schooling and health. In no case can a child under 14 work, except for parents or guardian.

The government charged that children as young as 11 were found working in their homes for the company on a piece work basis. Pay ranged as low as 2 cents an hour and averaged 8 cents an hour among all persons employed, it was charged. Minimum pay provided for under the law was 25 cents an hour at the time of the violations, about a year ago. The legal minimum is now 30 cents.

Violation of both the maximum hour and minimum pay requirements was established by investigators of the wage and hours division, who determined the rate of pay by calculating the piece work rate and the length of time required to finish the work.

Fine President, Secretary.

For violations of the child labor provision, the company was fined $1,500. In a separate indictment, which was returned with the other indictment Nov. 20 by the grand jury, the company and Richard E. Gebhardt, president, and Harry W. Miller, secretary, were each charged with wage and hour violations. Each was fined $2,000 for violations of the minimum pay requirement, and also $1 on each of 4 other counts, which included falsification of and failure to keep the required records.

Edward Saltiel, attorney for the company, stated after the court decision that the company had no contracts with the children. Contracts for home work were made with adults, he said, and if parents allowed their children to work the company had no knowledge of it.

MIDWEST STORE SALES FOR WEEK UNDER YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago] during the week ended Nov. 18 declined 5.4 per cent from the level of the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales in the four weeks ended Nov. 18 however, were 6 per cent above 1938 levels.

Chicago department stores followed the seventh district's decline with a loss of 8.8 per cent from the level of the corresponding week of 1938, but advanced 5.7 per cent during the four week period.

Department stores thruout the nation showed gains of 2 per cent for the week ended Nov. 18 and 7 per cent for the four weeks ended the same date.

MEETING CALLED ON NEW FEDERAL FINANCING PLANS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—Secretary Morgenthau invited federal reserve officials today to confer with him Monday on some proposed large scale financing by the treasury.

Morgenthau has indicated that before Jan. 1 the treasury may borrow 500 millions of cash and issue new securities to refund $1,378,364,200 of 1¾ per cent treasury notes which will come due next March 15.

Another imminent financing operation is the sale of 50 to 60 million dollars of Tennessee Valley authority notes to enable TVA to repay the treasury for money advanced recently to purchase Tennessee properties of the Commonwealth and Southern utilities system.

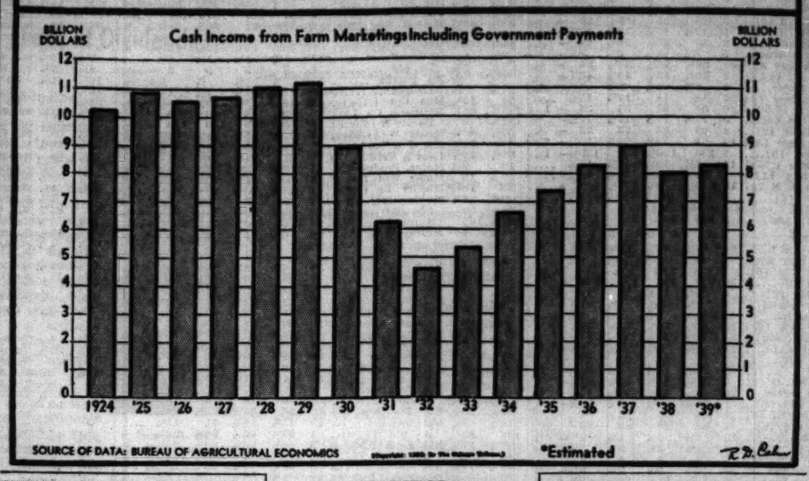
Farm Income in 1939 Larger Than in 1938—Government Says



Several Firms Vote More for Shareholders

Directors of the American Smelting and Refining company yesterday authorized a special dividend of $1 a share on common stock. The dividend raises 1939 payments to $3 a share, compared with $2.25 in 1938.

American Cyanamid company also declared a special dividend of $1, payable to class A and B stockholders in shares of 5 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock, second series, $10 par. The payment will be made in the ratio of one share of preferred for each 10 shares of class A and B stocks held. The board also authorized the regular quarterly payment of 15 cents a share on class A and B stocks.

Raise Joslyn Dividend.

The Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply company, Chicago, raised its dividend payment on common stock to $1.75 a share from 75 cents paid in each of the three preceding quarters. The payment raises this year's common distribution to $4 a share in comparison with $2 in 1938.

A dividend of $1.25 was declared on capital stock of the General American Transportation corporation. The previous payment was $1.12½. The new dividend brings 1939 payments to $2.37½, compared with $2.25 in 1938.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. announced a special dividend of $1 a common share. Payments for the year now aggregate $1.50 a share, against 25 cents in 1938. The company is a leading manufacturer of Diesel engines, scales, and pumps, and has headquarters in Chicago.

Directors of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Chicago, voted a dividend of 50 cents payable Jan. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 21. This continues the rate in effect in the three preceding quarters. In January, 1939, the company paid $1, and in all of 1939 has paid $2.50 a share.

A number of other companies voted larger payments for shareholders.

FARMER INCOME OVER 6 1-3 BILLION FOR TEN MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—American farmers received an estimated cash income of $6,335,000,000 from marketings and government subsidies during the first 10 months of this year.

Reporting this today, the agriculture department said income from the same sources during the corresponding period last year was reported at $6,193,000,000.

The October income was put at $894,000,000, compared with $836,000,000 in the same month last year. Government benefit payments last month totaled $82,000,000, compared with $62,000,000 in October last year.

The farm income from marketings alone during the first 10 months of the year was estimated at $5,695,000,000, or 2 per cent smaller than that for the same months last year. In the January-October period, this year, government payments totaled $640,000,000, compared with $395,000,000 in the same months of 1938.

BANKERS OFFER HIGHER BID FOR UTILITY'S STOCK

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP).—Otis & Co., Cleveland financial house, offered in a letter today to Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, to underwrite an issue of 125,000 shares of common stock of the Consumers Power company "at a price substantially in excess" of the $28.25 a share for which the company has proposed to sell the issue to Commonwealth and Southern.

A copy of the letter was filed today with the Michigan public service commission here, which on Nov. 10 authorized sale of the stock for the $28.25 price. A copy also was sent to the federal Securities and Exchange commission.

Willkie Explains Sale.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, said tonight the Michigan Public Service commission fixed the $28.25 a share price at which his company proposed to buy 125,000 shares of stock of Consumers Power Co., a subsidiary. He said the matter was purely an intercompany transaction, the net result of which is a contribution by Commonwealth and Southern to the capital of the subsidiary company.

AMERICAN FIRM AGREES TO SELL OIL FOR MEXICO

Export Negotiations Near Completion.

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (AP).—Officials of Petroleos Mexicanos, government controled oil administration, said tonight that negotiations virtually had been completed with a United States concern to dispose of Mexico's entire exportable oil production of about 88,000 bargels a day.

The name of the American agency, the price set, terms of the contract, and other details of the projected agreement were withheld. It was said an official statement might be made later.

Await Terms of Deal.

It could not be determined whether the American company had contracted to purchase all Mexican exports or merely serve as an agent authorized to sell the oil.

The new contract, it was understood, would supersede Mexico's contracts with Germany, Italy, and South American countries. Because of the immediate benefits of the new agreement, the government was reported ready to risk invalidation of the other contracts, which have been almost inoperative since the outbreak of the European war.

The strain placed on Mexican economy by the virtual disappearance of the nation's foreign oil markets was said to have enhanced the attractiveness of the American deal.

Exports Cut Drastically.

Since the war, the allied blockade of Germany, the failure of Italy to provide tankers to ship the oil contracted for under her rayon-oil agreement with Mexico, and Mexico's lack of tankers to transport oil to South America have combined to curtail sharply Mexican oil shipments.

Altho the petroleum administration announced in October new contracts had been let to take care of all exportable oil into 1940, it is known that Mexican oil exports have declined nearly 58 per cent compared with those of July, when large shipments were going to Germany and Italy. July exports totaled 2,440,684 barrels.

The Mexican Supreme court indicated it would render early in December its decision on constitutionality of the government's expropriation of the foreign owned oil industry.

EASTERN AIR LINE DIRECTORS WILL MEET IN CHICAGO

Directors of the Eastern Air Lines, Inc., with headquarters in New York, will hold their monthly meeting at the Chicago club this morning, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager, announced yesterday. This is the first time since the company was organized 19 months ago that the company will have held a directors' meeting in Chicago.

Capt. Rickenbacker, who was America's most noted war flyer, said the meeting here is in line with the company's policy of conducting executive meetings at various points along its airway in order to give directors an intimate glimpse of operations at key cities. The Eastern Air Lines' action is in line with THE TRIBUNE'S policy of urging companies to hold directors' and other meetings at the scene of operations.

After the meeting, Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal company, will be host to the directors at a lunch at the Chicago club. He is a director of the company.

Higher Income Gives Evidence of Trade Gains

Continued evidence of improved conditions in varied lines of business was shown in corporation earnings statements issued yesterday.

National Power & Light company reported consolidated net income of $2,497,103, equal to 38 cents a share, during the three months ended Oct. 31. In the corresponding period last year, net income totaled $2,228,452, or 33 cents a share. The company controls a number of utility operating companies.

Addressograph-Multigraph corporation, manufacturer of business machines, reported earnings of $204,322 during the September quarter. Net income was equivalent to 27 cents a share, and compared with $92,224, or 12 cents a share, in the September quarter of last year.

Public Service Earns More.

In a statement issued under requirements of the federal securities act, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois reported net income of $4,296,306 for the 12 months ended Oct. 31. No comparison for the preceding 12 month period was available, but for the year ended Dec. 31, 1938, the company had net income of $3,635,025, or $5.42 a share.

Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., reported earnings of $521,816, equal to $2.61 a share, in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30. Net income in the preceding fiscal year totaled $486,434, or $2.43 a share. The company operates a chain of drug stores in Michigan.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—Industrial bonds moved to higher levels today, joining low yield issues in an advance which left most of the rest of the market far behind. The Associated Press average of 10 industrials was 101.4, the highest recorded since Sept. 22, 1937.

United States governments declined as much as 9-32 point in limited dealings, but a few plus signs still showed in this group.

Foreign bonds generally declined. Among the notable exceptions were French stamped 7s of '49, up 10 points at 119 on a small sale.

Chicago Stocks.

Declines of fractions to more than a point were posted against most issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Favorable dividend news lifted Joslyn Manufacturing common to a new 1939 high, however. It closed ⅝ point higher at 50⅝. Total sales thruout the list amounted to 38,000 shares.

The exchange reported arrangements were completed for the sale of a membership at $1,800. This was $100 lower than the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

First National dropped 2 points in Chicago bank stock trading yesterday, closing at 227 bid. Continental Illinois also declined, losing 1 point to a bid price of 86⅛. Other issues were unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hogs and pork met broad demand at the Chicago stockyards yesterday at prices that were fully steady to strong compared with Wednesday, despite rather liberal supplies. Most early action converged in the trade for lights under 210 pounds, altho later buying orders came into the trade for butchers and sows that resulted in a good clearance for all classes. Some final sales were 5 to 10 cents higher.

It was reported in the trade that some of these hogs were bought to fill an export order for light carcasses which were said to be billed to go to England by way of Canada.

The small two day run of cattle on the market yesterday met good demand at steady to strong prices. Only a few heavy short fed, failed to share in the improved demand.

Better action featured the trade for lambs yesterday at prices steady to 15 cents higher.

ICKES SUMMONS POWER FIRMS TO TELL OF PLANS

Extension of Government Ownership Foreseen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the national power policy committee, today initiated a series of conferences with electric power systems from which is expected to emerge the New Deal's latest pump priming and government ownership scheme. It is said to be a gigantic 600 million dollar power grid covering the public and private power systems east of the Mississippi. The first group of utility men will meet with the committee on Dec. 5.

In letters to the utility systems, Ickes asked them to come prepared to state their power facilities to "meet the full peace time and emergency demands" in their territories. The ostensible object is to determine the expansion necessary to operate munitions industries, as well as peace time industries in time of war.

Government Plants Foreseen.

On the basis of this estimate the New Dealers intend to force scrapping of "obsolescent" privately owned utility equipment and the construction of government owned and operated systems to meet the increased industrial demands of war.

In his letter Ickes asked the utilities to "submit by mail at the earliest possible date the following data, in duplicate for your system:

"1. Recent load data by months showing the net energy available for load, the maximum demands, and dates and hours of peak loads.

"2. An up to date calculation of the system net assured capacity, taking into consideration any new equipment which is under construction or has been ordered and any equipment to be retired upon completion of new installations, and to include all changes in reserve capacity requirements as reflected by present operating practice.

Asks About Expansion Plans.

"3. A detailed list so far as may be available of proposed installations or capacity additions, proposed transmission lines, or system layouts as now contemplated for the next five years in 1944. This statement should be so noted as to show clearly any work which is now under construction and any which has not been started but has been authorized.

"4. A chart showing by years the history of installed and dependable capacity of the system and peak loads. The history should extend back as far as records are available.

"5. If the system in recent years has been operated along with others under some forms of power pool operation or common dispatching, the data requested in items 1, 2, 3, and 4 for the combined systems should be submitted in addition to the data for individual systems."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Late Fall on the Farm.

November 24, 1939.

WITH one of the farm boys already putting out his traps to catch furbearers, a November wind rustling thru the faded brown leaves on the oaks, smoke curling from the smokehouse chimney, bittersweet berries on trailing vines, and juncos in the weed patches, the whole atmosphere of the farm this week was quite typical of the season. It looked like late autumn in the fields and woods no matter where we hiked one day early this week.

In one heavy stand of oak and wild crab trees, where a few months ago the towhees, catbirds, and brown thrashers could be seen, there now is only an occasional flock of juncos and the noisy talking of a bluejay. The long grass in this part of the farm now is being frequented by the rabbits. Walking slowly thru the grass you may be startled by having one of the cottontails suddenly come to life right at your feet. The animals have made snug little pockets in the dead vegetation and they are likely to stay there most of the day.

Many Bittersweet Berries.

There are many orange and red berries on the bittersweet vines this year. In fact, some of the vines have so many attractive berries on them that even good. One of the largest clumps of bittersweet is on a farm road, where it may be seen quite easily by people passing in cars. One of the boys on the farm was telling us yesterday that he saw some autoists stop and pick a sprig of bittersweet from this one conspicuous vine which has entwined itself around some wild crab trees and also grown over a wire fence.

A small flock of wild mallards that has been visiting the farm during the last week seems interested in the black swans. In former years the wild ducks invariably stayed on the biggest of the three ponds. Around sundown we could sit among the willows which grow at the edge of the water and watch the birds circle around the water and then slowly come down to the pond to spend the night. And every bird was well fed after a day in the cornfields. This week the wild mallards were keeping close to the black swans, which are on a small, round pond in the center of the farm. It was amusing to see the birds swimming around behind the large black swans as if they felt the "big guys" represented safety and protection for them. We noticed that the swans paid no attention at all to their visitors.

Many Ducks Remain.

The autumn has been so mild in northern Illinois that a number of pintails and mallards have refused to fly south to the Illinois river. These birds have located ponds or small lakes west and northwest of Chicago, where they may rest away from the guns of hunters. And there are cornfields nearby in which they find food.

It's not surprising that quite a number of these migrating birds have continued to stay in northern Illinois during November. But all these birds will head south as soon as winter really cracks the whip and puts ice on the shallow ponds.

HOLDING CONCERN PAID MORE THAN UTILITY EARNED

Associated Gas Official Tells of Dividends.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24 (AP).—A witness at a securities commission hearing testified today that for several years Associated Gas and Electric corporation had paid dividends in excess of its earnings to A. G. & E. company, top unit in the billion dollar Associated Gas utility system.

The witness was Henry A. Stix, vice president and controler of A. G. & E. company, whose testimony occupied the first day of a hearing ordered by the SEC on a proposed order to prevent A. G. & E. corporation from paying dividends on its capital stock.

Henry A. Stix.

Denies Impairing Assets.

After Stix had acknowledged that dividends exceeded earnings, Louis N. Dabney, SEC counsel, asked if that had not dissipated the corporation's assets. Stix said that it had not, and explained that assets of subsidiaries had increased during those years.

In ordering the hearing, the SEC said it had "reasonable cause to believe" that the corporation was about to pay dividends on its capital stock out of capital and unearned surplus, and that such action would "impair the financial integrity" of the system. Associated Gas company owns all of the capital stock of the corporation.

Disputes SEC Position.

Clarence W. Miles, counsel for Associated Gas, said he believed the commission had no basis for its action because the stock in question was issued before the rule under which the commission is acting had been put into effect. Examiner William W. Swift, presiding at the hearing, made no comment.

Much of the day was given to a recital of the system's position during financial difficulties after 1929.

WHICH COCA-COLA?

Is Coca-Cola stock which is listed on the New York Stock exchange the same as Coca-Cola International corporation stock which is going to pay $23.40 a share on Dec. 15? If I buy Coca-Cola stock before Dec. 1, the record date, would I receive the dividend of $23.40? —C. J. E.

Answer: Coca-Cola International corporation, a holding company, is the largest stockholder in the Coca-Cola company, manufacturers of a beverage syrup. The stocks of both firms are listed on the New York Stock exchange, but those of the international company are not traded actively.

The dividend of $23.40 a share payable Dec. 15 on stock of record Dec. 1 was declared on the common stock of Coca-Cola International, not Coca-Cola company. This payment will raise the total disbursed on this stock in 1939 to $38.85 a share compared with $34.97 in 1938.

Common stock of Coca-Cola International purchased on the exchange on Nov. 30 and later would not share in the dividend. In order to be recorded on the books of the company as a stockholder on Dec. 1, it would be necessary to purchase the stock on Nov. 29 or earlier.

WHEAT LOWER DESPITE POOR CROP OUTLOOK

Wheat prices were on the downgrade yesterday despite a strong array of bullish crop and weather reports. Easiness in securities and failure of outside buying to develop on the dry weather reports from the southwest resulted in local operators turning to the selling side of futures. Prices declined about 1 cent at one time. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were at losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent.

A winter wheat crop of only 350,000,000 bushels may be harvested next summer, it is tentatively estimated by Cargill, Inc., in its monthly market summary. This would be the smallest yield since 1900, and would compare with 551,000,000 bushels harvested this year. Average production during the last 10 years has been 560,000,000 bushels.

Corn prices held within narrow limits and closed unchanged. Export sales of 250,000 bushels were reported, presumably to the continent.
